Dr. Laughinghouse Tells Doctors One-Third of Sickness Is Preventable: Full Text of Address

"North Carolina is spending today less than fifty cents per capita for preventive medicine and more than $16 per capita on sickone third of which is preventative," declared Dr. Charles O'H. Laughinghouse, State health officer, who addressed the Johnston County Medical society in Benson Friday night.

e's talk is as follows:

The time has come, I think when those of us who are inter ested in preventive medicine can with profit to the country view our undertaking not so from the standpoint of sentimentality and emotionalism as from the standpoint of economics. Let's admit the thing and see how it

We have come to know, if we accept the law of averages a knowledge, that a baby is worth born. At least this is the amount which would have to earn six per cent interest to bring the eighteen years age, at which time by the law of averages the child is self-support-

There were in round numbers unsolicited and in such a way gres 6,500 deaths of infants under one last year. They are approximate-6,500 infants would be ten thouearnings are estimated to be $30,s3,750,000; and divide this by two and we have $1,875,000. The two when added make $5,625,000 which was lost by the state last year by the deaths occurring among the state's population at the age of 18.

for only the three age periods-what we could have saved in dollars and cents in North Carolina we had prevented one-third of the deaths in the age periods mentioned. The amount would be $20,978,083. Now there is another phase of evaluting preventive medicine by the scale of dollars and cents and that is the cost of sickness. Every year in North Carolina this cost reaches a staggering amount. It has been definitely figured out from a national standpoint, considering the population of the United States to be 120,000,000 people; and with these standards the cost of sickness among the

The maximum future net earnings for males is reached at the age of 25, and, by the law of averages, this is considered to be $32,000; for women, $16,000.
