

Cotton—This article has risen so rapidly within the past week, and is now so unusually high, that we would advise our readers who hold their crops to bring them in with all convenient despatch. It may go higher, but is, we apprehend, much more likely to fall before the end of the season. It has, on Saturday and yesterday, readily commanded 14 1/2 to 15 10.—Fay. Obs.

Petersburg Market, Nov. 10.—Cotton—The demand continued brisk till the close of the market on Saturday, and considerable sales were made, chiefly at 15 a 15 1/2.

This morning there is less animation in the market, in consequence of the accounts from England to the 4th October being unfavorable—no sales had taken place when our paper was put to press, but the offers are full 1/2 lower than our last quotation.—Int.

A Smart Legislator.—The Carolina Watchman gives the following exquisite piece of oratory as a stump speech, delivered by a candidate for the Legislature in Rockingham county:

"Gentlemen—Hem!! I am no orator, nor I don't pretend to it—But I have a thing or two to say—I understand that I have been accused of turning against Gen. Jackson. It is a fact that I did one while soiter talk agin him, but the reason was, I took a damn one sided paper, called the Watchman and didn't have my eyes open; but I have stopped the damn'd thing now and have got right.—I do say most reverendly gentlemen, damn that paper, and damn the money that went to pay for it."

The Watchman adds, "This man is now a member of the House of Commons." What is our county coming to!

There will be a three days meeting held at the Old Church in Tarborough, by the Methodists, to commence on Saturday, the 15th Nov.

MARRIED.

In Mecklenburg county, Va. on Tuesday evening, the 4th inst. by the Rev. Mr. Steele, Dr. John W. Potts, of this place, to Miss Lucy Nelson Boyd.

Also, Mr. Thomas B. Hawkins, of Shelby county, Tenn. to Miss Mary Boyd.

DIED.

At Woodville, Bertie county, on Monday last, Margaret Cotten Thompson, aged 18 months, only daughter of Mr. Noah Thompson. But a few days ago she sported in all the playfulness of childhood, the joy of her parents and delight of their friends—each day disclosing some new charm, some fresh tint of beauty, to those who so fondly watched over her infancy. But she has been suddenly summoned from this world, pure as its virtues and unsullied by its cares, to enjoy a repose sweeter than her own infant dreams. Parents alone can appreciate the pangs of an affliction like this—but all can mourn it, and feel that sympathy which relieves the wounded heart and wipes off the tear of affection.—Com.

In Washington City, on Saturday morning, the 1st instant, Isaac Tompkins, Esq., of Binghamton, N. Y., in the 38th year of his age, leaving an amiable and affectionate widow and three orphan children to mourn their irreparable loss. Mr. Tompkins had been, for several years, an extensive stage proprietor and mail contractor, in which he had gained the entire confidence of the Department and of the public. As a gentleman of honor and integrity, he merited the esteem of all who knew him. If a conscientious discharge of all the relative duties of life, both public and domestic, combined with benevolence and philanthropy, in all his intercourse with man, could afford protection from the shaft of death, he had still lived. But the mandate of Jehovah is irrevocable.

"Dust thou art, and unto dust thou must return."

He died in peace, and in the confident hope of a glorious resurrection.

Though far from home a numerous concourse attended his funeral, which took place on the 2d inst., testifying by their unadvised sorrow the respect which was borne to him in life, and the honor due to his memory while slumbering in death.—Telegraph.

North Carolina Standard.
The Constitution, and the Union of the States—they "must be preserved."

THE undersigned proposes to issue a Weekly Newspaper, with the above title and motto, in the City of Raleigh, North Carolina. Practically a Printer, and having for many years conducted a Press in another part of the State, the principal object of the undersigned, in now locating himself in Raleigh, is employment for himself and support for his family. And believing that the establishment of a Paper at the Seat of Government, which shall do justice to the venerable and patriotic Chief Magistrate of the Union, and to the measures of this Administration, and through whose columns the legitimate and cardinal principles of Republicanism shall be defended and inculcated, is demanded by the present crisis of political affairs, and called for by the sentiment of the People of the State, the undersigned has adventured to engage in the enterprise, with the hope of being sustained in his efforts for the accomplishment of so desirable an object.

It is an anomaly in the political history of the times, that in a State which is so emphatically Republican in principle as North Carolina—which has on three several occasions, by large and triumphant majorities, supported and sustained Andrew Jackson for the Presidency, believing and knowing him to be a safe depository and faithful representative of their principles—and whose People, it is confidently believed, are still devoted to his cause—should have no paper at its Capital, through whose columns the measures of his Administration can be fairly vindicated, and the voice of his friends freely heard. It is the desire, and shall be the zealous endeavor of the undersigned, to afford that facility.

His earliest political impressions were in unison with those of the Democracy of the nation; which experience, and his growing years, have conspired to strengthen, until the settled principles of his maturer age are but the realization of his early convictions. Cherishing these sentiments, at the first demonstrations in favor of Andrew Jackson for the Presidency, the undersigned (at that period the Editor of a paper at Salisbury) espoused his cause, believing that one possessed of such lofty patriotism, and whose signal services to the country so emphatically constituted him its benefactor, could not be other than a most worthy representative of the Democracy of the Union. With continued and unshaken confidence in his patriotism and integrity of purpose, it is with highly gratified feelings that the undersigned is now afforded an opportunity of devoting himself anew to the same cause, but in a more extended sphere.

Ardently attached to the National Constitution, and to the Union of the States, as constituting an impregnable safeguard to our political, civil, and religious rights, whatever may have a tendency to violate the provisions of the one, or endanger the perpetuity of the other, shall receive the most unreserved condemnation at the Editor's hands. And while the freedom of speech and the liberty of the press, blessings guaranteed by the great Charter of our Rights, shall remain unawed by the threatenings of ambition, or unsmothered by the corruptions of aristocracy, the Editor promises, not only that "the Constitution and the Union of the States," (which he has adopted as the motto of his paper,) shall be strenuously vindicated, but that a rigid enforcement of and prompt obedience to the popular will, that most important principle of Representative Government, shall be called for and advocated through the columns of his paper.

A full and fair discussion of those important and leading political topics of the day—the United States Bank, Internal Improvements, and the next Presidency—will be admitted in the "Standard." But opposed, from principle, not only to the U. S. Bank, but to all other National moneyed monopolies, as well as to a wasteful system of Internal Improvements by the General Government, the Editor will raise his voice against these ill-advised measures, in whatever shape they may be presented; and he will equally oppose the exercise, by Congress or the Executive, of all constructive powers, believing that the perpetuity of the Union is only to be secured by a judicious division of powers between the General and State Governments, allotting to the first only that which is strictly delegated to her, and to the latter what is clearly reserved to them. As regards the all-absorbing question of Who shall be our next President? The Editor will, in due time, be ready to inscribe on his banner the name of him who shall be selected by the Democracy of the States, as the Republican Candidate.

Although, at this particular juncture, a more than ordinary attention to General Politics is called for by public sentiment, yet it is the design of the Editor to devote a large portion of his paper to the local affairs of the State, and the peculiar interests of her citizens. Located at the Seat of Government, he will be enabled to communicate to the People early and correct information of the proceedings of the Legislature while in session, and to give prompt advice of all acts of other servants of the People. He will zealously advocate whatever may contribute to develop the rich resources, unfold the latent energies, and elevate the character of North Carolina, as well as encourage all that may tend to enlighten the People in regard to the internal advantages with which they have been blessed by nature. He will strive to make his paper a disseminator of facts—an asserter of the truth—a vindicator of innocence and virtue—a censor of vice—an advocate of justice—a promoter of harmony and social order in the community—a detector of fraud, imposture, and crime—and a sentinel, promptly to warn the People of the first approaches of every danger with which their rights and liberties may be threatened.

In fine, it is the Editor's desire and hope, should gentlemen of leisure and suitable acquirements favor him with their contributions, to render his journal useful to the Agriculturist, profitable to the Christian, entertaining to the searcher after news, instructive to the man of science; amusing to the miscellaneous reader, and a "Standard" under which the patriot and politician may rally, confident of a secure defence against the evils of Consolidation, and a still more dangerous political heresy which seeks to spread itself through the land, "mingling its fitful blasts with the steady current of Consolidation, and threatening, by a combined movement, greater injury than any before dreamed."

With this brief expose of the object, the design and future purpose of his journal, the Editor throws himself upon the liberality of the public, and solicits such aid and assistance from those who may be friendly to his enterprise, as shall enable him to sustain a Paper which shall be no discredit to the State, but worthy of the cause which it is his pride and boast to be an humble but zealous advocate.

The "North Carolina Standard" will be printed on an imperial sheet, at least equal in size and execution to any paper in the State; and issued once a week, at three dollars a year.

The first number, it is hoped, will be out during the first week in November; the Editor therefore requests, that the names of all those who shall have subscribed previously to the last of October, may be immediately thereafter forwarded to him at Raleigh, that he may be enabled to determine how many of the 1st No. to strike off.
