HOW WE MAY INCREASE SOIL FERTILITY.
Mistakes That We Have Made in Commercial Fertilizer Matters—We Must Co-Operate With Nature.
 There is, perhaps, no question of greater importance to the farmers of our State than that of soil fertility.

The fertility of the soil would remain practically unchanged if all the ingredients removed in the various farm products were restored to the land. Many farmers of this State have tried to do this by the use of commercial fertilizers but instead of improving the soil they have greatly depleted it. Commercial fertilizers have been one of the greatest injuries the farmers have ever had. They have planted but one crop mainly cotton, and used commercial fertilizers to keep this crop up to the maximum until the soil has, by the growing of only one crop, become hard and caked and devoid of humus, the most essential element for plant growth. The land fails longer to produce paying crops and is considered "worn out."

Such has been the method of farming through the middle section of the State for many years. Such lands as these cannot be brought up to a state of productiveness by the use of commercial fertilizers alone. And even if it could be done it would be so expensive that the average farmer would have to leave his farm unimproved, and go to the town or city to work in a factory, because he has not the money with which to purchase such a vast amount of fertilizers. It is impossible for a man to bring up the soil of a worn-out cotton field to produce profitable crops by the use of commercial fertilizers alone, because in most cases they seek to make all the plant food available. This soon robs the soil of its fertility and puts it in a barren and unprofitable state.

FATE.
 (Susan Merr Spaulding.)
 Two shall be born the whole wide world apart.
 And speak in different tongues, and have no thought.
 Each of the other's being, and no heed;
 Yet those o'er unknown seas to unknown lands
 Shall cross: escaping wreck, defying death,
 And all unconsciously shape every act
 And bend each wandering step into this end,
 That one day out of darkness they shall meet
 And read life's meaning in each other's eyes.
 And two shall walk some narrow way of life,
 So closely side by side, that should one turn
 Ever so little space to left or right,
 They needs must stand acknowledged face to face:
 Yet these, with groping hands that never clasp,
 With wishful eyes that never meet, and lips
 Calling in vain on ears that never hear,
 Shall wander all their weary days unknown.
 And die unloved. And this is Fate.

HOLDS UP A CONGRESSMAN.
 "At the end of the campaign," writes Chas. Clark, Missouri's brilliant congressman, "from overwork, nervous tension, loss of sleep and constant speaking I had about utterly collapsed. It seemed that all the organs in my body were out of order, but three bottles of Electric Bitters made me all right. It's the best all-around medicine ever sold over a druggist's counter." Overworked, run-down men and weak, sickly women gain splendid health and vitality from Electric Bitters. Try them. Only 50c. Guaranteed by any druggist.

WHAT THIN FOLKS NEED.
 Is a great power of digesting and assimilating food. For them Dr. King's New Life Pills work wonders. They tone and regulate the digestive organs, gently expel all poisons from the system, enrich the blood, improve appetite, make healthy flesh. Only 25c at all druggists.

Value of Alfalfa Hay.
 One hundred pounds of alfalfa hay contains 11.3 pounds more digestible matter than the same amount of red clover hay and one-half times as much protein. It contains only 2.3 pounds less of total digestible nutrients than the same amount of millet hay, and almost two and one-half times as much digestible protein as much as prairie hay; more than four times as much as cornfodder; six and one-half times as much as oat straw, and thirteen times as much as wheat straw.

HOUSEWORK
 Too much housework wrecks women's nerves. And the constant care of children, day and night, is often too trying for even a strong woman. A lady writes to tell the story of the overworked housewife and mother. Battered nerves, lameness and falling of the womb result from overwork. Every housewife needs a remedy to regulate her menses and to keep her sensitive female organs in perfect condition.
