A GIRL OF GRIT.

She Went After Pecans In a Balloon In Texas.

"It's de tallest pole dat knocks de persimmons," said the old Kentucky colored brother long ago, and Miss Bernice Bardine, a Texas girl of nineteen, has proved the old saw also true a case of one of the most noted of the Lone Star State's products, the pecan. The finest pecans in the world grow in Texas, where many orchards and groves have been planted. Since the invention of the machine to separate nut meat from its troublesome shell the value of the pecan crop has increased.

The pecan tree is a species of hickory and grows very tall, sometimes 150 feet high. Its branches sprangle out slim and bushy, so far from the tree trunk that the outer portions will not bear the weight of even a boy who tries to crawl upon them, and according to that exasperating plan with which nature often tantalizes humanity the finest, largest and fattest pecan nuts grow upon those very limbs which are inaccessible to any creature but a bird or a cat. Bernice Bardine studied for months the problem of how she could get them.

Bernice and her brother last year earned considerable money gathering and selling pecans. The brother is the younger of the two, and Bernice is the brains of the partnership. She was evidently born with the commercial talent. After gathering the nuts last year she laid her plans for a campaign this year which should net her much larger gains. During the winter she matured them.

The first part of her scheme was to learn all that was to be found out in regard to pecan groves and their product on the one hand and the marketing of the crop on the other. She made journeys to see both the owners of the groves and the merchants who bought the crop. She thus learned where the largest product in Texas might be looked for, also where to expect the best prices. That was the first part of the programme.

The next was to buy in advance the crops of the best groves, precisely as the enterprising merchant buys tobacco in the field. She kept her plans to herself likewise, and here she showed the acumen of a great American financier. Her investigations had shown her that pecans were going to sell at a good price this season, and she secured them in advance. In due time buyers from wholesale nut houses in the cities appeared among the pecan grove owners in the Colorado river valley offering 7½ cents a pound for the nuts. They found that the girl Bernice Bardine, scarcely as yet out of short dresses, had bought the product of every pecan orchard in that region. She had actually leased for $100 a grove in which some of the trees bore twenty bushels apiece, and the sum total of the yield amounted to nearly $5,000 from this one grove. She had certainly proved herself the tallest pole here.

But one matter vexed her not a little. The finest pecans of all were apparently inaccessible. They were in the tops of trees where the picker dared not climb. The custom has been to brush the nuts off with a thrashing pole as high up as the tree climber could reach. Those beyond him had to be left, and they were the choicest nuts of all, bushels and bushels of them. "I will have those nuts if I have to go after them in a balloon," said Bernice. "They are worth several thousand dollars."

Some of the tallest pecan trees in Texas grow at Granite Shoals, and as a matter of course their tops, which nobody can reach, are every summer full of the choicest nuts. They hung and swayed there before the eyes of Miss Bardine till she could bear the tempting sight no longer. Then this irrepressible Texas girl ordered a hot air balloon to be brought to Granite Shoals. A furnace was built in the grove and the silk bag was inflated with hot air. The girl, armed with a pecan thrashing pole, got into the car, and up the balloon went with her to the tops of those giant trees where the big nuts grew. Upon the ground below men held fast to the guy ropes while Bernice got the pecans.

My LAST was flying past.
He sought for an inn where he might sleep,
Sheltered from storm and blast.

He traveled on through mud and mire,
When, to his great delight,
He saw an inn and a friendly fire
And went there for the night.

He reveled in my WHOLE,
Which quickly made my LAST MY FIRST
And cheered his lonely soul.

HEADS SHOULD NEVER ACHE

Never endure this trouble. Use at once the remedy that stopped it for Mrs. N. A. Webster, of Winnie, Va.,—she writes "Dr. Kings New Life Pills wholly cured me of sick headaches I had suffered for two years" Cure Headache, Constipation, Biliousness. 25 cents at all druggists.

Mrs. Fred Unrath,

President Country Club, Benton Harbor, Mich.

"After my first baby was born I did not seem to regain my strength although the doctor gave me a tonic which he considered very superior, but instead of getting better I grew weaker every day. My husband insisted that I take Wine of Cardui for a week and see what it would do for me. I did take the medicine and was very grateful to find my strength and health slowly returning. In two weeks I was out of bed and in a month I was able to take up my usual duties. I am very enthusiastic in its praise."

Wine of Cardui reinforces the organs of generation for the ordeal of pregnancy and childbirth. It prevents miscarriage. No woman who takes Wine of Cardui need fear the coming of her child. If Mrs. Unrath had taken Wine of Cardui before her baby came she would not have been weakened as she was. Her rapid recovery should commend this great remedy to every expectant mother. Wine of Cardui regulates the menstrual flow.

WINE OF CARDUI

Holding Sure.

This hunting story comes from Scotland: When the beaters came out of the covert, one of the guns said to the keeper, "Have you got all your beaters out?"

"Aye," said the man, astonished.

"Are you sure? Have you counted them?"

"Counted them!" said the keeper; "Aye, they're all right."

"Then," said the shooter, with a sigh of some relief, "I have shot a roe."

Raising His Salary.

"You told me last week that you would try to raise my salary," said Briggs.

"Oh, yes," replied his employer. "Well, I did. I raised it after some trouble. Believe me, I had a very hard time raising it this week."

A Simple System.

Teacher—In what year was the battle of Waterloo fought?

Pupil—I don't know.

Teacher—It's simple enough if you only would learn how to cultivate artificial memory. Remember the twelve apostles. Add half that number to them. That's eighteen. Multiply that by 100. That's 1,800. Take the twelve apostles again. Add a quarter of their number to them. That's fifteen. Add what you've got. That's 1,815. That's the date. Quite simple, you see, to remember dates if you will only adopt my system.

This ticket after being numbered is sealed in two envelopes, these two enclosed in another envelope and mailed to Mr. J. G.
