The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it. It is heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure, etc. It is often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidneys poison the blood and attack the vital organs of the body. Many have broken down and waste away for years.

Kidney trouble most always results from a disarrangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney and bladder remedy.

It is a natural remedy to hold urine and excrete it in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The rapid and extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sized bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new remedy and a book that will tell all about it, both in English and Spanish, free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Poughkeepsie, N. Y. When writing mention the name of the newspaper in which you saw this advertisement. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., on every bottle.

A MARCH ELOPEMENT

By Howard Sedgley

Copyright, 1910, by T. C. McClure

Sarah Goodhart, daughter of old Deacon Goodhart of the village of Chatham, had lived to reach the age of twenty-five without being married. She hadn't got married for the simple reason that she was too romantic. The deacon was a man who called a spade a spade, and his wife was a woman who made her own soft soap. When Sarah got her romantic notions beyond guessing, she had them, though, and they drove away her would-be suitors. They had come spouting a time or two.

Sarah would have married Sam Jones after he had bought a widow over a year, but the young fellow had a change in the will instead of out under the apple trees and was refused an having no romance in his soul. She could have married young Kelly as he was about to set up as a lawyer, but he could not write verses, so Sarah knew that there could be no bond of sympathy between them.

The deacon said to his wife: "What Sarah needs is to fall off the beam and get some of those notions jacked out of her head."

But Sarah waited for her knight to appear, and she did not wait in vain.

Not all of us will have French valets or maids; not all of us will need to read the German philosophy and history and science that can't be got in translation; not all of us will sell goods to Spanish speaking people who have no money to buy goods with and no need for goods; but all of us will have to read, write and speak the English language. And how many of us will ever be able more than to read, write and speak at all.

There never was such a language as the English, especially since we Americans have got at it with explorative and inventive minds. To know how to pronounce its wonderful words, to understand exactly what they mean, to have a large and well selected stock of them in our vocabulary—there is a big need in our civilization, one that no other nation could have without the help of some clever teacher as a general of superior intelligence—Samuel Kresling Post.

A Very Curious Case.

A very curious drug is one found in certain European countries and which is known as "Gorky." A small dose of this is asserted to produce a healthy, energetic, and irascible disposition, that the person affected has a very strong desire for arithmetic. Those suffering from the influence of this drug will go to almost any length in their efforts to obtain pencil and paper, and, once provided with these, they will write down columns upon columns of figures, and then spend hours and in some cases days trying to add these up. Curiously enough, it is stated that these figures are never worked out to a correct result by those suffering from the effects of "Gorky." The cure is either death or insanity, generally the latter when the mania takes the form of doing useless sums in addition.

The Fleeth Ho - Gorky.

It is said of Martin Gorky, the French writer, that he died at a table (that one day in one of his periods of "Gorky" mania) and was much annoyed by the importunities of an old lady who sat opposite him.

"Won't you try, sir," she said, "a little of the check."

"No, madam," Gorky answered.

"Perhaps, then, you would like some of the boiled ham?"

"No, madam," he replied.

"What, then, would you have a portion of roast beef?"

"No," said the madist, continuing to scribble furiously.

"Some sweet nation?" resumed the indefatigable old lady.

Gorky gave her a stern look. "Let me inform you," he said, "that I never eat any flesh, but human flesh, and I prefer that raw."

Best Family Medicine in Use.

Hon. W. T. Crawford, Prof. Judge, writes from Williamston, N. C.:

"I have used Dr. Worthen's Family Remedies for years for violent diseases of the bowels and found it to be of unflinching efficacy. Believe it to be the best Family Medicine in use." Price 25 cents. For sale by S. R. Biggs and dealers.

INDIGESTION

"I was troubled with stomach trouble. Thedford's Black-Draught did me more good in one week than all the doctors for a week. I took it a year." — MRS. SARAH E. HARRISON, Elmerville, Ind.

Thedford's Black-Draught quickly regulates the action of the stomach and cures every chronic case of indigestion. If you will take a small dose of Thedford's Black-Draught occasionally you will keep your stomach and liver in perfect condition.

THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT

More sickness is caused by constipation than by any other disease. Thedford's Black-Draught not only relieves constipation but cures diarrhea and dysentery and keeps the bowels regular.

All druggists sell 25-cent packages.

Thedford's Black-Draught is the best medicine to regulate the bowels I have ever used." — MRS. A. M. GRANT, Elmerville, Ind.

CONSTIPATION

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The undersigned having been cured and healed by simple means, after suffering for several years with a severe lung affection, and that direct constipation was a main cause of his illness, he will cheerfully send (free of charge) a copy of the prescription used, and they will send a cure for Consumption, Cough, Catarrh, Bronchitis, and all other Lung Affections. The herbs and ingredients used in this remedy, as it is invaluable. Those desiring the prescription, which will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing, will please address: Dr. EDWARD A. WILSON, Brooklyn, New York.
