Healthy Mothers Mothers should be in bodily health. They owe it to their children. Yet it is no unusual sight to see a mother, with babe in arms, coughing violently and exhibiting all the symptoms of a consumptive tendency. And why should this dangerous condition exist, dangerous alike to mother and child, when Dr. Boschee's German Syrup would put a stop to it at once? No mother should be without this old and tried remedy in the house—for its timely use will promptly cure any lung, throat or bronchial trouble in herself or her children. The worst cough or cold can be speedily cured by German Syrup; so can hoarseness and congestion of the bronchial tubes. It makes expectoration easy, and gives instant relief and refreshing rest to the cough racked consumptive. New trial bottles, 25c.; large size, 75c. At S. R. Biggs.

Speech of Mr. R. Oscar Everett The following is only a brief sketch of a speech delivered by Mr. Oscar Everett before the Teachers of Martin county on the 14th of July. Mr. Everett is a very forceful and logical speaker. He had experience in debating all through his four years at the University, and received the highest honor able to be conferred on a debater by that Institution in being chosen to represent her in a contest with Johns Hopkins University. He completed with one of the strongest members of the class below him and won out easily. He said: "The teachers of our county must understand their responsibility and the position they hold in our communities. It is the duty of the teachers to train our youths to a standard of education equal to that of the community in which the pupil lives. The teacher is the person who proclaims the dignity of work. The teacher is the moulder of the child's character and therefore of his destiny. Hence, Mr. J. N. Jeffreys, of Richmond, Va., who has been visiting his nephew, Mr. G. B. Simpson, near town, left Wednesday for his home. The teacher must be of the very best calibre both from an intellectual and a moral view point. "Education is the development of mental capacities. The child's mind is not a store-house to deposit dead facts but it is a work-shop with tools ready for use. "Thoroughness is the greatest thing in teaching. Let a true idea be driven home with the force of a sledge hammer. It must be made to stril e. Self-discipline is another important thing in the school room. It is the dividing line between a civilized man and a barbarian. If a child is not taught self-discipline he is little less than a man and a little more than a brute. "A teacher should never give vent to his or her feelings. The teacher should be as level-minded as a judge." The school is a miniature edition of society. This fact must be pressed upon the pupil. "The school must have law and order. An obedient pupil makes an obedient and law-abiding citizen. Character is the greatest thing in education after all. Train a child in the paths of honesty, integrity and right-doing, and you have an educated man in the fullest sense of the word."
