

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure, and apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles most always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sized bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both names of Swamp-Root, sent free by mail, Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

FEEDING APPLES AND PUMPKINS.

Experiments Showed Good but Expensive Gains.

Farmers generally regard pumpkins highly as a fall pig feed. They are succulent, palatable and nutritious, and, properly fed, give profitable returns. Experiments at three stations where the utility of cooking pumpkins was studied show that the practice added little to the efficiency of the ration. The gains from feeding were good in all cases and economically produced. Pigs fed on raw pumpkins and grain showed gains at a cost of 262 pounds of grain and 376 pounds of pumpkins per 100 pounds of gain where the pumpkins were fed raw, and 222 pounds of grain and 1,150 pounds of pumpkins for each 100 pounds of gain when they were cooked.

Another test at the same station with a ration of cider or windfall apples and pumpkins, equal parts, cooked, showed good but expensive gains, the high cost being attributed to the apples.

Management of Manure.
The need of keeping manure moist is especially marked in case of horse manure, which is naturally dry and decomposes with great rapidity. The same is true in a less degree of sheep manure. The common and harmful "fire-fangings" is the result of an insufficient supply of water and may be readily checked by sprinkling.

A method employed in the preparation of this well-rotted manure in France, described in Farmers' Bulletin, is as follows: The manure is placed on slightly inclined plats of packed earth or cement, so arranged that the leachings drain out into a pit, from which they are pumped up and distributed over the manure heap. It is usual to provide two manure plats, so arranged that when one is full (when the manure is 8 to 10 feet high) it may be allowed to ferment undisturbed while the other is used. The manure is carried from the stables to the top of the manure heap in wheelbarrows over an inclined plane of boards. Care is also taken to smooth down the sides of the heap, to prevent the too free access of air and the loss of leachings, as described in the illustration.

Feeding Sheep for Market.

The farmers who wish to feed sheep for market should be sure to convince themselves that it is a business by itself and that regularity and uniform attention must be the constant rule. We would place first and above everything, proper qualification to carry on the business. The fitness must consist of untiring energy, perseverance and a reasonable amount of discretion and financial genius, with a natural inclination to pay careful attention to detail—a concentration of ideas on one subject. With a man fitted for the business must go proper surroundings. A dry, sunny spot should be chosen for the corrals. If possible, get a gentle south slope for the ground, so that natural drainage will be secured. Running water is desirable if well arranged. It should be so encompassed that it will run, through a trough with force sufficient to keep it from freezing. If this cannot be done it should be shut off at night.

Shelter for Animals.

When stacking straw either in the field or barnyard, a good shed suitable for cattle, sheep or hogs, or even rough farm tools and implements, may be made with little work. Before thrashing, secure six posts, eight feet in length and forked at one end if possible. At the place the stack is to be built, set the posts two feet deep in the ground in rows of three posts on each side; the rows eight or ten feet apart, and posts nine feet apart in row. Make two poles each 20 feet long and place one on each row of posts for crosspieces to hold the top. Lay aspen poles six or eight inches apart on top of the crosspieces and set ordinary poles slanting around the frame, leaving one end open. The poles should be close enough together to keep the straw from falling in or being pulled out. Build the stacks on top of this frame and a comfortable shelter will be provided.

Feed the Sheep Salt.

It is very desirable that sheep should be kept so tame as to be easily caught and handled, and the weekly salting is a powerful aid in making the sheep docile. The salt may be dropped, in small handfuls, on the sod, or put into small boxes kept in the field. If the salt is dropped on obstinate weeds, or tuft of coarse grass, the sheep will eradicate them, and better herbage will take the place. With a little time spent each week in letting the sheep eat from the hand, or the dish, the whole flock can be kept very tame, and the time will be amply repaid whenever it is necessary to move the sheep to other pastures, or to catch any for other purposes.

Geraldine—Why not?
Gerald—If he is brave he will face you, father, and after that interview his good looks will be gone.

Better for the Worse.

"But, John, didn't you take me for better or for worse?"
"Yes, Miranda, but things have come to that state when I am going to insist on some of the better."

It is a sin to suffer with back-ache and pains over the kidneys when a single dose of Pine-ules will give relief in one night. Suffering women should heed these warnings ere it is too late. Female troubles may result. Pine-ules will strengthen the kidneys and bladder, cleanse the blood and relieve the aches and pains of Neuralgia and Rheumatism. Sold by S. R. Biggs.

"THERE'S A CURE FOR RHEUMATISM!"

Not the mere temporary relief that the old "remedies" gave, not the little help that the doctor's prescriptions give; but ABSOLUTE AND COMPLETE CURE. That is what Rheumacide does. Rheumatism is caused by an excess of uric acid in the blood. It is an internal disease and requires a strong and vigorous internal remedy that will cleanse the blood of all its germs and yet act through such natural methods that it builds up the entire system.
