FRIDAY JANUARY 19, 1906.

Birthday of R. E. Lee.

Today is the birthday of R. E. the very greatest man the th has produced, since Washagton, and how strange a coinnt it is that these two big souls were born in the same county in Virginia, Westmoreland, and not twelve miles apart were the spots where they were born.

It is well for us to stop, amid the hurry and strife of our business activities, and think for a short while even, of the superlative worth of an individual like R. R. Lee, what a force for good he has Benjamin H. Hill of Georgia said of him. "When the future historian shall come to survey the character of Lee, he will find it like a huge mountain above the undulating plain of humanity, and he must lift his eyes high toward Heaven to catch its summit. He possessed every virtue of other great commanders without their vices. He was a foe without hate, a friend without treachery, a soldier without cruelty a victor without oppression, and a victim without murmuring. He was a public officer without vices, a private citizen without wrong, a neighbor, without reproach, Christian without hypocrisy and a man without guile.

He was a Caesar without his ambition, a Frederick without his tyrrany, Napoleon without his selfishness and Washington without his reward.

He was obedient to authority as a servant and royal in authority as a king. He was as gentle as a woman in life, modest and pure as News & Observer, and the Raleigh a virgin in thought, watchful as a Roman vestal in duty, submissive to law as Socrates and grand as Achilles."

The Sanitary Condition of Williamston.

Never would the Russians have resisted the autocratic Czar if they had not gotten a taste of freedom before that time; never will the authorities of our town wipe out our pools of stagnation and putrefaction, until they have a taste, so to speak, for those things that make for municipal cleanliness

To be more specific, one has only to refer you to last summer for you to be thoroughly cognizant of the fact that the sanitary condition of our town is not as good as it was formerly, mosquitoes on the right of one, mosquitoes on the left of one, was the phrase that raked one's brain as he lay slumberless on his pil "a pitchy cloud of locusts hung ance. o'er the realm of impious Pharaoh' when Moses stretched forfh his rod to do the will of God, and bring a plague on the Egyptians.

The plague that we had was sleep. brought on by ourselves and unless we take care of our ditches, have them cleaned out, and attend to the sanitary condition of our town in general, we will be in the same category that Plymouth is, having the reputation that she has, of being the breeder of mosquitoes. Mosquitoes are not only the cause of a good many direful disc es but they are also the results of fowl pools of water and filthy back lots. The commissioners can remedy this evil as they no do lot will, if it ever appears to them as it does to me. They can make the merchants look after the cleanliness of their back lots or pay a heavy fine. They can themselves give warning to their street commissioner that they want that ditch on Main street close to Dr. Knight's cleaned and Makes You well All Over. forever afterwards kept clean and also the ditch beside Mrs. Lanier's place and many others that are out of order. If they, after investigation, find that the keeping of hogs in pens is detrimental to the good health of the town, then surely it is the business and duty of our officers to abolish such a pestwhether they themselves have one or not.

Our town is growing day by day and if we want it to continue to grow, we must fight against unsanitary things, to the the last degree.

Even the citizen, who is opposed to its growing larger, will not be against that which is conducire to his longevity.

Then let us have a clean town for the sake of our health and progress.

Blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles are instantly relieved by ManZan. This remedy is put been to the Southern people, to the up in collapsible tubes with nozzle attachment, so that the medicine may be applied inside directly where the trouble originates. Man-Zan relieves instantly. Sold by S. R. Biggs.
