Doubtless the Hon. Steve Elkins was created for some wise purpose, but nobody knows what it is.

Evidently Chattanooga was jealous of the attention which Springfield Ohio, received in the newspapers.

The Smoot case in the Senate cannot hang on forever. Even Schleswig-Holstein question was settled at last.

Nothing that Gov. Cummins may feel like saying about Steve Elkins will be too strong for popular indulgence.

When Chinese pirates loot a boat belonging to Standard Oil Company they will discover that they have barked up the wrong tree.

Mayo Rose has been nominated for a fifth term. Milwaukee seems to think that a mayor by any other name would seem "off color."

It's a safe bet that if the Committee on Ways and Means wants to stand pat on the tariff that the rest of the country will do so too.

England has discovered that her war with the Boers cost her $100,000,000. The war also cost the Republican party its Web. Davis.

Kuropatkin is trying to shift the blame for his defeats on the shoulders of some one else. Why doesn't he charge it to "Andy" Hamilton?

When she becomes queen of Spain, Princess Ena will have six royal palaces to look after, besides keeping a watchful eye on young Alphonso.

It is both tuf and rough that in the midst of plenty there should be famine prices on coal. When is the government going to bust the trust again?

Perhaps Mr. Rockefeller merely wanted to hide while his wicked partners put the price of oil half a cent a gallon so that he could prove an alibi.

A Georgia paper says that "Senator La Follette has succeeded in breaking the ice in the Senate." Has he been in a poker game with the vice president?

It is some consolation to know that the Senate is not entirely impervious to criticism. It is squirming visibly under the vociferous allusion to the "treason of the Senate."

The greatness of George Washington is all the more apparent when one considers how popular he became without any statesman of the Aldrich or Elkins stripe to fight him.

The Senate may be relied upon to stand pat on the statchood bill as it amended it. The Senate is so rarely on the popular side, of a question, that it will naturally make the most of it.

Although there is some doubt as to whether there will be a long coal strike, the operators have decided to prepare the consumer for the worst by putting the price up a few notches right away.

It looks as if the man who used to figure out the Pennsylvania Republican majorities, are trying to show why 12 per cent added to the miners wages will add $1.20 to the selling price of each ton of coal.

If the farmers of the County would take the same interest in the County paper as Mr. S. E. Hardison, we would have an ideal paper certainly. The article in this issue which this gentleman wrote, shows that he is a thorough student of the cotton situation. Read it and conclude for yourself, as to the good sense of it.

WAS IT A DREAM?

The ways of the Chinese are considered peculiar, but centuries ago they had what we, after deliberation, said we were going to have—an artesian well.

We do not think our people got together and discussed the question of good water in vain and we trust it will be forthcoming now, as this is the finest weather we have had and there is no excuse for further delay.

Public health is above all things else that we have to deal with, hence we, like our sister towns, are going to bore an artesian well.

Windsor, Plymouth and Scotland Neck recognized the fact that "the safety of the people is the supreme law" and bored artesian wells even though at a greater cost in the first case than was first thought.

Artesian wells are not new things and they are not native to any special soil, though in some sections of the world very deep boring is not so necessary as in other sections. Many wells have been driven to a great depth, the diameters varying from three to six inches.

The well in Plymouth is about two hundred feet deep and the water flows copiously. The well in Windsor is some deeper than this but it does not flow like a fountain.

We want to see one on our streets in a few months that will gush like a "sho' nuff" artesian well. Don't speak of the impossibility of a well. If one can be bored in the Sahara Desert certainly we can bore one here. Of course they are more gushing in the rocky sections, but the water is much purer and more healthful than the surface water, even where they do not gush.

The New International Encyclopedia says that the cost of a well is from two to three dollars a foot for one thousand feet and fifty cents greater a foot for each additional five hundred feet.

We want to see this good work begin right away. We ought to have healthful water—the crystal kind.

80 Year Old Woman Cured.

154 Suffered Tortures From Rheumatism For 20 years.

No matter how long you've been sick, no matter how discouraged you are from having tried so many remedies in vain, there is at last hope of a complete cure for you. The new scientific remedy RHEUMACIDE, has cured hundreds of cases of Rheumatism, Sciatica, Joint, Catarrh, Indigestion, Constipation, Liver and Kidney Troubles, La Grippe and Contagious Blood Poison, after all other remedies have failed.

RHEUMACIDE cured James Jenealy and J. F. Eline, of Baltimore, of terrible cases of Rheumatism after all the specialists at the famous Johns Hopkins Hospital had failed. RHEUMACIDE cured W. R. Hughes, of Atkins, Va., after noted New York doctors had failed.

Here is the case of a woman eighty years old who was cured by RHEUMACIDE after she had suffered for 20 years.

"High Point N. C. July 19 N. C. "After suffering for about 20 years with Inflammatory Rheumatism I was induced to try a bottle of RHEUMACIDE. After taking one bottle I have felt five years younger. I am now 80 years of age, and wish to testify that I believe RHEUMACIDE is the best remedy for Rheumatism. And I heartily recommend it to all who are suffering with any of the forms of this dread disease.

Very truly, Mrs. Mary E. Welborn. Your druggist sells and recommends RHEUMACIDE. Sold by S. R. Biggs.

We Need Organization.

(Communication.)

Much as has been said relative to the cotton situation of to-day, yet I believe there is room, and really necessary, for something more; especially so if it be said by some one of confidence, merit and influence.

But as our most worthy men are manifesting no great concern as to the present outlook, I am constrained, incompetent as I am, to call attention to a few facts pertaining to the present situation and to speak of a few of the sad experiences of bygone years, while pointing, though feebly, to some bright prospects ahead of the cotton growers, provided they use prudence and sound sense in the growing and marketing of their product.

It is admitted that the crop of 1905 to 1906 does not and cannot exceed 10,250,000 bales of cotton, 75 per cent of which had come into sight up the February 1, 1906, leaving a balance of only about two and one half million bales to come forward between February 1 and September 1, 1906, with a surplus from the crop of 1904 to 1905 of about 1,830,000 bales and a small movement of probably 300,000 bales for August ginning of the next crop, making a total supply of American cotton to come into sight and be taken by the spinners of about 4,500,000 bales.

It is shown by statistics that if spinners continue their monthly takings until next September as they have since last September they would require 7,980,000 bales to meet their wants.

Now, there are just two propositions to meet and comply with in order to bring a remunerative and stable price for cotton, and these are, first, to hold the small balance of spot cotton; second, plant moderately of the fleecy staple in the future, producing abundant food supply crop to enable producer to live at home and put his cotton upon the market slowly and regularly, as the spinners need it. But to do this we must have organization of the farmers; there must be unity of action among the producers; each and every cotton grower must know what others are doing and act accordingly.

Great is the contest that the Southern cotton growers have begun and noble will be the victory if they fight as one man. It is said that he who conquers himself is the greatest of victors.

Now let each cotton planter subdue his disposition to plant a big crop under the delusion that he will get more for it. Does not the farmer know that a small crop brings more money than a large one? Why produce a fourteen million bale crop when we know that that crop it takes four bales to bring one hundred dollars, while a ten million crop, two bales will bring an equal sum? Let us stand by the Southern Cotton Growers Association, obey its mandates, profit by its precepts, and follow its example—plant less cotton, more corn and other food crops and show to the world that we have the moral courage and sound judgment of Southern manhood.

It is a well known fact that the Southern States have a "God given monopoly" of the cotton culture of the world, and it should be as well known that the producer could easily control the production and marketing of his cotton, not by any individual or independent action, but by a united and concentrated effort the farmers of the South could easily regulate the production and fix the price of their staple.

We should use or entertain the term "monopoly" only in the sense that we have it on cotton raising, by divine heritage, and should not abuse or misuse so great a blessing. Neither should we allow a monopoly either in production or market of this great staple.

Brother farmer, do you not know that during the season of 1903 and 1904 the spinners and speculators told us to raise all the cotton we could and the world would take it good prices, and when they learned that we had made a "bumper" crop they offered us only 6 cents a pound for our cotton.

Now these same spinners and speculators are engaging future cotton at 10 cents, thereby inducing growers to produce another big crop. But of whom are they engaging as a rule except the big farmer, and that the because they believe or hope that such price will prevail next season, but actually leading the large producers into a monopoly in the sale of the next crop, their only wish or desire being to bring cotton below that price which would give big farmers who engaged to help them out the entire advantage over the small producers in case they succeed in inducing the growers to raise another "bumper" crop. S. E. HARDISON.

Fish are coming up the river slowly. The seine man is waiting patiently. A few are being caught with hand nets.

Look out for the Easter Show. We notice the large pile of tailor-made suits at the express office. After noting such, one would think times are really improving.

Our merchants are beginning to wake up to the fact that they must advertise in some way. We notice improvements in various ways, Dr. Hassell has just put in two nice up to date counter show cases, and has also secured the services of the much admired teacher, Miss Brint Hardison, who is known by many people, also we may cross the street and find Lilly and Martin going forward too. They have just built a large ware house, put in new doors to the store, rearranged their entire entire stock, put in the best new lights they could secure in oil lamps, and are making a nice display. Also if you will watch our "ads" in this department soon you will find that our people are not asleep.

Our streets have been a little too muddy for fat driving and there are a few holes that ought to be fixed, so our country people can come to town with their produce and not stall their team before they can unload the wagon. We ask the commissioners to look after such at once.

The District Council meeting of the Charitable Brotherhood convened with the Jamesville Lodge and every lodge in the county was represented except two. After the session the delegates and visiting brethren gathered in the academy grove, where a picnic was served, consisting of barbecue and many other good things were served to all. After the dinner lodge friends and ladies again convened when several speeches were made, then the meeting adjourned to meet with the Williamston Lodge in July. The Charitable Brotherhood is a new and growing fraternal order in our county, its laws are simple rates of insurance low, fraternal ties strong, which recommends it to all those who desire protection moral and intellectual development.
