The Brass Band

In the last issue of The Enterprise we had a short squib in regard to a movement on foot to organize a brass band.

Last Monday night a number of the young men of the town met and formed an organization for the purpose of getting up a band.

At the meeting Monday night it was decided to draw a paper setting forth the aims of the band together with the reasons for organization, and also the reason why Williamston should have a brass band.

Williamston is growing very rapidly and in a short time it will be so that a brass band will be needed frequently, and if there is not a home band then one must be secured from another town.

The saving in sending off for a band for three occasions will about pay for the instruments necessary for the present organization.

It must not be thought that the members of the band are taking this step for the purpose of making money, nor for the sole purpose of their personal pleasure.

The Williamston Land and Improvement Co. has just put in a large new safe and is fitting up its office, room 8 in the Godard Building.

ON BOARD THE FLIER

By Marlon Denton... Copyright, 1906, by E. C. Parcells

"We'll take those three seats. I suppose it's the best you can do. Lawrence, you sit there. No, no—on this side. There's a draft on that side."

"Where is Emily?" asked the husband, now settled unwillingly in the chair selected for him.

"By this time David Marston was not the only passenger interested in the domestic drama. Every man and woman in the car had laid aside paper or book, roused to attention by the piercing tones and dominating bearing of the woman.

"You don't think anything will happen to Emily trying to cross the platform?" asked the man anxiously.

"There's your chair, Emily," said the woman, waving her hand across the aisle. The girl turned, stepped across the aisle, looked at Marston, caught her breath sharply and sank into her chair, which she wheeled so that her back was turned squarely upon him.

"Don't tell me that a mere trifle like a beard makes me unrecognizable, Emily. I should have known you even if you had dyed your hair."

"Oh, I knew you at once. But the shock!"

"Precisely. It was a shock to me to find you with them."

"Being companion to a woman of her caliber is not work, eh?"

"No, not exactly—the law for pork men."

"Forgive me, Emily, but I simply had to do it. She is impossible."

"I'm so glad you have found success," said Emily in a calm voice, though her heart beat with unfeigned sympathy.

"It's a good old world after all. If you have no friends or money, in the river you can fall."

This man bought a supply of tobacco without acquainting himself with the distinctive taste of SCHNAPPS Tobacco, which has the cheering qualities that gratify his desire to chew, and at less expense than cheap tobacco.

SCHNAPPS has been advertised in this paper so that every chewer has had an opportunity to get acquainted with the facts and know that drugs are not used to produce the cheering quality found in the famous Piedmont country flue-cured tobacco, and that SCHNAPPS is what he ought to chew.
