Our best wishes to the county of Lee.

Even the politicians are planning to have a warm summer.

Finding fault without providing a remedy is a sign of weakness.

"Swans sing before they die." They have to if they sing at all.

The fellow who will never let you forget that he "once did you a kindness" is no friend.

We would like to know what kind of a "rooster" a hen-pecked husband is anyhow.

A few more days of hot sunshine, and the corn will begin to make a noise like growing.

Japanese radicals are simply amusing themselves by pulling at a few feathers of the eagle's tail.

When people thank God that they are not as other men are, the other men often thank God for it too.

Pearly should not lose heart. Subscriptions for the "Farthest North" fund may be expected to increase after the winter closes.

New York mail: According to the Washington Herald, an exposition visitor was fined $30 for kissing a Norfolk girl. Serves him right: should have thought about exposition prices.

A year and a half ago the White House bulldog, Pete, chased the French Ambassador up a tree one afternoon when he came to play tennis with the President. To prevent other international complications, Pete was exiled to the country. Washington now announces that Pete has been restored to favor, and once more he will growl about the White House grounds; but only at night when men in tennis togs will not appear.—Sel.

Will Fashion Change

When will the fashion in handwriting change again? And when it does change will it be for something more awful than the present atrocious English chirography scrawled with the brutal stub pen? There was a time, and not so many years ago, when lady wrote with a fine running hand, that breathed of sentiment and romance, of lovers' lanes and trysting places, and had just a whiff of lavender or orris root. Interesting letters, too, with news and gossip about one's friends; not scintillating with sarcastic wit and comment, but redolent of a quaint humor that left a smile behind. And those letters were kept, too, in fat little bundles and tied with slowly fading ribbons to delight the readers of future generations in an art that has fled.

No one writes letters nowadays: it takes too much time even to scratch a careless note with flippant "hastily yours," for in these days of progress the telephone is always at one's elbow, time is precious, and besides—we have forgotten how.

Business Audacity

Talk about young women lacking enterprise. A young woman, simply dressed and of an unassuming personality, made her way into the office of one of the business men in town the other day. Don't ask me how, that is her business, and her fell purpose was none other than to sell him an edition of luxe of something or somebody at umpty-umpty dollars. Imagine his rage when she guilelessly led up to the subject; he didn't take the pains to mince words about it either.

"My dear young lady," he said, with considerable warmth, "you don't appreciate how much of my time you are taking up in a fruitless errand. Do you know that

Cure Your Dandruff

Why? Because it is annoying, untidy. And mostly, because it almost invariably leads to baldness. Cure it, and save your hair. Get more, too, at the same time. All easily done with Ayer's Hair Vigor, new improved formula. Stop this formation of dandruff!

The new Ayer's Hair Vigor will certainly do this work, because, first of all, it destroys the germs which are the original cause of dandruff. Having given this aid, nature completes the cure. The scalp is restored to a perfectly healthy condition.

my time is worth $30 an hour to me?" And then he sat back in his chair to see her swoon at the enormity of her offence. Did she faint? Pool, she whipped out a check book, wrote a check for $15, and handed it to him with business gleaming in her eye.

"I'll take just one-half hour of your time at your own valuation just to give you a chance to take advantage of this exceptional opportunity, &c."

Of course she sold him the books, for he said that any one, man or woman, having that much audacity and enterprise ought to be encouraged to go in and win. Don't you think so, too?—Washington Post.

Women of The Confederacy.

The proposition by J. W. Bailey for the erection of a monument in capitol square to the memory of the women of the confederacy is one that should and of course will meet with the universal approval and support of the people of North Carolina, practically all of whom are sons and daughters or grandsons and granddaughters of the women of the confederacy.

The women who gave their husbands, fathers, brothers, sons, to the lost cause and sat at home and worked in the awful loneliness of the deserted home with aching hearts and heavy eyes and tired hands and weak bodies poorly nourished and worse clothed than they might make the lot of the loved ones in the field and on the road a little easier, and then, after the awful, dreaded line had appeared in the fatal newspaper list, kept right on working for somebody else's dear ones, those women were heroes whose lines were in a harder role than the soldier's in the open, with the physical exertion to give him sweet sleep in any event and prevent the ravages of a tortured nervous system.

And not only was the heroism of those women harder, but it was without the stimulant of battle excitement or encouragement in praise of superior officers or cheers of troops. It was potent in silence behind closed doors and window shutters. The blessings of the men in the camps when they received the warm socks or shirts in the dead of winter were not heard by those whose poor little ngs were so sore, whose delicate forms were racked with the excessive exhaustion that follows overexertion under nervous tension.

So it is peculiarly fitting that the world should be told even at this late date that North Carolina for her part recognizes as it should be recognized this kind of heroism.—Raleigh Times.

Children's Day Exercises a Success.

Instead of the regular exercises on Sunday of the William's Chapel Sunday School, the day was given over entirely to the exercises of the children's day. The church had been tastily decorated for the occasion with magnolias and evergreens under the supervision of Miss Hattie Everett.

All the children acquitted themselves well, but some parts of the exercises deserve special mention. The music rendered by Misses Emily Hyman and Olivia Early, the recitation by Jack Roberson, Ethel Everett's dialogue and the trio sang by Misses Early, Anna Everett and Supt. Early were especially good.

The pastor of the church Rev. Robert Daniels was present and made a very impressive talk to the young people.

The people of the community are to be congratulated upon the completion of their new house of worship. All the expenses for the erection of the new structure have recently been paid. The church will be dedicated at the next quarterly meeting which will be held on the 25th of Aug. Rev. Dr. Nash Presiding Elder of the Warrenton District will preach the dedicatory sermon.

Mr. Frank Boyle Dead

The death of Mr. Frank Boyle, which occurred at 8 a. m. yesterday was not a surprise to his friends. For months artificial respiration had served to keep him alive. He had suffered long with heart disease, and had sought relief from noted specialists, but none could be found.

Mr. Boyle had been engaged in the lumber business nearly his whole life, and for years lived at Brunswick, Ga., where he had extensive plants. Several years ago he came back to North Carolina and engaged in milling at Jamesville, N. C., where he died.

He was a man of splendid parts, intellectual, firm in his friendships and courtly in his bearing toward others. He died as he had lived, loved and honored by a host of friends and relatives in this and other states. He was a devout christian, and was devoted to every interest of the church. In her councils he ever took a leading part, and died strong in "the faith once delivered to the saints." He was lay reader for many months before his illness at the Church of the Advent, and took a delight in serving the congregation.

His body will be laid among the sainted dead in the yard of Grace Church at Plymouth today, where he had lived and worshipped when a boy and man.

His wife, one brother and four sisters are left to mourn their loss.

Two immense traction engines sent out by the J. I. Case Co. are on exhibition and one for sale by J. Paul Simpson. The larger of the two was run successfully through the streets and up and down the river hill, on Tuesday. Mr. Klingman, of the Case Co., engineered it, and demonstrated its power and utility.

Resolutions Adopted By the Vestry of the Church of the Advent

The Warden and Vestry of the church of the Advent being assembled in meeting this the 5th Sunday after Trinity June 29th 1907, Senior warden presiding adopted the following resolutions:

We desire to place on record our affection and esteem for our Rector, the Rev. B. S. Lassiter who has served us for several years. Mr. Lassiter has been diligent and faithful in the performance of his duties as rector, and under his ministrations the church has made such advancement that required more frequent services, and in parting with him as our Rector we beg that he take with him assurance of our appreciation of his unceasing efforts to inculcate and maintain among us that high standard of moral and religious life which he has so fitly illustrated in his own walk and conversation

We trust that he will meet us occasionally so that his successor may have the benefit of his council and advice and the congregation of his fatherly admonition.

The Secretary is instructed to furnish a copy of these resolutions to The Williamston Enterprise, the Mission Herald and the Edenton Transcript for publication, and to send copy to Mr. Lassiter.

Two Obituaries

John Doe died last week after a short illness, leaving a widow and five small children. Mr. Doe was seemingly a prosperous merchant, but in settling his estate his stock of merchandise had to be sold at a discount of 50 per cent, and the entire income was absorbed in paying his debts. Nothing was left to his family. Mr. Doe had intended taking Life Insurance, but put it off until it was too late. It would grieve him now if he could know that his family is an object of charity.

Richard Roe died suddenly this morning while on the train enroute to New York. His remains will be brought home for interment. Mr. Roe was a man of large business capacity and foresight. Just one year ago he took a $10,000 Life Insurance Policy for the benefit of his family. This amount well invested will bring an annual income to educate his children and support his family comfortably.

Moral Query—Would your name be John Doe or Richard Roe?
