The evidence indicates that the illness of H. H. Rogers was of the constructive variety.

The French are now playing billiards on an oval table. How can they ever expect the game to be on the square?

The legislative delegates to the Hague Conference can now go home and vote for appropriations for army and navy supplies.

When the Republican party opens the campaign jack-pot, the Sugar Trust can be relied on to do the usual amount of sweetening.

When the government duns John D. for that twenty nine million, he must be glad they are not in a position to shut off his light and heat.

Some people may have voted the Republican ticket in Oklahoma on the ground that a Republican president wouldn't let a Democratic State in.

"We must Walk in the Light", says Mr. John D. Rockefeller. And while he doesn't say it, it is not to be doubted that he means "The Kerosene Light".

The fruit crop having proved practically a failure, the beef trust comes forward with the cheering intelligence that the price of meat is to be raised in a few days.

It wouldn't hurt the Jamestown Exposition a little bit, if those social differences were settled by all hands going on "The War-path" and smoking the Pipe of Peace.

One of the surest signs of the approach of fall may be found on the sporting pages, where the pictures of foot-ball heroes in their hideous harness are again appearing.

According to the Baltimore Sun, only two things will influence Mr. Roosevelt to run, one being a unanimous demand from the country and the other being opposition to his nomination. From here, that looks like playing a cinch.

It is a feature worth considering now that such strong efforts are being made to turn the tide of immigration southward that the epidemic of violent crimes from which the north has suffered recently have been almost without exception committed by Italian immigrants, The Black Hand, the Mafia and the Commora, if there be any difference between the three, have vied with each other in a perfect orgy of murder, assault, blackmailing and kidnapping. The bulk of these crimes have been committed by newly arrived immigrants, and almost without exception, the criminals have been Italians.

Wm. J. Bryan at Virginia State Fair

Richmond, Va., Oct. 2. Special.—The coming of Hon. William Jennings Bryan to the Virginia State Fair at Richmond, October 11th, is looked forward to with eagerness by all those interested in the political situation. It has been rumored that Mr. Bryan will make a strong political address and very probably he will announce in pretty general terms the platform which he would like to see adopted by the National Democratic Convention.

It is barely possible Mr. Bryan will select the Old Dominion State from which to issue to the country a sound Democratic platform on which all can unite, and no more appropriate place can be selected than the Virginia State Fair where will be assembled thousands of people from various parts of the State and the country folks who like so well to hear good Democratic doctrine expounded by such an able orator as Mr. Bryan.

At the headquarters of the Arrangement Committee for Mr. Bryan's coming, letters are pouring in from prominent men throughout the State accepting the invitation extended them to serve on the Reception Committee to welcome Mr. Bryan to the Old Dominion. From present indications there will be a record breaking crowd. Full details of arrangements have not been announced, but it is understood that they will be very elaborate.

Mr. Bryan speaks in Nashville, Tennessee, October 9th, and will come directly from there to Richmond. Mr. Chas. B. Cooke, chairman of the Arrangement Committee, stated today that he had not anticipated such a hearty response to his request for enthusiastic welcome to Mr. Bryan.

Beecher in a Letter to His Son.

When working for others, sink yourself out of sight. Seek their interest. Make yourself necessary to those who employ you by industry, fidelity and scrupulous integrity. Selfishness is fatal. Hold yourself responsible for a higher standard than anybody else expects of you. Demand more of yourself than anybody expects of you. Keep your own standard high. Never excuse yourself to yourself. Never pity yourself. Be a hard master to yourself, but lenient to everybody else. Concentrate your force on your own business; do not turn off. Be constant, steadfast, persevering.

The Old Time Daguerreotypes.

When Daguerre and the men of his day took pictures it was a momentous occasion, one to be entered into with great solemnity. With head held fast between two rigid iron fingers and with eyes fixed on the upper right hand corner of some object, the victim had to sit for twenty minutes while science, new to this work, was transferring his reflection to the sensitive plate hidden back of that cyclops eye. No wonder these quaint old time folk look so sternly out of the little leather frames! No wonder the faces are set in such grim lines and the eyes gaze so somberly into futurity! The ordeal was enough to produce such effects in even the most lovable and winsome faces.

A Surpeman's Pain.

Among the acutest of the small miseries of my existence has been that of seeing a man or more frequently a woman take up and lay down in the midst of a running fire of desultory conversation in the trains, on the steamers, in the halls of hotels or on the seashore a story on which I might have spent all my strength and have written, as I supposed, with my heart's blood.—Hall Caine in Book Monthly.

She'd Thought of It.

"Never mind, dear," said a mother to her little girl, having vainly endeavored to persuade her to give one of her dolls to a child who had never owned one; "never mind. Perhaps some day you will be a poor little girl yourself, and then you will know what it is to have no toys." "Yes, mamma," she sobbed, "I have thought of that, and that's the reason I want to save all my things!"

Beauty.

Beauty is not an accident of things. It pertains to their essence; it pervades the wide range of creation, and wherever it is impaired or banished we have in this fact the proof of the moral disorder which distracts the world. Reject, therefore, the false philosophy of those who will ask what does it matter, provided a thing be useful, whether it be beautiful or not.—Gladstone.

Ready to Appear.

A criminal from the rural districts who had heard all about appeals to the supreme court and who had been convicted of a penitentiary offense was asked by the judge if he had anything to say. "I just want for ax one question, judge." He stooped down, picked up his satchel but from the floor, as though ready to depart, and said, "Whar 'bout is this here supreme court at?" San Francisco Argonaut.

"I am so happy"

"I am so happy," she said, "Ever since my engagement to Charlie the whole world seems different. I do not seem to be in dull, prosaic England, but in 'Lapland.'" suggested her little brother, who was doing his geography lesson. Illustrated Biss.

"Why do women insist on going to matinees for the sake of crying?"

he inquired impatiently. "Haven't they enough trouble of their own?" "I don't know," replied she. "Why do men insist on getting into a poker game for the sake of experiencing a new kind of financial worry?"

There is something about loneliness which sometimes borders on acidity that commands respect if it is based upon real self confidence, a consciousness of power, and not upon egotism. There is something sublime about a strong man who can neither be enjailed, rattled nor stampeded. Success.

Ethel—What a pretty mouth you have!

It ought to be on a girl's face. Jack—Well, I very seldom miss an opportunity.

Mrs. McCall—Have you still got that servant girl you had last week?

Miss Hiram—Oh, which day last week? Philadelphia Press.

He—When I leave you tonight I am going to take you in my arms and kiss you.

She—Dear me, how late it is getting!—Chicago Record Herald.

"Cheer up! There is a silver lining to every cloud."

"Well, what good is that? I haven't got an alibi!"—Pick Me-Up.

"What is it that makes men great, papa?"

"Persistent advertising very often, my boy."

Grandmamma—What are you doing in the pantry, Tommy?

Tommy—Oh, I'm just putting a few things away, gran'ma!

When You Take Cold

One way is to pay no attention to it; at least not until it develops into pneumonia, or bronchitis, or pleurisy. Another way is to ask your doctor about Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. If he says, "The best thing for colds," then take it. Do as he says, anyway.

When the bowels are constipated, poisonous substances are absorbed into the blood instead of being daily removed from the body as nature intended. Knowing this danger, doctors always inquire about the condition of the bowels. Ayer's Pills.

A Peculiar Frog.

South America has a frog of peculiar habits. Dwelling in the virgin forest, at the tops of the highest trees, it chooses as the site of its nursery some hollow stump and then proceeds to line it with rosin procured from trees in the neighborhood. This lining serves to catch and hold the rainwater, with which it quickly becomes filled. As soon as this takes place the eggs are laid therein, and here they undergo development into tadpoles. How the rosin is collected is a mystery, nor is it yet known how the separate pieces become welded to form the water tight basin necessary to insure the safety of the treasures deposited therein.—New York Tribune.

Two Breaks With One Stone.

The late W. E. Gladstone was not a figure who suggested humor, unless it was to his great rival, Disraeli, who once described him as "a sophisticated rhetorician, intoxicated with the exuberance of his own verbosity," but there was humor in his comment when his house in Harley street was attacked one Sunday by thousands of workmen, who were only driven off by a double line of mounted police. Gladstone gazed upon the debris of his hall and then remarked wryly that "the mob has broken the Sabbath."—Bellman.
