

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and saps ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased. Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose. Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonials letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

There is something about Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup that makes it different from others, as it causes a free yet gentle action of the bowels through which the cold is forced out of the system. At the same time it heals irritation always inflammation of the throat and lungs. It is pleasant to take. Children like it. Contains no opiates nor narcotics. Sold by S. R. Biggs, Williamston, N. C., Slade Jones & Co., Hamilton, N. C.

On Both Sides

By W. F. BRYAN. Copyrighted, 1907, by E. C. Parcells. "Looks pretty, doesn't it?" demanded Ted Barron as Nella Fenway came out on the broad piazza. The girl glanced over the well kept lawn, past the road and so across the fields to the cool dark of the woods beyond. "Pretty!" she repeated scornfully. "It's just the loveliest thing I ever saw. It looks almost like the country."

"I have been looking for you everywhere," he announced as he came toward her. "The ball is making a great hit. Every one says it is the best of the season, and as a reward Best says that I may have leave of absence for half an hour."

"Your sister makes a charming hostess," said Nella, with an approving smile. "It must be a great relief to have some one to take from your shoulder the burden of entertaining."

"I have been on both sides," she reminded, "and I like this side best. Society is all right for those who know nothing else, but I am awfully tired of it. Ted. It is all so artificial and so unwhimsical."

"I wanted to have the best," he said a little sulkily as he turned away. A little hand rested upon his arm for a brief instant, though he felt the impression after it had been removed. "It is the best—your best," she said. "But it's not a real farm dance any more than this is a real farm. Ted. It's all a play and a pretense. We were to wear print dresses, and Rita Fenway is upstairs getting into a de-collette mullin gown trimmed with real lace. That's her idea of the way a farmer's daughter dresses."

Ted glanced approvingly at the simple little print frock that suited so well the fresh, rounded figure and the pleasant face above. "It is useless to paint the lily—until the lily is faded," he said, with a little laugh. "When Rita Fenway gets to heaven and she finds her angelic robe is not to her liking she will search the other place for a dressmaker to fix it over. All dressmakers will go to the other place," he added.

"That's the feminine belief," assented Nella, with a rippling laugh that reminded Ted of the song of birds in the early morning. "That's where they ought to go," he growled. "Even eternal torture will not atone their crimes against art and nature in the way they fix over the dresses they have built on those wire models."

made curious patches of color on the polished surface of the specially laid dancing floor. On the lawn were scores of small tables served by negro waiters looking oddly unhappy in their overalls, which for the night replaced their usual service clothes. Yes, it was all perfect, but Nella smiled a little sadly to herself as she recalled the anticipations which the invitation had aroused. She still loved their old farm, but her stepmother would never permit her to go to the country. It was something she was supposed to forget.

Ted's fashionable "farm" had been a great disappointment to her. It was all so unreal, so insincere, and most of all she was disappointed in the dance itself. She made herself comfortable in one corner of the dark porch, where the music came but faintly to her ears and where she was not liable to interruption.

For an hour she sat huddled in a rustic chair that had cost as much as a whole parlor suit in real farm-houses, and it was not until she heard Ted's voice that she recalled herself to the present.

"I've been looking for you everywhere," he announced as he came toward her. "The ball is making a great hit. Every one says it is the best of the season, and as a reward Best says that I may have leave of absence for half an hour."

"Your sister makes a charming hostess," said Nella, with an approving smile. "It must be a great relief to have some one to take from your shoulder the burden of entertaining."

"Even eternal torture will not atone their crimes against art and nature in the way they fix over the dresses they have built on those wire models."

"How about the way you have made this farm over into a toy? That is just as bad."

"What's the matter with the farm?" demanded Barron. "It's one of the show places of the country. You are the only one who has said anything against it."

A tickling cough, from any cause, is quickly stopped by Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. And it is so thoroughly harmless and safe, that Dr. Shoop tells mothers everywhere to give it without hesitation, even to very young babes. The wholesome green leaves and stems of a lung-healing mountainous shrub, furnish the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough, and heals the sore and sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. Simply a resinous plant extract, that helps to heal aching lungs. The Spaniards call this shrub which the Doctor uses, "The Sacred Herb" Always demand Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. S. R. Biggs.

Muscular Pains Cured "During the summer of 1903 I was troubled with muscular pain in the instep of my foot," says Mr. S. Pedlar, of Toronto, Ont. "At times it was so painful I could hardly walk. Chamberlain's Pain Balm was recommended to me, so I tried it and was completely cured by one small bottle. I have since recommended it to several of my friends, all of whom speak highly of it." The finest Coffee Substitute ever made, has recently been produced by Dr. Shoop of Racine, Wis. You don't have to boil it twenty or thirty minutes. "Made in a minute" says the doctor. "Health Coffee" is really the closest Coffee Imitation ever yet produced. Not a grain of real coffee in it either. Health Coffee Imitation is made from pure toasted cereals or grains, with malt, nuts, etc. Really it would fool an expert—were he to unknowingly drink it for Coffee. J. A. Mizell & Co.

For that Dull Feeling After Eating. I have used Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets for some time, and can testify that they have done me more good than any tablets I have ever used. My trouble was a heavy dull feeling after eating.—David, Freeman, Kept, Nova Scotia. These tablets strengthen the stomach and improve the digestion. They also regulate the liver and bowels. They are far superior to pills and cost no more. Get a free sample at All Druggists and Dealers in Patent Medicine and see what a splendid medicine it is.

A Historic Spot. In the wall of the five-story tenement at the southeast corner of Oak and Oliver streets on the side toward the latter are inserted five bronze tablets, two between the second and third floors, one between the third and fourth and two between the fourth and fifth. It would be a safe wager that not one of the 150 persons living in the building knows the significance of these tablets. It was in a tavern on this spot that the articles of evacuation of New York were signed by the British on Nov. 25, 1783. The tablets were first placed in the walls of the old tavern. The builder of the tenement had some patriotism in his heart and built them into the tenements.—New York Sun.

Millions of bottles of Foley's Honey and Tar have been sold without any person ever having experienced any other than beneficial results from its use for coughs, colds and lung troubles. This is because the genuine Foley's Honey and Tar in the yellow package contains no opiates or other harmful drugs. Guard your health by refusing any but the genuine. C. C. Chase and S. R. Biggs.

No Longer Wanted. "Writing plays is risky business," said a famous dramatist. "Past triumphs don't count. He who has written twenty superb plays is just as likely to be damned on his twenty-first piece as any tyro."

There was once a playwright who sat in the front row at the first night of a new piece of his own. This piece failed. It failed dreadfully. As the playwright sat, pale and sad, amid the hisses a woman behind him leaned forward and said: "Excuse me, sir, but, knowing you to be the author of this play, I took the liberty at the beginning of the performance of slipping off a lock of your hair. Allow me now to return it to you."—New York Tribune.

Lalande's Dried Spiders. Lalande, the French astronomer, was better known for his objectionable habit of eating dried spiders than for his discoveries in astronomy. Lalande used to carry about with him a little silver box full of dried spiders, which he ate in public and amused himself by offering to ladies. One day he told the Comtesse de Perthuis, who did not reveal the fact till long after the astronomer's death, that he had never eaten a spider in his life and that what he carried in his box were only imitations made of chocolate by a friend who was a confectioner. He did it merely to advertise himself, for he was a vain man and considered that sufficient attention was not paid him as an astronomer.

Beware of Frequent Colds. A succession of colds or a protracted cold is almost certain to end in chronic catarrh, from which few persons ever wholly recover. Give every cold the attention it deserves and you may avoid this disagreeable disease. How can you cure a cold? Why not try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy? It is highly recommended. Mrs. M. White, of Butler, Tenn., says: "Several years ago I was bothered with my throat and lungs. Someone told me of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I began using it and it relieved me at once. Now my throat and lungs are sound and well." For sale by All Druggists and Dealers in Patent Medicine.
