Dr. Jos. H. Saunders of Everetts, the coroner, was notified of the crime and of the death, Tuesday morning, and he came to town and soon had a jury composed of the following gentlemen C. D. and J. K. Carstaphen, T. J. Latham, S. R. Biggs, F. K. Hodges and S.

The first witness to testify was John Tucker, who said that he was at the home of Mr. A. C. Jones, and from there went to the church. When he reached the church he was late and the congregation was at prayer. While waiting in the vestibule he looked back an saw a man standing at the gate, but did not recognize him.

F. Fagan was next called, and his testimony was that he was called by the sexton who told him that some one had been shot. Mr. Fagan went ont and found the man Joseph Hyde Pratt, State Geolo-lying at the gate, and went back gist, the following books: History and called Dr. Rhodes, who was in of the Gems of North Carolina, church and who went out to the man.
