—While playing around the depot last Sunday Maurice Watts had some words with a small negro boy, which resulted in Maurice receiving a part of a brick on the head. It was an ugly wound, but Maurice is all right.

—Thursday morning early Mr. Marks, who is employed by Mr. J. L. Woolard, the Harrow and Cultivator manufacturer, had part of his thumb cut off. His thumb got caught in some of the machinery, as did a colored man's in the same establishment some weeks ago.

—Wednesday morning while feeding his horse, Mr. W. J. Hodges received an ugly wound, caused by the horse kicking the door, which struck Mr. Hodges on the upper lip cutting it badly, it required several stitches to sew it up. Mr. Hodges is attending to business as if nothing had happened.

—In this issue we begin a news department of Robersonville, edited by Prof. John D. Everett. Any one in that section having any item of news which they wish published will please hand the same to Mr. Everett. We are indeed glad to secure the help of Prof. Everett and are confident that the people of Robersonville will have a faithful representative. Prof. Everett also has authority to receive subscriptions for the Enterprise, or to designate some one in town to do so for him. We hope that the people of the town will respond promptly when called on to renew their subscriptions.

MISSION WEEK

Conducted By Bishop Strange
—Services Daily

By H. A. BIGGS

In accordance with his engagement Bishop Strange arrived Saturday night the 15th inst. to be here for the beginning of the Mission Week, notice of which has been given to the public through The Enterprise. The Bishop did not come as a stranger, for, even though he has been bishop for a short time he has made himself beloved by all his parishioners, and by the entire communities into which he has gone, and on this visit he was welcomed, not as a strange bishop coming to visit his people, but as a friend to the people at large.

Williamston is to be congratulated that Bishop Strange decided to give so much of his time this year to it; the people of the Episcopal Church are fortunate in having him in their midst in order to know him better, and to have him give them information along doctrinal lines which might not be entirely clear, and the people of the Christian denominations are favored in hearing him so eloquently and forcefully present the truths of the Bible.

On Sunday morning in the Episcopal Church a large crowd, which taxed the capacity of the Church to its utmost, came together to hear the sermon on "Man's Responsibility to God." The Bishop took as his text the first verse of the first Chapter of Genesis, "In the beginning God created heaven and earth," and the seventh verse of the second chapter, "And the Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul." His discourse was to show the responsibility of the created to the creator, and it was strong in every sense of the word. At this service the Communion was offered, and an invitation extended to all baptized Christians.

On Sunday evening at the Masonic Hall the sermon was "Man's Responsibility to Man, or Christian Citizenship." In the morning the Bishop showed our responsibility to God, and on this occasion it was shown that to a large extent we are our brother's keeper, and are responsible to a great degree for the welfare, happiness, and spiritual condition of our fellowmen. Coming along this line the Bishop said he wanted to say a few, but earnest words in regards to Prohibition. The argument which he made was most effective, and it is most prominent citizens. He urged the voters to consider their responsibility to their fellowman, and asked them to give the matter careful consideration, and to vote for State Prohibition.

In the evenings during the week the Bishop has traced the soul's pilgrimage. On Monday night he preached on "Salvation," saying we are not only saved from eternal fire, but from all harmful things present and to come; his next step was "Repentance," which is thought by many to have been his climax. The theme was developed along the line of the story of the Prodigal Son, but so exquisitely done, with such tenderness, and such brilliant coloring that one hardly realized that he was indeed listening to this old-time subject. On Wednesday night, the next step, "Faith," was introduced, faith being such an intangible thing, something which one has to use vivid imagination, was excellently explained. On Thursday night the Bishop arose to another climax in his sermon on "Baptism." He first gave some doctrinal views on the method of baptism and on who is to be baptized. During the sermon he said there are two distinct families, that of Adam, and that of Christ; all are born into that of the former, and through the sacrament of baptism we are admitted into that of Jesus Christ, partaking, in a sense, the very nature of the Saviour. This sermon was indeed a master piece of eloquence and simplicity.

On Friday, Saturday, and Sunday the Bishop will preach on the subjects as announced by THE ENTERPRISE. It is certain that these sermons will be as great as those he has already given, and that the usual large crowds will greet him.

During the mornings of the week, in the Episcopal Church, the Bishop has talked on the Beatitudes, and those who have failed to hear him have missed golden opportunities. Bishop Strange, a native of North Carolina, whose collegiate education was in the university of the state is among the most distinguished churchmen in the state. He was for a long time rector of St. Paul's Church in Richmond, Va., being there when he was elected bishop of this diocese. Williamston is certainly fortunate in having a gentleman of such culture, a Christian of such piety, and a scholar of such attainments in its midst for an entire week. It is believed that every one in town has taken the advantage of hearing him, and that men, women, and children have been blessed by his appearance among us.

SEE "THE CLANSMAN"

Greatest of Historical Dramas Returns for Farewell Engagements

If you are a lover of good plays, do not fail to see "The Clansman," played on its farewell engagement at the Opera House, Rocky Mount, N. C., matinee and night Saturday February 29th.

Of all the many offerings at this theatre, this is undoubtedly the greatest and the grandest of the whole season. Crowded audiences and enormous enthusiasm have marked the progress of "The Clansman" everywhere.

"The Clansman" sets in fierce white light the exact truth about the doings of the Ku Klux Klan and the re-construction struggle of forty years ago. It opened the eyes of both the North and the South. It showed that what the Southern people really did was to save white civilization from barbarism and anarchy; that the South would have been weltering in negroid mongrelism but for the heroic work of the Ku Klux Klan.

Aside from its political feature, "The Clansman" is a most beautiful and thrilling drama. The ladies enjoy it as much as, or even more than the men on account of its engrossing love story. The hero of the play is a South Carolinian and a Ku Klux leader. He falls in love with the pretty daughter of a Northern man who has come South to organize the so called Black League. Ben Cameron courts the daughter and firmly opposes every move of the father. In the end he wins the girl's hand and saves them both from the clutches of the mulatto Lieutenant Governor of the state. Under Ben's leadership the Ku Klux Klan drives the carpet-baggers and bad negroes out of the state and restores the old regime.

Thrills, tears and laughter are wonderfully commingled in this master play. The darkey comedy is rich, and the lovers of Uncle Nelse and Aunt Eve and the thieving propensities and gullibility of Aleck, the negro High Sheriff of the county convulse the audience. A word should be said about the appearances of the Ku Klux in this play. Every detail is historically accurate. The ghostly costumes, weird ritual and white robed steeds of the order are reproduced exactly as they were in the year 1867. The Ku Klux Klan cavalry dash across the stage with startling realism. The High Court of the Klan sentence a self-confessed criminal to death. Those who attend the play next week will see the original company of forty people direct from New York City and a splendid new production with magnificent scenery, costumes and electrical effects.

Patrons are advised to send in orders for their seats, accompanied by remittance, to Manager J. L. Arrington, Opera House, Rocky Mount, N. C. and tickets of the kind desired will be promptly forwarded. The price of seats range from 75 cents to $1.50 at the evening performance, and are 50, 75 cents and $1.00 at the matinee.

COMMISSIONERS MEET

(CONTRIBUTED)

The County Commissioners held a called meeting Monday to pass upon the question of granting license to H. T. Stallings to sell liquor in the town of Jamesville. The Anti-Saloon people were represented by Mr. S. Justus Everett, who opposed the granting of license to Stallings on three points. 1st That the question whether a lawful election had been held was then pending in the Supreme Court, and knowing this, the Board should not consider the matter until the decision has been handed down. 2nd That the law requiring thirty days notice next preceding application for license had not been complied with, and that the Board could not consider the granting of license in any but a regular meeting. 3rd That section 2064 of the revised provided that no applicant for liquor license who had been convicted or confessed his guilt of any violation of the law regulating the sale of liquor, should be granted license. The records of the Superior Court read, showing that Stallings had been convicted of two violations of the law not listing purchase tax and retailing without license. Mr. Wheeler Martin, representing Stallings, argued that he was convicted under an exp-st-facto-law. This defense however, did not prevent his conviction in the Superior Court. At the conclusion of argument a vote was taken, Commissioners Brown and Perry voting to grant license Chairman Salsbury dissenting.

So stands the record of another meeting of the Board into whose hands the honor of the County has been placed. This meeting was called at the request of W. M. Perry, and Chairman Salsbury, while realizing that the law provided for extra meetings, reluctantly called the Board together. It was, too, the second meeting this year for the convenience of the whiskey men, and the best legal talent doubts that such can be done. Such frequent meetings at the behest of men who do not meet the requirements of the law regarding the applications for license, is in the minds of many of our best citizens, a lowering of the dignity of the Board, and a reflection on the County as a whole. To the assertion that whiskey men have rights, one can say that they have them only when the law is straitened to its utmost to accommodate them. If whiskey men can get license when even those who are saloon advocates object, where are we tending?

That Chairman Salsbury protested against the action of the board, is highly pleasing to all fair-minded men. He knew the right and stood up for it. All honor to our chairman for voting on the side of sobriety and law.

Mr. S. R. Biggs, Jr., is home on a visit.

More and Better Tobacco—Bigger Profits. The labor is as great to grow and harvest a poor crop as a good one. When you can so surely "increase your yields per acre" and get a far better quality of tobacco by using Virginia-Carolina Fertilizers. Why not use them this season? There's no reason why you cannot accomplish the same as thousands of others. Mr. V. C. Love, of Tinkling, Va., says "As a producer of fine tobacco, I do not feel I can say enough for your fertilizer. It makes tobacco that brings me more money than any other fertilizer I can get. I have tried many other brands but none equal yours. I believe Virginia-Carolina Fertilizers to be the best on the market for tobacco." Virginia-Carolina Fertilizers contain better and higher grade materials than any other brands of tobacco fertilizer. They will increase the yield per acre, and improve the texture and quality of the tobacco you grow, so you can get a better price per pound than ever before. Much valuable information on tobacco-culture will be found in the new Virginia-Carolina Year Book or Almanac. Don't fail to ask your fertilizer dealer for a copy, or write our nearest sales office and one will be sent you free. Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co. Richmond, Va., Norfolk, Va., Columbia, S.
