Don't Break Down

Severe strains on the vital organs like strains on machinery, cause break-downs. You can't over tax stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels or nerves without serious danger to yourself. If you are weak or run-down or under strain of any kind, take Electric Bitters, the matchless tonic medicine. Mrs. J. E. Van de Sande, of Kirkland, Ill., writes: “That I did not break down, while enduring a most severe strain, for three months, is due wholly to Electric Bitters.” Use them and enjoy health and strenght. Satisfaction positively guaranteed. 50c at Saunders & Fowden.

Inspector Here

Inspector Ausbon of the Post Office Department was here last week examining the books of Postmaster Mobley. He found everything in excellent condition, which is very creditable to the office. The importance of the work here increases yearly, and the service is good. Chief Clerk Price has been ill for two months and the work has been done by Mr. Mobley and Clerk Harrison.

The Inspector made an important ruling that everybody having a lock box must keep the same locked or the mail would not be put in. This is important for the reason that it is often the case that curious people pull the contents of the boxes out. If any is lost the post office is held responsible. People should see that their boxes are locked.

“HUMAN HEARTS”

Presented at the New Opera House Under Management of Meadows and Biggs—Full House and Splendid Performance.

Theatre goers of Williamston and neighboring towns were delighted Thursday night with the presentation of the melodrama “Human Hearts,” in which tears and laughter mingle with scenes touching the hearts of the serious and careless alike. “Tom Logan,” an honest young blacksmith, is the leading character and was intelligently impersonated by Fred A. Kelsey.

Every character in the cast was strong, and the play was the best ever presented to a Williams' on audience. It is being booked in all large towns and cities and playgoers here should appreciate the efforts of the management to offer entertainment of such high class in the theatrical world. The largest audience which ever greeted a play here filled the Opera House.

For the first time since the completion of the City Hall has the upper floor been properly lighted. This fact alone added to the success and enjoyment of the evening. S. Rome Biggs, who is an expert machinist, assisted by an electrician wired the building for electric lights, placing the dynamo in the printing office near and using gas engine power to run same. The manager of the play expressed himself as being highly pleased with the lights, the appreciation of the audience and the arrangement of the hall. The next play to be presented is “St. Elmo” by one of the strongest companies touring the South. Announcement of same will be made later.

The Lash of a Friend

would have been about as welcome to A. Cooper of Oswego, N. Y., as a merciless lung-racking cough that defied all remedies for years. “It was most trouble at night,” he writes, “nothing helped me until I used Dr. King's New Discovery which cured me completely. I never cough at night now.” Millions know its matchless merits for stubborn colds, obstinate coughs, sore lungs, la grippe, asthma, hemorrhage, croup, whooping cough, or hay fever. It relieves quickly and never fails to satisfy. A trial convinces. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. It's positively by Saunders & Fowden.

A. R. Dunning Denies Report

Editor Enterprise, Williamston, N. C.

Dear Sir:— I am informed that a report has been circulated through the County to the effect that I was the author of that certain article in your issue of 26th day of August 1910, signed, “Rocked-ribbed Democrat,” which said article had reference to the candidacy of J. A. Hobbs for Clerk of the Superior Court. I desire, in justice to myself and to all parties concerned, to emphatically deny the authorship or knowledge of said article.

You are requested to publish this communication in your paper, together with any comment thereon as to you may seem proper.

Very respectfully,
A. R. DUNNING.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN H. SMITH

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

EVERY father knows he never was such a driving idiot in his youth as his son is, and the son bugs himself in the mild delusion that he never will be such a back number as his dad is.

If the average man could run his own affairs as well as he knows he could run the other fellow's there would be a big decrease in the failures reported by Dunn and Bradstreet.

Too much faith is to be deplored even as too little, especially when dealing with a green goods man.

Some women select their beauty doctor with more care than they do their milkman.

Most of us can bear the troubles of the other fellow much better than he can.

One reason why women don't want to vote is because they haven't time to spare from the servant problem.

Place For Him.

“Do you understand mathematics?” asked the examiner.
“If John had two apples and gave one to his sister—oh, fine!”
“And grammar?”
“Great. Nobody can tell me nothing in that branch.”
“How about Latin?”
“Well, I know just a little hog Latin.”
“Back to the stockyards for you.”

No Salary Attached.

“Being a hero must be a lot of sport.”
“It is good sport, all right.”
“Still, it has its drawbacks, too, I suppose.”
“You bet it has.”
“What are they?”
“Well, an empty stomach is the most uncomfortable.”

Safe.

This land is well prepared for war. On that don't waste your breath. A regiment of ampires formed would scare a foe to death.

Long Distance Bravery.

“You should have heard father talk to central this morning when he got mad at the phone.”
“Central is a woman, isn't she?”
“Yes.”
“And about three miles away?”
“I should judge so.”
“I can imagine about what he said.”

Good Opinion of Himself.

“What is the reason that Brown is always butting in?”
“Who—Brown?”
“Yes.”
“Don't you know?”
“No.”
“He thinks he is the recording angel.”

His Idea.

“It is never too late to mend.”
“Hic—hic—is that your idea, old boy?”
“It is.”
“Good thing. I think it is never too late to spend either, so come on.”

Silenced His Notes.

“Is your husband musical?”
“He used to be, but isn't any more.”
“Getting old?”
“No; it isn't that. He used to pump the organ in the church, but now they have a motor to do the work.”

Good Intentions:

“It is funny to hear women argue.”
“Funny?”
“Yes.”
“I never heard them.”
“What—never heard women argue?”
“No; only try.”

Costly.

“Politeness pays.”
“It does, does it?”
“Yes.”
“What does it pay?”
“Its debts.”

Romance

In search of buried treasure In some forgotten land I'd like to go, a-digging Along the shining sand. The chest I would uncover In just about a day And load it on a vessel And carry it away.

This grubbing after money The way I have to do

And chasing festive dollars And picking up but few Is hardly to my liking. I'd rather have a show To dig up treasures buried By pirates long ago.

They talk of easy money. The kind that comes around And asks you to accept it As though it had been found.

I never have discovered A single dollar yet That didn't reach my pocket By labor and by sweat.

Then, ho, for Treasure Island! I see it in a dream. Get busy, O ye stokers, And crowd on lots of steam! It's easier than working In office or in store.

I only wish to goodness I'd thought of it before!

A Check Book

A check book does not burn a hole in your pocket like the actual money. Signing your name to a check makes you think. You don't spend a check as readily and carelessly as you spend ready cash. An account at our bank would tend to restrict your spending. Try an account with us and pay all your bills with checks. We will gladly give you a check book. If you will try this for one year you will be surprised at the money you will save and you may then smile at all your troubles. Make your bank account grow. It is recording your history and telling a truthful story of your success. Open an account with us today. Drop a little into the bank every week and its rapid growth will surprise you.
