CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY

By A. W. Macy.

PUNISHING ANIMALS AS CRIMINALS.

There were some queer doings in the Middle Ages. For instance, criminal laws were sometimes enforced against offending animals. It is a matter of record that in 1266, at Fontenay, near Paris, a pig was publicly burned for having devoured a child. In 1336 a judge at Falaise condemned a sow to be mutilated in her legs and head, and then hanged, for having lacerated and killed a child. She was executed in the public square, dressed in a man's clothing. In 1389 a horse was tried at Dijon and condemned to death for having killed a man. In 1499 a bull was condemned to death at Canroy for killing a boy. In Ireland, in 1383, a cock was convicted of having laid an egg which hatched out a reptile.
