GOVERNOR KITCHIN ON SOUND DEMOCRACY

He Spoke Interestingly of the Record of Senator Simmons and Reviewed his Votes as Found in the Congressional Records--A Strong Plea for the State Ticket--Was Loudly Cheered

EXPLAINS THE BAXTES SHEMWELL CASE

Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock Gov. W. W. Kitchin made his first appearance here since the Senatorial campaign began. The crowd in the City Hall was not large, but was very enthusiastic. The pupils of the Graded School were given a half holiday as a mark of respect to the Chief Executive of the State and many of them heard the speech to his close.

Gov. Kitchin was presented to the audience by Mr. J. L. Hassell, who named him as the next senator from North Carolina. The Governor was greeted with hearty applause when he came forward and began his address, every sentence of which was interesting. With manner and words free from any touch of personalities, he discussed the record of Senator Simmons, who for the last four years has by his votes placed himself in line with the Republican party. From the Congressional Records and from printed speeches of Senator Simmons, he clinched the truth of his assertion that the senior Senator had in thirteen different instances forsaken the principles of the Democratic party as laid down in the party platform, and voted against the progressive legislation for which the Democrats stand pledged. He asserted his belief that Senator Simmons was conscientious, but that he was not in harmony with his party; that Bryan and the most influential Democratic newspapers in every part of the country recognized Simmons as a reactionary, and, therefore, not in line with the principles of Democracy as enunciated at Baltimore and which made Woodrow Wilson the nominee of the party. He expressed his willingness to meet Simmons in debate, and pledged himself to withdraw from the campaign if he could not make his assertions true. He told of the wonderful progress of the State during the four years of his office as governor. Touching on his own acts since in office, he explained and compared the pardoning power which he had exercised, with that of the last two governors, Glenn and the lamented Aycock, especially dwelling on the Shemwell affair. In speaking of his services as Congressman from the Fifth District, he declared that he secured more public buildings and rural routes than any man in the North Carolina delegation not even excepting the Hon. John H. Small, the useful representative from the First District, whose labors in behalf of his people have made for him a national reputation. That in the fight led by the Republican member of the House, Mr. Crumpacker, who sought to humiliate the South by reducing its representation on account of those states which had disfranchised the negro, he led the fight against the bill and defended the South against her enemies, Crumpacker and Heyburn.

He spoke for over two hours and before closing made a strong appeal for Locke Craig and the entire Democratic County, State and National tickets. Of his own campaign, he reiterated his claim that he would be elected to succeed Senator Simmons in the United States Senate. It was a splendid address, one of the best ever delivered here by any man in political life, and free from any of that tinge of bitterness and personal attack which some of the newspapers and critics of the Governor, have claimed he has put into his speeches. There were among his hearers, those who oppose his candidacy and while there was no change in their minds, they pronounced the speech an interesting one. The Governor was in splendid form and strengthened the belief of his friends in his cause. Governor Kitchin left on the five o'clock train for Goldsboro. While in town, he was the guest of the reception committee, Messrs. W. C. Manning, J. L. Hassell, C. H. Godwin and A. R. Dunning, at the Atlantic Hotel.

KITCHIN-SIMMONS DEBATE

Mr. Albion Dunn, representing Kitchin makes it too warm for Congressman Thomas, Simmons' Representative

BURGAU, N. C., Oct. 7.—Ex-Congressman Thomas representing Senator Simmons and Mr. Albion Dunn representing Gov. Kitchin engaged in joint debate here today. Dunn opened in a speech of one hour. Thomas replied for one hour. Both speakers had fifteen minutes rejoinder. Dunn went fully into the record of Senator Simmons in 1908, 1909, 1910 and 1911, showing how the votes of Simmons upon lumber, coal, iron and reciprocity were absolutely contrary to Democratic principles. He made Congressman Thomas admit that his vote on reciprocity and the ship subsidy steel were contrary to Simmons' vote on these questions. In the course of his remarks he laid down the proposition that if North Carolina is committed to protection Kitchin will be defeated, that if the state, on the contrary is to remain in the Democratic faith and hold to Democratic principles, then Simmons ought to be defeated. He further showed, to the satisfaction of good Democrats, that Governor Kitchin has made a faithful public servant and is needed in the United States Senate to uphold and carry out the program of President Wilson.

Thomas, in an hour's rejoinder, ridiculed the charges and dodged issues absolutely failing to explain the conduct and vote of Senator Simmons in upholding the hands of Senator Aldrich in his trust legislation.

On Dunn's rejoinder, he showed that Thomas had refused to meet the issue and proved in the face of the record Senator Simmons bore Congressman Thomas would never be able to explain Simmons' vote on these questions.

Thomas in reply still failed to meet the charges against Simmons' record, referring to the youth of his opponent, and his own vast superiority as a debater. This was amusing to the supporters of Governor Kitchin when they knew that Thomas had refused to speak unless Dunn opened and he was allowed an hour in rejoinder and according to those present the youth was there with the goods and Thomas has yet failed to answer. After the debate there were many favorable comments upon the argument produced by Kitchin's representative and it is currently reported that many Simmons' advocates left the court house Kitchin converts.—Greenville Reflector.

Revival Services

Rev. J. J. Taylor assisted by D. W. Milam, is holding a series of meetings in the Christian Church. They have just closed a meeting in Robersonville which lasted one month, and there were about fifty accessions. Mr. Taylor is a strong speaker, plain and convincing, holding the earnest attention of his hearers to the close of the services. The singing led by Prof. Milam is attractive and every singer in the town is invited to join the choir. These meetings will continue through Sunday and for several nights next week. Everybody is invited to attend.

Mrs. Peter Holan, 11501 Buckeye Rd, Cleveland, O., says: "Yes indeed I can recommend Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. My little boy had a bad case of whooping cough, some time he was blue in the face. I gave him Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, and it had a remarkable effect and cured him in a short time." Contains no harmful drugs. Saunders & Fowden.

Boy Scouts

How many of you know that since the Boy Scout movement started two years ago, there are 400,000 kind deeds extra done each day? One hundred and forty million kind deeds a year extra!

Boy Scouts tie a knot in their neckties in the morning when they start out for the day, and they are in honor bound not to untie it until they have done some one a good turn.

A Boy Scout's honor is a pretty serious thing and can very well be depended upon. Their motto is "Be prepared," and by way of living up to it vast numbers of boys are in training for efficiency, which will raise the standards of boyhood everywhere and vastly increase the army of self-reliant, responsible men.

A boy cannot live up to the very high "scout" standards unless he is healthy and well, therefore he must systematically take care of himself. He must play and sleep and work and eat well.

The Scout commandments are: Thy honor shall be kept sacred, and thy loyalty to parents and country unsullied.

Be ever ready to save life.

Always be a friend to animals.

Never under any circumstances take money for doing a kindness or a brave deed.

Be thrifty and despise the pleasures of the street corner.

Carry your back straight and your head bravely in order to grow muscular and self-reliant.

Refrain from cigaret smoking.

Try to be cheerful and good-natured under all circumstances and Be Prepared.

In Honor of Mrs. Staton

A number of friends were invited to the home of Mrs. F. U. Barnes on Wednesday afternoon in honor of the birthday of Mrs. James G. Staton. The guests knew of the nature of the affair, but it was not disclosed to her who was to receive especial honors. This made the occasion an unusually pleasant one to all. Tables were arranged for cards, and handsome score cards distributed to each. Mrs. Staton was the recipient of many gifts which together with the graciousness of the hostess, were highly appreciated.

A Sad Death

Died in Baltimore Md., at the Westminster Hotel some time in the night October 3rd, 1912, John Clayton Robertson son of John A. and Julia Robertson. He was born in Pitt County Sept. the 6th, 1860, and was reared and educated near Robersonville, N. C.

He took a course in book keeping and penmanship and prepared himself for business life, and taught book keeping and penmanship for some time before engaging in business. Then he engaged in a mercantile business with Elder G. D. Roberson for about eight years.

He then organized a bank of his own, which he successfully ran for two or three years. He then organized the bank of Robersonville, and was president of said bank at the time of his death; had been in business with his brother J. L. Robertson for about two years, in which they were prospering and succeeding well.

He had gone to Baltimore to buy goods expecting to return by Norfolk to meet his wife, and be at the Kehukee Association there. There we received the sad news of his death, which we think was due to apoplexy or heart failure, as he was found on the bed partly dressed.

He was married to Mary Alliene Roberson, daughter of Elder G. D. Roberson, May 13th, 1891, which happy union lasted until his death.

He leaves her a sad and lonely widow together with three lovely and sorrowful daughters, having lost a little boy some years ago.

He joined the Primitive Baptist Church at Flat Swamp and was baptized by Elder G. D. Roberson on the first Sunday in November 1902.

When the Church was constituted at Robersonville he was in its constitution, and was chosen clerk and treasurer which offices he filled faithfully until the time of his death; he sang well and delighted in the worship of God, and loved to serve his brethren and friends in any way he could.

A feeling of deep gloom and sadness is thrown over our community at his sudden and tragic death; his bereaved family have our deep and heartfelt sympathy in their sad bereavement.

Besides his wife and children he leaves an afflicted mother, three brothers and two sisters. We believe our sad loss is his eternal gain, and though we are in gloom and sadness it is not without hope of his blessed immortality. We believe we can say "Well done thou good and faithful servant," and his Heavenly Father will bid him "enter into the joys of his Lord." A large concourse of friends gathered at his burial here, and after services at the church and at the grave, we laid all that was mortal of him to rest in the cemetery here. Peace to thy ashes my Brother.

Affectionately,
M. T. Lawrence.
