The revision of the tariff has sunk into insignificance compared to the weightier matter of "who's who" in base ball circles.

Hearst's criticism of President Wilson might be expected from a man who a few years ago tried to disrupt his party.—the party that elected Woodrow Wilson to the highest office in the land.

The Sunday News & Observer was a splendid good roads edition. It would be a good advocate for votes in the townships which will decide for better highways on May 5th. and 15th.

The meeting of the D. A. R. at Washington was quite as prolonged as the Baltimore Convention, when the safety of a nation was at stake. Some woman in politics would spend the summer balloting. A dressmaker's establishment and a millinery department would have to be annexed to the convention hall, because fashions would be changing in the meantime.

The hookworm is a little cuss less than half an inch long and about as thick as No. 40 sewing cotton. He was brought here from Africa, along with the darkies. The darkies have associated with hookworms so many thousands of years that they—the darkies, are immune against the misery that the hookworms cause among the whites.

Good Roads

Williams Township will vote on good roads on the 15th of May, ten days later than the election of the other three townships. The people of that township are eager to vote for improvements, and, no doubt the election will be carried for progress. There has been much improvement in the section within the past few years, as the timber interest is being developed. Farming has improved, too, as can be seen in passing through it. Good roads are much needed as in other sections, and the people realize how great will be the benefit. The leaders in the movement are earnestly waging the campaign and look for success.

North Carolina Mills

During every political campaign claims are made that certain candidates can do more for the people. This may be true so far as the personal ideas of the respective candidates go, but so often followers of men invest them with powers which they do not nor ever can possess. A large majority of the public thinks a man is great only as he can serve their own personal desires in business and otherwise. Voters never reckon with the fact that a special favorite of theirs does not carry legislation in his pocket. That he is one among many who have the power and influence to help shape the affairs of State and Nation. The cotton mill men of North Carolina are making threats already against those Congressmen who are redeeming their pledges to the party by reducing the tariff. The reduction in cotton fabrics will not materially effect the mills of the State, but the mill men see great harm if the schedule is reduced. The party has won on tariff reform, and a failure to redeem the pledges will put the party out of power at the end of four years.

No man is greater than his party, and the campaign was fought to break down the great wall of protection which the Republican party had erected. People fool themselves when they raise a great howl about their special interests being taken care of by certain politicians. The Democratic party has made North Carolina prosperous and safe—it will continue to serve the people in a larger way for years to come.

If men are the salt of the earth, women are undoubtedly the sugar. Salt is necessary—sugar is a luxury. Vicious men are salt-Peter; stern men are rock salt; nice men are table salt. Old maids are brown sugar; good natured matrons are loaf sugar, and pretty girls are pulverized sugar. Please pass the pulverized sugar.—Farmville Enterprise.
