Pettit's SORE EYE SALVE

See?
He stopped before a blind peddler and bought a pencil, putting five pennies into the man's hand.
"How do you know these are cents I've given you?" asked the purchaser.
"Well, sir, I can distinguish the touch of cents by my sense of touch," was the blind man's prompt reply.

The preacher spent some time praying and talking, and finally the old man said: "What do you want me to do, parson?"
"Renounce the devil! Renounce the devil!" replied the preacher.
"Well, but parson," protested the dying man, "I ain't in position to make any enemies."

Too Successful.
Quizzer—What's the matter, old man? You look worried.
Sizzer—I have cause to. I hired a man to trace my pedigree.

Sizzer—Successful! I should say he has! I'm paying him hush money!

Raleigh.—The fourteenth annual session of the North Carolina Literary and Historical Association closed recently after a one-day session with the selection of Dr. Archibald Henderson of the University of North Carolina as president to succeed President Few of Trinity College who would not accept another term. Other officers chosen for the next year were as follows: Vice presidents Miss Mary Shannon Smith of Meredith College, Mr. Frank Nash of Hillsboro and Mr. W. B. McKoy of Wilmington; secretary and treasurer, R. D. W. Connor, Raleigh.

The election of officers followed an able and interesting address by French Ambassador Jusserand.

Mr. Jusserand was the attraction of course. At the head of the diplomatic corps and endowed with a manner worth the six hundred and fifty million dollars in the Bank of France, yea, worth a quadrillion francs, the address was a thing of robust beauty and pre-eminently a joy forever.

The auditorium of Meredith College was thronged with ladies and gentlemen representing the literary and social life of Raleigh and of nearly every section of the state.

Sessions of the Historical Association began at 11 o'clock in the morning with an address by Judge W. A. Montgomery on "The Relation of the Government of the Confederate States of America and the Government of North Carolina," and an address on "The State Convention of 1865" by Prof. J. G. deR. Hamilton of Chapel Hill.

Then during the afternoon there was a session in which there was the presentation of the North Carolina bibliography for the last year by Miss Minnie Leatherman secretary of the State Library Commission. Prof. Henry Jerome Stockard of Peace Institute presented a splendid appreciation of John Henry Bonar. There was a gratifying report by Dr. Archibald Henderson on the O. Henry Memorial fund.

The North Carolina Folk-Lore Society held two sessions. Prof. James F. Royster, president of the society, delivered his annual address. Prof. Frank C. Brown of Trinity College read a very interesting paper by Vice President O. W. Blackburn on "Some Plantation Signs and Wonders." There was also a paper at the morning session by Dr. George W. Lay of St. Mary's School on "Unusual Use of Words."

At the afternoon session there was a valuable paper by Doctor Sled of Wake Forest College on "The Science of Fairy and Folk Tales." Prof. Collier Cobb of the University of North Carolina presented a paper on "Ballads and Folk Songs in N. C."

PLAN TO DRAIN 83,000 ACRES

Plan to Open Up Much Farm Land in Jones and Onslow Counties by Drainage.

Raleigh.—If drainage and civil engineers find that the land can be drained, it is believed that 83,000 acres of land located in Jones and Onslow counties and owned by the Jones-Onslow Land Company, in which several local capitalists are interested, will be purchased by a company of Northern capitalists and after being drained will be cut up into farms and a colonization company formed to develop the land.

S. P. Chapman of Asheville, one of the gentlemen interested in the purchase of this vast tract of land, and R. L. Church and Charles Sargeant of Baltimore, expert drainage and civil engineers, arrived in Newbern a few days ago and on the following day went over to the property in question for the purpose of making an inspection of it. Mr. Chapman and Mr. Sargeant have returned home, but Mr. Church is now on the scene making an investigation and he will continue this work until some definite decision has been reached in regard to the probable drainage of the land and will then return to Baltimore and make a report of his findings. The owners of the property are firm in the belief that it can be drained. The tract is 10 miles in width and 25 miles in length and lies between Trent and New Rivers and White Oak River rises within its borders.

Three railroads, the Atlantic Coast Line, the John L. Roper Company's road and the Dover & Southbound, traverse it. Sections of the tract are heavily timbered with some of the finest woods found in eastern North Carolina, while other sections have been cleared and with a little preparation will be in readiness for farming.

If purchased, the land will be cut into small farms and every inducement made to get new people to locate there.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By E. O. SELLERS, Director of Evening Department, The Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.)

LESSON FOR NOVEMBER 30

CROSSING THE JORDAN.

LESSON TEXT—Joshua 3:7-17. GOLDEN TEXT—"Fear thou not for I am with thee."—Isa. 41:10.

The spies sent out by Joshua (ch. 2) were animated by quite a different motive than that which governed those who first visited Canaan, and they brought back a much different report (Num. ch. 13). The story of their experience in Jericho with Rahab, their escape from her house, and the incident of the "scarlet thread," will prove an interesting introduction for today's lesson. There are two suggestions in the preparation for the crossing of the Jordan mentioned in the first seven verses of this chapter: (1) It was to be an orderly advance (v. 4); no disorderly crowding about those who led. This was also to be a sure path, though they had not passed that way before, for God was leading. (2) It was to be a prayerful advance (v. 5). Literally, they were to "undertake great things for God and to expect great things from God."

Jesus Must Lead.

I. The Leader, vv. 7, 8. The circumstances surrounding this episode are far different from those at the crossing of the Red sea. Moses' encounter with Pharaoh had stamped him as the one who should save the nation. True, in the battles and in his association with Moses Joshua had occupied a position of leadership, but now he is to deliver Israel from the death of the wilderness into the life and possessions of Canaan, hence the words, "I will magnify thee in the sight of all Israel." It is noticeable, however, that Joshua did not lead this forward march, but rather the priests. The ark which they bore is a type of Christ and he must always lead. Jehovah magnified Joshua because Joshua had magnified Jehovah, see I. Sam. 2:30, John 17:4, 5.

II. Those Led, vv. 9-13. Joshua at once communicates Jehovah's order for a forward march to the people (I. Thess. 2:13). But God graciously accompanies his word by a visible manifestation of his presence (v. 10, 11) cf. I. John 1:1, Col. 2:9. It was the word and presence of the "living God" (v. 10) that was to work this miracle, and to accomplish the victorious possession of the land in accordance with his own sure promise.

This lesson is a great lesson of types. God, through the leading of his priests bearing the ark (a type of Christ), leads man from the failures of his wilderness experience, through death (the Jordan), into newness of life (Canaan), Rom. 6:4, 9. Previously the mention of the names of these enemies (v. 10) had so frightened Israel that they turned aside in a panic, but Israel had been learning in the bitter school of discipline and failure. "The Lord of all the earth" (v. 11) is to lead, why then fear? There was, however, to be a test, viz., the path was not to open until their feet were in the waters. There was no such test at the Red sea, for they did not then have sufficient faith, I. Cor. 10:12, I. Peter 1:7.

Israel's One Way.

III. The Dry Ground, vv. 14-17. Up until the moment they stepped into the water, priest and people alike relied upon the bare word of Jehovah, I. Sam. 15:22. We, too, will surely find a way of escape if we yield him implicit obedience, Isa. 43:2; I. Cor. 10:13. As if to heighten this miracle we need to remember it was the season of flood tide (v. 15). The river Jordan is a great type of the judgment passed upon sin. Verse sixteen tells us that the waters were backed up beyond "the city of Adam." Our Joshua delivers not only us from all sin but his deliverance is also sufficient for the whole human race, Heb. 9:28, I. John 1:7. Our deliverance is complete, let us praise him. The Jordan would not, however, have opened had those bearing the ark paused upon the bank. The people could not have been delivered except as the ark remained in the river bed. Jesus went into the waters for us, 2 Cor. 5:21; Gal. 3:13. He has condemned sin for us, Rom. 8:3. He alone has opened a pathway for our deliverance. There was no other way whereby Israel could be delivered and further they were delivered "right against Jericho" (v. 16) viz., before their next big task, and "all the nation were passed clean over Jordan" (v. 17), John 17:12.

Representatives of each tribe (ch. 4) carried from the river twelve stones for the building of an altar so that the history of that deliverance might be perpetuated.

IV. The Lesson. In this lesson we are brought, in company with Israel, into the land at last. Abraham saw and believed. Jacob and his sons left it when threatened with moral contamination and physical death. Much has happened since that time, but God's purposes have gone on unchanged. Nor has Jehovah ever been defeated. Israel is delivered because, in the language of Ps. 114:2, "Judah became his sanctuary, Israel his dominion." Note how Ps. 114:3 united forty years of history, "The sea saw it and fled; Jordan was driven back." This is the history of Israel.

WOULD ALMOST FALL ASLEEP

During Ordinary Conversation, and Became Breathless After First Few Words.

Westhoff, Texas.—Mrs. Evie L. Powell, of this town, authorizes the following for publication: "I had terribly nervous, trembling, and smothering spells, and became so weak, I could hardly get around. Would almost fall asleep during a common conversation, and became breathless after the first dozen words. I thought I had lung trouble, but found it was all caused from womanly weakness."

I then commenced using Cardui, the woman's tonic, and the first bottle gave me relief. Am now feeling fine, and just as wide awake, and as lively as anyone."

I know I would have been a wreck had it not been for Cardui, and I do not think enough can be said in favor of this great woman's medicine. I gained more strength from one bottle than anything else I ever tried. I recommend it to all women or girls who are without the glow of health on their cheeks."

These nervous, trembly, smothering spells, which Mrs. Powell describes, are very common symptoms of womanly trouble, and should be given the proper treatment to prevent a general breakdown.

For over fifty years, Cardui, the woman's tonic, has been building up weak, nervous women to strength and health. It will do the same for you, if given a fair trial.

"Mrs. Brown has the kleptomaniac." "Indeed; what is she taking for it?" "Anything that looks good to her."

Then He Escaped.

"It's curious," said Brown, "how coming events cast their shadows before them. I'll wager a fiver none of you gentlemen can guess what was the last thing played on the organ at the time of the fire."

"The Lost Chord," suggested Smith.

Brown shook his head.

FULLY NOURISHED

Grape-Nuts a Perfectly Balanced Food.

No chemist's analysis of Grape-Nuts can begin to show the real value of the food—the practical value as shown by personal experience.

It is a food that is perfectly balanced, supplies the needed elements for both brain and body in all stages of life from the infant, through the strenuous times of active middle life, and is a comfort and support in old age.

For two years I have used Grape-Nuts with milk and a little cream, for breakfast. I am comfortably hungry for my dinner at noon.

"I use little meat, plenty of vegetables and fruit, in season, for the noon meal, and if tired at tea time, take Grape-Nuts alone and feel perfectly nourished."

"Nerve and brain power and memory are much improved since using Grape-Nuts. I am over sixty and weigh 165 lbs. My son and husband seeing how I had improved are now using Grape-Nuts."

"My son, who is a traveling man, eats nothing for breakfast but Grape-Nuts and a glass of milk. An aunt, over 70, seems fully nourished on Grape-Nuts and cream." "There's a Reason."
