FACTS OF HISTORIC INTEREST

Revealed by Extensive Excavations on Sites of Revolutionary Camps on the Hudson Heights.

Three years of excavating on sites of Revolutionary camps in the Hudson Highlands, near West Point, has enabled a commission of the New York Historical Society to establish interesting historical facts that have long been in dispute.

The chief source of information has been refuse heaps of the armed camps of Washington, and many facts have been learned merely from examining the buttons in the old dumps. Examination of cooking utensils and cutlery, broken pottery and other imperishable articles has aided the commission. The buttons, still showing the insignia after a century and a half, show that ten Massachusetts regiments, five from Connecticut and one from Rhode Island, occupied the main fortress in the highlands. Buttons worn in one camp by Connecticut soldiers bore an imprint in honor of the birth of the French dauphin, showing that the soldiers were in camp after 1781.

Similar investigation on the sites of British camps show their troops lived in much more luxury than the men who won independence for America. Silver buckles, china, and much broken glass from rum containers tell the story of the invaders' rations. The Revolutionary troops used hand forged forks, pewter spoons, and left no broken glass.

The excavations have also revealed the extent of certain fortifications, and forts have been discovered of which there was no record.

THIS RIDE A REAL THRILLER

Ascend by Elevator to Summit of Alpine Peak Worth Going Long Journey, to Take.

For years one of the most thrilling incidents of a visit to the Alps has been the ascent of the Jungfrau on the cog-rail road that starts from Kleine Scheidegg, at an elevation of 6,711 feet and climbs the mountain side at the startling grade of 25 per cent, or an angle of about 22 degrees, till it reaches Jungfraujoch, at an elevation of 11,839 feet.

In an illustrated article in Popular Mechanics Magazine is told how it is now proposed to add to this wonderful experience in mountain climbing a still further thrill, by comparison with which the former will appear quite insipid. From the present end of the track the mountain soars another 2,206 feet to the summit at an elevation of 13,547 feet. By means of excavations and tunnels the track will be extended until it reaches a spot in the center of the conical summit directly below its highest point. From the end of this tunnel a shaft will be bored vertically to the summit itself, and in this shaft passenger elevators will be installed, so that Alpine mountaineers will end their long thrilling railroad climb with an elevator trip like an exaggerated ride to the top of the Woolworth building in New York city. The climber will then be landed at the extreme summit of one of the highest peaks in the Alps, with a view of a world of snow-capped, craggy mountain tops around them.

Use for Exhaust Gas.

At its point of issue from the cylinder the exhaust has a temperature of from 800 degrees to 1,000 degrees F., and consists almost entirely of carbon dioxide—a colorless and odorless gas. These properties make it suitable for carbonizing wood, that is to say, making charcoal, and it is now being utilized for that purpose in France. The hot gases are caused to traverse a specially constructed oven, in which the wood is suitably arranged, by which means the temperature of the wood is raised to about 500 degrees, which carbonizes without burning or igniting it. Many ovens of this type were installed during the war, in Algeria and Tunis, with the object of furnishing a substitute for anthracite coal, which was very scarce and dear, for use in enriching low-grade gas for motor purposes.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

"Good Neighbors"

Mrs. Merriweather and her four small children lived in a little house in a street, where the neighbors were exceedingly friendly over the back fence, and made many back-door calls. Mrs. M. began to worry about the children and their surroundings as they grew older, and moved to another part of the town. Shortly after moving away Geraldine met one of the old neighbors who inquired as to how she liked her new home and the neighbors. Geraldine, being only seven and honest, replied:

"We like our new home all right, but we haven't any good neighbors now—they all stay home and mind their own business."—Indianapolis News.

Daniel Boone's Mark.

That Daniel Boone, famed Kentucky hunter, made an expedition into Wayne and Lincoln county during his career is the belief of a party of lumberjacks who recently discovered the name "D. Boone" chiseled in a large rock at the mouth of a cave on Pond Fork of Four Mile creek, Lincoln county, near the Wayne line. The forms of the letters are said to correspond with the name of Boone which is found carved in the rocks of Kentucky. The rock bearing the name in Lincoln county is located in a remote and wild section.—Huntington (W. Va.) Advertiser.
