JUNE 1ST IS "BUNDLE DAY"

The following is a copy of a letter received by Elder Sylvester Hassell. No chairman has been named for "Bundle Day" in Martin County but one will be selected in the next few days and will be published immediately after. My Dear Pastor: The 3,34 little Armenian children now in our North Carolina orphanages in the stricken Bible lands, and the 16,000 adult refugees dependent on North Carolina for their lives, must have clothing if they are not to freeze to death next winter. Our people are throwing away their winter garments at this time and these will save many an unfortunate sufferer from acute rheumatism and pneumonia. Will you not ask your congregation to send their cast-off clothing, either to your local Near East Relief chairman or to the address on the enclosed tag, which should be used in shipping this clothing to our Raleigh warehouse. June 1st has been designated as "Bundle Day" in North Carolina and we are asking that all clothing be sent in not later than this date. Clothing needed are coats, sweaters, dresses, trousers, blankets, wool shirts, heavy hosiery, wool gloves, mittens, boots and shoes, (must be tied in pairs), shopworn garments, sheets (or bandages), new cloths or garments and any heavy, warm clothing in which there is still some wear. We cannot use lace, silks, veils, chiffons, evening clothes, satin slippers, muslin underwear, high-heeled shoes, straw or frame hats or silk stockings. With sincere appreciation for past favors to the Near East Relief by your congregation and your good self, I am, Yours in His name, GEORGE H. BELLAMY, State chairman.

All persons indebted to said estate will please make immediate settlement. This 15th day of May, 1922. J. R. COLTRAIN, Adm.

STORIES OF GREAT INDIANS

ROMAN NOSE'S MEDICINE WAR BONNET FAILED HIM A CHEYENNE war party was attacking a Mormon emigrant train on the Oregon trail. As one of its defenders dropped to the ground mortally wounded a magnificent proportioned warrior dashed forward to "count coup" (touch the fallen enemy). The hat of the dead man had fallen off, exposing his bald head. As the red man struck the dead emigrant he shouted to the other Indians "Your Roman Nose has counted the first coup on the longest-faced white man ever killed." A man respects Roman Nose (Woouint—"Hooked Nose") of the Northern Cheyennes was the ideal type of the Indian warrior. Although he was not a chief, incidents of his great strength, masterful personality and wonderful bearing are legion. Once in a buffalo hunt his brother-in-law drew his bowstring so powerfully that it broke. The arrow was thrown high into the air as the snaw snapped. Roman Nose happened to ride up close behind his companion at this instant. Reaching up he caught the shaft, snapped it against his own bowstring and shot the buffalo dead. A man of more reckless daring in battle never lived. He had a war bonnet, the wearing of which he fondly believed protected him from danger. His faith in it was justified until the day of the famous fight with Gen. G. A. Forsyth's 52 scouts at Beecher's Island, Colo., on September 18, 1868. Before going into the battle Roman Nose told his companions that he felt sure he would be killed that day. According to the belief the power of the war bonnet would fail if he ever ate anything that was taken from a dish with an iron utensil. That morning at a feast given by his friends the Sioux, one of the women who served the meal had used a fork to take the food from the frying pan. When his friends learned of this they urged him to go through the ceremony of purification necessary to restore the power of the war bonnet, but Forsyth's scouts appeared before he could do so. Therefore with the certain knowledge that he would be killed, Roman Nose assembled his warriors and led them on a charge against Forsyth. He almost rode over two of the scouts who were concealed in some high grass a short distance from the main column. One of these men fired. The Cheyenne fell from his horse, shot through the back and mortally wounded. That evening at sundown Roman Nose died. The strong medicine of his war bonnet had failed him at last.

Two Interesting People

Chautauqua patrons and boosters will be interested in one or two interesting sidelights on two of the people to appear on the coming program. The second day program brings Donato Colafemina, the brilliant young Italian tenor, who has been associated with Sousa in a number of his cross country tours. Signor Colafemina is a protégé of Madame Grosscup-Perkins, of Chicago. Not only has she educated him musically, but she has sponsored him and has indeed acted personally many times as his accompanist. His rise from obscurity to his present position can be laid directly to the interest and training which he has received at the hands of this patroness. It is another case of budding talent, properly protected and directed, finally arriving at a position of merit. The second night lecturer at Chautauqua, Dr. Gregory Zilboorg, is a most interesting personage. He holds three doctor's degrees; law, medicine and philosophy, from Russian universities. He is a master of modern languages and speaks excellent English. Like Roosevelt he paces the platform in a superabundance of nervous energy. He plays upon the emotions of his audience as a master musician evokes harmony from an organ. And he has a tale to tell, which is both wonderful and thrilling. On his escape from Russia he carried four different passports from as many different varieties of Russian governments. To have shown the wrong passport when challenged would have meant death. But he came through safely, to tell the story of his impression of the Bolshevik Government. So it looks as though, aside from their art, that some interesting people were coming in our midst.

WHERE WE STAND ON CO-OP SELLING PLAN

Editor of the Enterprise, Dear Sir: In a recent issue of The Enterprise, I notice that you ran an article against the Farmers Cooperative Marketing System written by Leon Oettinger of Wilson. I have always understood that you were for the Cooperative farmer and plan and it would seem from that publication that you are not. Yours truly, A SMALL TOBACCO GROWER. My Friend, Tobacco Grower: Your supposition that I stand with the farmer first of all people is correct. My only reason for it is, not that he is better than other people but that he is doing more what he gets than other people and I do know that the farmers as a class are just as good as any group of people and I believe should have just as much for what he does as anybody. As to the article written by Mr. Oettinger I will say that article was an advertisement by a bunch of the richest warehousemen in North Carolina. And you should understand that the last thing he said in that article was "I say keep out." He is a tobacco man and he wants all the tobacco growers to turn their tobacco over to him for he is profiting on a huge scale. He has made more money out of the warehouse business than every farmer in your good township has made out of growing tobacco. Can't you see why he does not want you to deal directly with the factory. He knows that if you do you will get his profits and he is not willing to make such a great sacrifice without a fight. We must be charitable to Mr. Oettinger and let him make his argument for it is not fair to listen only to one side. But this article was sponsored by warehousemen who have grown quite rich out of the farmers. One of the strange things is why farmers will not see the necessity to take care of their own. There is no doubt but that the system we are following is as poor as can be. The producer and consumer are so far apart that they both get but very little.

IN MEMORIAM

John Plumble Boyle In the town of Hamilton, County of Martin and State of North Carolina have suffered a distinct loss, and the news of his sudden death brought sorrow and distress to his friends and the entire community, where for many years he was a leading figure in business, social and religious life, occupying a position that cannot be easily filled. John Plumble Boyle was born in Plymouth, North Carolina, February 1, 1853, and was the youngest son of John McCauslan and Mary Plumble Boyle, being descended from an old and distinguished family on both sides.—he bore the name of his two grandfathers, Dr. John Plumble of Neith, Wales, and Colonel John Atherton, of Walton Hall, who was at one time Lord Mayor of London. At the beginning of the war, his family, then living in Plymouth were driven from there on account of the bombardment of the town by Federal forces and for some time lived in Windsor, Bertie county occupying the home where Judge Francis Dr. Winston now lives, from which place they moved to Hamilton, where Mr. Boyle spent the remainder of his life, entering into every movement and enterprise which tended to the upbuilding of his community and section. Being of a retiring disposition he devoted most of his energies to farming in which he was eminently successful. Mr. Boyle is survived by his widow, Mrs. Margaret Britton Boyle and by four sisters, Mrs. Irene A. Smith of Wilmington, Mrs. M. A. Cotton of Baltimore, Mrs. R. H. Everett and Miss Virginia A. Boyle of Brunswick, Ga. He was a consistent member of St. Martin's Episcopal church of Hamilton, N. C., which was built and maintained for many years through the efforts of his distinguished mother, Mary Plumble Boyle, of which church he was for many years Junior Warden and Treasurer.

PRIMARY COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES LAST NIGHT

The first exercises of the Commencement were held last night at the Graded School by the first three grades under the management of the teachers, Miss Millie Spruill, first grade teacher; Mrs. J. L. Williams, second grade teacher and Mrs. A. R. Dunning, third grade teacher. The operetta, "Little Red Riding Hood's Rescue" was the feature of the evening and the children showed remarkable training. Jim, Jr., Rhodes, as Robin Hood, heralded the coming of the children with a song and there were about one hundred and twenty-five in the opening chorus. Mary Alice Dunning was Red Riding Hood, Norma Perry, the mother; Buck Saunders, the wolf; Carlton Liverman, the wood man; Ruth Peel a buttercup and Mary Hardesty a rose, with a bevy of beautiful little girls as yulebells. They all played their respective parts very well and were a credit to their trainers.

IN MEMORIAM

God bless our darling grandmother, Who lies in that silent grave; For so greatly did she suffer, And yet, she died so brave.

GRADUATING EXERCISES MONDAY NIGHT

Her life was long and faithful, Her heart so true and kind; But she's left this sinful world A happier home to find. Oh, so dear, that I did love her But God, he loved her best. And to a land that's free from sorrow He's taken her home to rest. Asleep in Jesus, blessed sleep; From which none eber wake to weep; A calm and undisturbed repose, Unbroken by the last of foes. Her grandchild, ESSIE BROWN.

MUST MAKE WATER CONNECTION SOON

Below is a copy of an ordinance of the town of Williamston relating to the providing of flush toilets for business houses and dwellings. The state authorities have very kindly extended the time limit time and again. Only a few of the business houses on Main street have complied with this law. Letters are being sent by the clerk of the town of Williamston to each of the owners of business property on Main street to instal flush toilets on their property. The extension allowed by the state authorities is about up and it is absolutely necessary that the owners of dwellings and business houses in this town comply with the statute below: The Board of Aldermen of Williamston do enact: 1. That each and every residence, institution, depot or place of business where one or more persons reside, lodge, or are employed, which is located on a lot or property abutting upon or adjoining a street or alley along which a public sewer is laid, shall be provided with a flush toilet and the necessary plumbing fixtures to join and connect the same with the public water and sewerage system. Provided: that a length of private sewer line not greater than two hundred feet and a length of private water line not greater than three hundred feet, shall be required to make such connections. Provided, further: that it is not necessary to lay water and sewer lines across the private property of some other person or persons in order to make such connections. 2. At the discretion and by the direction of the Board of Aldermen, the city clerk shall serve notice on the owner or owner or the duly authorized agent of such owner or owners of property coming under the provisions of this ordinance. Said notice to be either written or printed. In case of any non-resident owner or owners of such property, not represented locally by a duly authorized agent or agents, notice may be published in five successive issues of a local newspaper. 3. The city clerk shall mail to every resident under section 1 and 2 of these ordinances a blank form of application, for the installation of flush toilets and necessary plumbing fixtures as set forth in section 1 of these ordinances, upon receipt of said application the owner or agents for the owners of any property as set forth in section 1 shall fill in said application and file it with the Superintendent of the Water Works, M. S. Moore within 60 days from the 15th day of April 1921. 4. Non compliance with section 1 or three of these ordinances within 60 days from April 15th 1921. After receipt or publication of notice set forth in section 2 of this ordinance and etc., shall constitute a misdemeanor and subject the owner or owners of the duly authorized agent for the owners of such property to a fine of not less than five dollars nor more than fifty dollars in the discretion of the court. 5. All ordinances and clauses of ordinances in conflict with this ordinance are hereby repealed. Adopted April 8th, 1921. W. T. MEADOWS, Secretary, Pro tem.

Harding's Claim of Savings Reads Like a Joke Book

By Wallace Bassford Washington, D. C., May 16.—The President who proudly rode into office in arch laMst year with seven millions majority behind him is now so uneasy as to the result of the coming November elections that he and his Director of the Budget, General Dawes, juggle appropriation figures and boldly distort the facts in their efforts to fool the people into again voting for the party of special privilege. The president's claim to saving $1,600,000,000 in the past year was taken up in the House the other day by Congressman Byrnes of South Carolina and shot full of holes. Mr Byrnes said: "The President announced to the country that we will this year reduce our expenditures $1,600,000,000 below the expenditure for the last fiscal year. Well, the expenditures for the last fiscal year which were authorized by a Republican Congress were the largest ever authorized in time of peace in the history of the country. If now, four years after the war, there was not a tremendous reduction in expenditures there would be little hope for the preservation of the government. "My regret is that the President in issuing this statement did not call attention to the fact that for the year 1916, the last year prior to our entering the war when we were engaged in measures of preparedness, our expenditures did not amount to more than $1,115,000,000, and that the estimate he now makes as to expenditures this year is $3,922,372,090, or $2,807,267,090 more than was spent under the Democratic administration for the last fiscal year prior to the war. "I regret that he did not call attention to the fact that while the Budget Bureau claims these bogus savings of $136,000,000, the fact is that the same departments have to date secured from the Congress deficiencies or supplemental appropriations amounting to $374,691,040.65. "The Secretary of the Treasury does not keep up with this political game. He issued a statement that we are facing a deficit, and then along comes General Dawes, who says that we have saved a billion and a half dollars. The President, if he has any confidence in him at all, ought to urge Congress to declare a dividend to the taxpayers of America, and we would all be entitled to a share. I favor the Bureau of Budget. There was real work for the Director of the Budget to do, but the Bureau of the Budget has never functioned as Congress intended it should. The Bureau submitted estimates for an amount larger than the appropriations for the current year and before the subcommittees of the Committee on Appropriations no one appeared to defend his estimates. The director contented himself with these baseless claims of savings. It is nothing but bunk—political bunk." (Applause.) Mr. Byrnes then went on to show some of the specific instances where the President and General Dawes had made claims of savings—claims so easily disproved that the President appear in a childlike and ridiculous attitude before the country. If we assume that he was so easily misled by Dawes' political smoke screen. Mr. Dawes says in part: "He says that $7,500 was saved out of an appropriation for the widow of Senator Proctor, of Vermont. Away back in 1908 when Senator Proctor died this money was appropriated for his widow. She declined to accept it, and the good lady has long since gone to her reward. It remained upon the books to her credit, but nobody else could get it, and General Dawes says he saved it this year. Who was trying to get it? (Laughter.) "There is $100,000 saved in enlarging the Capitol Grounds. Do you remember in the distant past that appropriation was made for enlarging the Capitol grounds? It has been on the books, and it stays there. Therefore, it is saved out of the current appropriations this year. I wish my friend from Kentucky, Ben Johnson, were here, because it would bring back memories of the past to him. The trouble with this statement is that it goes throughout the country and some people are misled by it. They are misled into believing that there is a saving of $112,000,000, now increased to $135,000,000, when there is not any saving, and, as a matter of fact, it is only a saving on paper. It is nothing but a political saving; it will never relieve the taxpayer. "Then, there is the Panama Canal. Why, my friends, he has a saving in here of $19,874 in the original appropriation for digging a canal from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean, appropriated when the proposition was first urged for digging a canal from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean. He says it is saved because it was not spent this year. How could it be spent? In what way could he dig a canal from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean for $10,000? The money could be spent for no other purpose. For years it has been on the books, and if it is on the books, then he has saved it this year. "Then we have censorship for foreign mails in the Panama Canal Zone, where we have saved $53,205 this year. Evidently he has not heard that the espionage act is no more, and we could not spend it. Because it was not spent and could not be spent the Director of the Budget says he saved $53,000. And the worst of it all is he seems to have induced the President to believe it, and he has given circulation to these absurd claims of savings. "Why, we are going to save $19,000,000 in the Treasury Department in the Supervising Architect's office. On what? On public buildings. Back in 1913 we passed a public building bill, and because they cannot get anybody to take the contracts for some buildings for the amount of money then appropriated, on account of the increased cost, it remains on the books. Therefore we have saved $19,000,000 because we cannot get anybody to take the contract until we enact legislation increasing the limit of cost. "Now, as to the Department of State. There is an alleged saving of a little over a million dollars. The largest single item is $750,000 payment to Columbia under the treaty of 1909. In other words, back in 1909 $750,000 was appropriated. Columbia refused to accept. Director Dawes says it is saved this year. If it is a saving this year, it has been a saving every year for the past 12 years, and we have saved $9,000,000 out of this $750,000 fund. "District of Columbia. Now this statement of General Dawes would be a joke book if it were not serious in its efforts to mislead the public. There is a saving of $100,000 for what? War emergency improvements. One hundred thousand dollars was appropriated for the District of Columbia to repair streets around the Army and Navy Buildings constructed during the war. The Treasury could not pay out a dollar of it after the end of the war. If it was not spent during the war under the Democratic administration: they didn't spend a dollar of it, and it remains on the General Dawes says he has saved it this year when there could not have been a dollar of it paid out of the Treasury on any voucher. Who did he save it from? "Legislative. You do not know it, but he says that he saved $25,000 out of the salaries of members of Congress. Who did not get theirs? (Laughter.) The only way it could be saved was when some member of Congress died. Did he kill them? And yet he claims that he saved that amount. I said it was a joke book." (Laughter.)

HEALTH HINTS

The physicians in Union County have recently reported to the State Board of Health the results of a typhoid and diphtheria prevention campaign. They gave three treatments of typhoid vaccine to 8,847 and a like number of treatments of toxin-antitoxin to 884 children between six months and six years of age. There is but one campaign on record which exceeds this one as to the total number vaccinated. Last year was the first time that these campaigns were conducted exclusively by local physicians and the results were exceedingly gratifying to the Board. The work of the Union county physicians adds more evidence to that which has been accumulating in proof of the claim that the family physician should identify himself with preventive medicine by taking an active part in the public health program in his county and that they can accomplish more than others. In practically all counties local physicians vaccinate more people than the physician who is sent into the county. Sixteen campaigns similar to the ones in Union have already been arranged for the summer and other counties are expected to make application. The interest shown by mountain counties is pleasing. Avery, Alleghany and Haywood are to have campaigns and others are likely to do so. WM. E. WARREN, M. D. TAKEN UP: A BLACK SOW, WITH slit in right ear has been at my farm for a week. Owner will please come for same. Dr. J. F. Thigpen.
