BETWEEN YOU AND ME By Francis Speight

PREPARATION

Now, boys, this ain't no joking. A new aug 'ater's good. If you ain't scared of chooking, (Of course, that's understood.)

But let that 'ater sweeten. Some ten o' twenty days, And then when baked and eaten, It stirs our lips to praise.

So youth who have no training, 'Ere starting out in life, Can get along by straining, By pluck and toil an dstrife.

But if they train till later, Whene'er they have the chance, Then like the sweet potato Their value will enhance.

WHAT IS NEWS?

What is news? What does a person mean when they pick up a paper and say there is no news today.

What is news? News are items of public interest collected from the four corners of the earth—pertaining to all things—and published in the paper for the benefit of the readers and to inform people of the happenings in the world.

Some believe that news is merely the scandal and viciousness that only some seem to delight in and which is used in the or prophecies that the world is going to the dogs.

One of the greatest virtues of the weekly paper is that it is not full of "news" in the applied sense.

The scandal and the vice that fill up the pages of the cosmopolitan dailies are not seen in the weekly paper as they are in the dailies.

The publisher of the weekly paper never is one rich in the world's goods, at the richness of feeling and expression is something that money cannot buy.

May the day never come when the weekly paper will be other than a message from home for the man who has left the old family hearth, and where eyes are eager to see the happenings around them which means to the man community parting every day the paper is printed.

There are not of pieces as good as another makes, but there is no way to prove it.

When a sixteen year old boy gets to the point that he can not get enough to eat when he is beginning to put on something that will help the football team later.
