ACTIVE WORK TO BEGIN ON PROGRAM OF EASTERN CAROLINA EXPOSITION

Miss Olive B. Jackson, of New York and Atlanta, arrived in Kinston last week to begin active work on the program of the Eastern Carolina Exposition to be held in Kinston one week beginning April 7th. She is directing her attention for the present to the details incident to getting up the Pageant, entitled "Eastern Carolina in Action."

Each County Separate

The plans for staging this pageant as outlined by Secretary-Manager N. B. Bartlett are as follows: The pageant will be staged on Friday night, April 11th, in the Exposition Building. The counties will be featured separately. The high spots in the historical life of the counties will be featured and the future of the counties will be portrayed. The talent for this pageant will be taken from the county in question and will be trained by Miss Jackson prior to the big show. Each county will be alloted a certain number of minutes, as many as can be gotten in without making the program too long. The county's name will be flashed on the screen, so that there will be no doubt as to which county is being portrayed.

Members Only To Be Featured

Only those counties that hold county memberships in the Eastern Carolina Chamber of Commerce will be featured. Up to the present time more than a dozen counties have qualified. There is room for more, and any others that wish to take the county membership in the Eastern Chamber may do so and become a part of the big pageant. This is going to be a wonderful advertisement for every county that is in the big deal. In addition to this, the counties in question will have a free booth at the Exposition and will also have three pages in the big encyclopaedia which is being published now. All of this and then the regular services that have been given all the while by the Eastern Chamber.

FARM NOTES OF INTEREST TO THE FARMERS

The new year has started off with much optimism in the minds of North Carolina farmers. They are well pleased with the results of the 1923 crops and are ready to go for another venture. Conditions have been favorable for farm work during the fall and thus far in the winter season. An unusually large amount of plowing has been done, especially on cotton lands. The weather has been mild with only two exceptions. It is not thought that any material damage resulted from them.

The cotton crop is the outstanding one in this state just now. The 1923 value of the crop was 42 per cent of the total value of all crops. This is the cause of its importance and, as one reporter remarked: "Farmers scrapped closely the late crop." While the cotton belt had a short crop, North Carolina benefitted by an unusually good yield per acre, resulting in a record production at very favorable prices. The cold period is hoped to have destroyed a larrge percentage of the weevil since the temperature reached from zero to 15 degrees. An increased acreage is expected this year.

While the tobacco crop made a very heavy production, the price was 30 per cent lower than that of the previous sesason's average. The acreage will very likely be reduced this year.

For several years now hay crops have been increased to meet the home production plan which is gaining headway in North Carolina. More than the usual baling and housing of hay crops has been done.

Both the demand and prices of farm products have been good except in the mountain counties where small grains and non cash crops predominate.

Fertilizer must be "cured"

Great bins of Royster Fertilizer "cure," or "age," for months so that your results from its use will swell the earnings from your land.

PERHAPS you didn't know that fertilizer should be "cured" or "aged" in order that the food for soil can be more readily available when that food is needed.

This is one of the details of the fertilizer industry that few people know, but it's mighty important. Such "details" as this represent the difference between Royster's Fertilizer and less carefully prepared foods—and the difference between profitable crops and crops that are not so profitable.

To keep vast quantities of fertilizer for months represents an enormous supply and a tremendous capital. Therefore, only a large company like Royster's can offer this more effective "cured" fertilizer.

Rid yourself of the idea that all fertilizer is alike. This is no more true than that all land is alike.

The truth of this can be proven—not alone by the enthusiastic praise of successful farmers who have used Royster's, but by your own experience.

Use Royster's this year. Give it a fair test—and don't guess about fertilizer any more.

Grow better and larger crops by using fertilizer that has been "cured"—that is free from lumps—that has been proven chemically correct by forty chemists—and that has established a record for good works over a long period of years. Look for the name "ROYSTER" on the bags.
