Entered at the Post Office at Williamston, North Carolina as second class matter.

The regular term of the Superior Court on Tuesday found a list of the final docket, and only a few minor civil proceedings.

This indicates good people and good times because good people are not so apt to be in court as bad people.

The expense of the superior court is not a small item to the county and tho we are in favor of having one when it is necessary we would like to see the time come when it would not be needed. At the last session of the court there were no criminal cases and only two civil cases. As you see we are getting better and better. Hang on Old Martin and take one court away from you and show you don't need it.

Two prominent men are before the voters and asking to be nominated and elected to the office of North Carolina State Engineer and counter-claims are made by the partisans of those men. The other candidates are also before the voters.

A man's private life is not so accepted as a criterion of his worth might be expected. It is known that A. W. McLean used to be about thirty years ago and he is the contrary. I have been known to an unclean and unwholesome man.

As a teacher he was known in the county since he was a young man. He was very young man. I was in his career with the students.

He has led a life of struggle in the schools and 30 years ago, when others feared to express their views. He has a way of doing things, especially when men admitted to the vices sought public position.

His public life, as an industrial leader, has been a successful success. When he went to Lumberton there was not a bank or a cotton factory in Robeson county, that I recall. He organized a small bank, which prospered from the beginning. He gave a great deal of attention to farming and made a success of that. He then organized the first company for building a cotton factory in the county, it succeeded financially. He next determined to open up for development a large section of Robeson and Bladen counties, at that time almost inaccessible to the outside world, he planned and was mainly instrumental in constructing a short line railroad through that territory.

the money, and the lady told me afterwards that he would receive no interest on the note when she paid it. On two other occasions I borrowed money on the same conditions for two other girls to aid them through college. He knew well this money would be an entire loss to him if the girls should be unable to repay it. I mention these three cases which are typical of several other of his generous acts.

The above, Mr. Editor, is a voluntary statement, made without reward or hope of reward in defense of a big hearted man, whose helpful sympathies began years ago to enrich the State by increasing the number of cultured women.

A. W. McLean is too dignified, too busy, and too sincere to ever become a busy-boddy politician, but he is a robust, manly man. W. L. Riley.

When it comes to speed Williamston has a case to mention. Yesterday as we were returning from lunch everything looked as per usual. This morning we walked down and were amazed to see that the Army and Navy store had changed into a fruit stand. A parade was called, for the army trousers, shirts, et al and took the shapes of little red apples, etc. We later learned that the owner of the store had packed up and moved to the night and while he was moving Mr. Rufus Sald moved in with his family.

THE MOVING OUT AND ANOTHER MOVING IN very popular here, but the swiftness of this move attracted our attention most.
