TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 26, 1924.

The spirit of Democracy is rapidly growing as the acts and deeds of the plutocrats are being unearthed.

The greatest force against Democracy is propaganda. The Democracy of Bryan has been overthrown in the minds of the people more than one time. Every conceivable falsehood was flaunted before the people by exactly the same class of people that brought them later through Fall, Denby and Co.

The force that makes it hard for a real statesman, one who stands for that class of government that the people need, own the money, the stocks, the bonds and most of the great newspapers, and they have a way of flooding the minds of the people with that class of stuff that calls and exalts their policies as safe and sound while the cries of the great rank and file of the citizenship is denounced as unsafe and unsound and boresomely.

Democracy now has a chance, the plutocratic corruption has grown so poison it is dying in its own virus. Who respects Coolidge when he has stated so positively that all the guilty should be punished and at the same time has held the umbrella over some members of the cabinet until they were washed away by the flood of the wrath of the people of all parties.

Hiram Johnson will never command the respect of the Republican party. In fact, the fellows who frequently rule our Government do not want a real president, they want one they can underwrite.

There is today one man who has stood all the fiery darts of the plutocrats, that man is our own Josephus Daniels for eight long years every organization that could muster a gun to shoot democracy took a crack at him.

From the first day that he walked into the secretary's chamber and smilingly, gently and civilly spoke to those who were to be his under-servants in helping to handle our great navy they began their trade. He had cracked the naval cast and the big fellows at the mast head saw their stars falling. But the savvy prospered under his guidance, and was turned over to Denby without a blot on it, and of course when the people look on the greasy mess now called the U. S. N. they are justly shouting down with the plutocrats.

We have been so humbled by the great power of propaganda that we have been afraid to suggest a southern man for president. They have imbibed the feeling of the rich Jews who said nothing good can come out of Nazareth and say to us nothing good can come out of the South.

Joseph Daniels is the man of the hour. He represents consistent democracy and has a strong following in every state in the Union. If nominated by the Democratic Convention will be elected president of this great nation.

TIDE TURNED

Last week we received a letter from an old time friend and subscriber, saying how much he enjoyed The Enterprise and how he regretted to give it up, but that on a recent motoring tour through this section his wife and daughter became worried at The Enterprise and will not permit him to renew. You know that it just hurt us to think we had offended anyone and did not know when, why or where.

we were thinking and trying to atone for the mistake we had made a man rushed in. His countenance showed most plainly that he was emerging from trouble and headed for a better land. We inquired what good thing we might do for him and he said, "I want to take your paper, the thing I have neglected so long." "Why," he said, "I went out hunting the other day and a rain came up while I was in the woods and I crawled in a hollow log for shelter, and the rain beat beat and poured down so long that the log swelled and caught me tight within. I was passed yelling and I was too far in to be heard and when the future began to glare me in the face I began to think of the deeds I had done and as they rapidly came to my mind the thought came to me that I had never subscribed to my home paper. I felt so small and I easily crawled out. I am now here to subscribe to your paper."

SWEET HOME LOCAL ITEMS

We are glad to know that Pre-Benett filled his disappointment at church Sunday. There will be a box party at the school house Friday evening. Everyone is cordially invited to attend. Miss Essie Taylor and Mr. Bobbe Rawls attended the party at Macedonia school house Friday night. Mr. Ben Leggett was the guest of Mr. Arthur Peel Sunday morning.
