

DONT SELL LOW

GRADE PRODUCE

Raleigh, N. C. March 3.—Growers who are producing early vegetables and other produce for the market should give some care to the selection, grading and standardizing of their products. Many growers consider only the total price received for a crop instead of figuring the net returns after all marketing costs have been paid, and because they do not consider these marketing costs, many lose money, according to a statement made by Gerrill Shumaker, produce marketing specialist for the State College and Department of Agriculture.

Mr. Shumaker states that county agents and others interested should wage a campaign against the selling of low grade produce. The reason for this is that the cost of marketing low grade material exceeds the returns secured and by blocking the market with low or cheap stuff, the sale of first class products is seriously hurt.

Last season a survey was made of the Philadelphia market. Fourteen of the leading commission houses were studied involving the marketing of 1,500,000 five eights bushel baskets of fruits and vegetables. It was found that nearly one-half of these baskets sold for 50 cents less, and one-fifth of the total sold for 25 cents or less.

The average selling price on this market, states Mr. Shumaker, was seventy cents per basket for the one and one-half million baskets of produce. More baskets sold for 10 cents or less than sold for $2.00 or more. It was determined that 18 per cent of the produce sold for 20 cents or less per basket; 31 per cent sold, at 25 to 50 cents; 20 per cent at 51 to 70 cents; 16 per cent at 76 cents to $1.00; 13 per cent at $1.01 to $2.00, and two per cent at $2.00 and over.

Mr. Shumaker states that for this nearby market the minimum cost of marketing even the lowest priced produce including packing, package, transportation and commission was 20 cents per basket. This 20 cents does not include the cost of production and must be paid by the grower even if his product fails to sell at any price and must be dumped.

ORDER OF THE FOUR—H VALUABLE TO NORTH CAR.

Raleigh, March 3.—It's not a secret order and its membership is confined to rural boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 18 years; but, last year the 3,000 farm boys reporting as members of the Four H clubs made an average net profit on their work of about $62 each, according to S. J. Kirby, in charge of Agricultural Club work for the State College of Agriculture. Mr. Kirby says that 197 club members last year made an average yield of 45 bushels of corn at a cost of 32 cents per bushel, netting a profit of $29.80 per acre; 61 club members produced an average yield of 108 bushels of potatoes at a cost of 58 cents per bushel; 13 tobacco club members produced a net profit per acre of $141.90; 71 calf club members made an average net profit of $77.80 each after paying for the animal with which they began the work and charging all expenses connected with growing the calves; 320 pig club members made a net profit of $38 each on their pigs and about 1,000 poultry club members cleared $37.10 each.

"These club members keep accurate records of their work," says Mr. Kirby "and make full reports as to all costs entering into it. It is not all work, either, since there are the educational meetings, the summer club encampments, the hikes and tours. Many others win valuable prizes awarded by business men. Some are selected to take trips to State and National club gatherings and all are benefited morally, physically, mentally and financially through membership in the organization. About 8,000,000 boys and girls in the United States are members of this order and those boys and girls who wish to line up with the leaders in agricultural thought and progress in any community should talk the matter over with the county agent and plan to join a club this year."
