

UNFAIR TO McLEAN

SAYS GOLDSBORO NEWS

(From the Goldsboro News)
 Mr. W. McLean has been to Elizabeth City and there made a talk before the Kiwanis Club. Immediately after this modest effort, such as Mr. McLean is always content to make, up spake Hon. Ike M. Meekins, being also on the program. As Wilton had been simple and prosaic and sensible in his remarks Col. Meekins was torrential, scintillating, expansive and sky-piercing.

The Elizabeth City Independent is sending out market copies calling attention to the visit of Mr. McLean on this occasion and expressing considerable disapproval of Mr. McLean on account of his submergence in the oratory of Col. Meekins, who is groomed for the Republican nomination for governor, as well as on account of the fact that certain people in Elizabeth City, of which the Independent does not approve, are friends of the Robeson man.

Well, there is no accounting for taste in the matter of associates, but we must seriously object to the unfairness displayed by the Independent in comparing Mr. McLean as an orator to Col. Meekins. It is quite unfair to take a modest man like Mr. McLean, careful of speech, and deliberate of expression as is the manner of one who expects to stand by what he says, and compare him with Mr. Meekins. It is quite a well known fact that Col. Meekins is the greatest orator living, and in due process of nature he will one day be the greatest of all.

Of course the Kiwanians did not intend to produce a situation which would lead to a comparison between the powers of these two guests. It never occurred to them that any one would ever compare the oratory of any human being to that of Col. Meekins. They doubtless at him on the program as a peculiar and fitting honor to out-of-town guest. Compare the oratory of Meekins with the oratory of others? Could any man in Elizabeth City or elsewhere be guilty of so silly a thing? The Elizabethians all know quite well that if the governorship is to follow the merit of oratory, then Col. Meekins is not only entitled to a life tenancy, but to the right of devise.

Col. Meekins as an orator has no bounds. Neither time nor space can circumscribe him. His shortest sentences twist and squirm and chortle and whurtle and surge and splurge and dazzle, and blazle, and gear and soar and double and bubble, like the water coming down at Lodore. His climax are thunderclaps. His overtones are hurricanes his undertones the rumbling of earthquakes.

When nature formed Meekins into an orator she broke the moulds. It is positively sinful to compare Mr. McLean or anybody else with him.

CHARM

There are people who are attracted most by a wax-doll prettiness in woman, but not so the large mass of humans. It is something besides mere beauty which makes the popular person popular. What is it? What is "charm?"

Beauty is a physical attribute; charm a spiritual one. Beauty may attract attention and admiration. It takes charm to hold them. Beauty can be the possession of only a few. Charm may be attained by all. Beauty may be but skin deep, but charm comes from the inside-out.

Like beauty, charm is a comparative term. One may be more charming or less charming. To be most charming, the charmer must be possessed of many virtues, for charm is a composite result. It does not depend on age feature, nor class—but is rather a product of disposition.

"Beauty soon grows familiar to the lover

 Fades in his eye, and palls upon his sense," says Addison. But graciousness, kindness, intelligence, common sense and unselfishness—these are virtues one prizes more the older he grows. Fortunately, too, for woman-kind, they are traits one can cultivate with the years. They know no "dead line" of age, but can flourish with wrinkles and gray hairs, if the spirit keeps alive and sweet.

Beauty, alone, is no tie to bind love; but charm can weave a spell which holds the lover enchanted to the end.

'SURE CURE FOR LOVE

Take fifteen ounces of dislike, one pound of resolution, two grains of common sense, two ounces of experience, a large sprig of time and two quarts of cooling water of consideration.

Set them in the gentle fire of love, sweeten with the sugar of forgiveness, skim with the spoon of melancholy, then put the decoction into the bottom of your heart, cork with the cork of a clear conscience, and let it remain, and you will quickly find ease.

These ingredients can be had of the Apothecary of the House of Understanding, next door to Reason or Prudence Street, in the village of Contentment.

Take whenever a spell comes on.

Read the advertisements—it pays. They contain beaucoup information for the thrifter shopper. And more you can depend on the goods advertised to be such as they are advertised.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Things Our Readers Want to Know
 When plumbing becomes clogged, the quickest and best way of clearing it is to sift some Red Seal Lye into the outlet. This frees the obstructing material almost instantly.

Much unnecessary labor may be saved on wash-day by softening the wash-water with Red Seal Lye. This serves to loosen the dirt from the clothes without the usual hours of laborious rubbing.

Pots and pans (except those made of aluminum) will let go their dirt and grease more quickly if Red Seal Lye is used as a cleanser.

A splendid new store for you to shop in is now officially dedicated to your service

FOR more than a year we have been looking forward to the time when workmen would have ceased their hammering and sawing and left with their tools; when the new store would be completed and we could invite you to come in and inspect the South's greatest and handsomest department store.

Now that time has come. This splendid new store is complete. The last nail has been driven, the last fixture is in place and we are ready for the long and eagerly anticipated opening.

A whole week of shopping days, March 24th to 29th inclusive, has been set aside for you, who do not live in Richmond, to visit the store. That week Miller & Rhoads will hold open house for visitors from out of town. Come in and let us show you the nicest place to shop you have ever seen.

What a transformation you will find in the whole store! More than half of it is new—new from roof to basement, new fixtures and new merchandise. And the old building, too, has been rejuvenated. You will hardly know it—refurnished, redecorated and beautified from top to bottom. It is practically a new store from Broad Street to Grace Street, from Fifth Street to Sixth Street.

If you can't get what you want in your own locality, try

Miller & Rhoads
 RICHMOND, VA.

We are justly proud of our store. We feel that you, too, have a right to be proud of it. For without your loyal friendship and the loyalty of thousands of friends throughout the Virginias and Carolinas, it would not have been possible.

The week of March 24th will be a week of dedication of the greater Miller & Rhoads Store to the service of the public, to the comfort of its customers and to the principle of fair dealing. You will find here the same standards of quality and value that have always characterized Miller & Rhoads Store. But you will find it a far more comfortable and pleasant place to shop for the things you want.

Spring styles lend color and enchantment to the busy streets of the old capital. It is the most delightful time of year to visit Richmond. Plan to spend at least a day or two in this, one of the most beautiful cities of the South. And spring, too, is a delightful time of year to visit Miller & Rhoads. You will find it convenient to make your headquarters here. Check your bags and parcels here, rest in comfortable rest-rooms, lunch in pleasant tea-rooms and shop at your leisure. In the new store, just as in the old, there is a friendly welcome and a willingness to serve.
