OWL-LAFFS

OWL-LAFFS

Howdy Pals. It is useless for a self-made man to waste money trying to take out a patent on his creation.

Scandal: The thing that is called ugly gossip in a village and sensational news in a metropolis.

The latest: Johnnie Booker, Bruce Whitley and "Luke" Meadows reading to one another "Advice to the Lover" in the Ledger Dispatch.

OH! HEART OF MINE!

The wind is shrill, the black night deepens,
And to sleep on restless wings has flown
Where is the joy of yester seasons,
The lilt of laughter I have known?
Oh! heart of mine, pray cease the struggle,
To tear thee from thou bosom's core
I took an overdose of something,
But I won't do it any more.

The modern woman's idea of dressing for the street, thinks some is to take off every thing and put on a fur coat.

Billy Borne says the only difference between a dime novel of yesterday, and the novel of today is about one dollar and ninety cents.

It's all off, said the braber to the convict.

He—Was it you I kissed in the library last night?
She—About what time?
"Always" and "never" are two words seldom omitted in the lovers' lies says Henry Gurkin.

Clarice says: "Air ain't free!" Every once you hear about a cry that rises and rents it.

The mother of yesterday who used to worry about her children's welfare these new is the mother of today who refuses to have any children.

Looking a ways, Luckward was once that and after what people had to sell they thought it would make an ideal Christmas gift.

"The unimportant things make us happy", said a feminine writer. Not unless they bring their pay envelopes home.

If old Tut-anth-amen should come to life, after all these centuries what a terrible taste he would have in his mouth.

A little saving now and then has established lots of our best business men.

Ho, hum. Every day is ladies' day in the barber shops.

Stanley Seasons has observed unkindly that at least half-headed men don't need to fear hair-raising stories. If the groom is bald and unable to dance, you are safe in assuming that he is one of the richest men in the country.
