BEAUTIFYING THE STREET

The effect of the drive to make the town more beautiful is noticeable in many spots, but there should be more to follow. It is true that weeds are growing on the side of the curbing along Main street, but one is so interested in the asphalt that these are not to be mentioned. No doubt, the authorities will have them cut later on, and grass be allowed to grow in the street. The work being done by Mrs. Station on Houghton street and in front of the depot is highly commendable. When the beds which are being made are filled with grass or flowers, the scene will be pleasing to those who love the beautiful, and visitors will note the change from the unsightly to the attractive. If every one who has a residence on Main or Houghton streets would plant flowers or grass by the side of the curbing, what would be the result? Try it and see. -Citizen.

Now comes the Great Northern Methodist church with a large vote of approval for the easing up or softening of the church regulations relating to numerous practices heretofore not allowed by the church.

In the general conference at Springfield, Mass., which has just closed a vote of four to one was passed changing one important section of the discipline of that body. A minority report recommending the following exceptions was voted down by a vote of 460 to 295.

"Taking such diversions as cannot be used in the name of the Lord Jesus, such as attendance upon immoral, questionable and misleading theatrical or motion picture performances, or Sunday performances of the same; dancing and such games of chance as are frequently associated with gambling, all of which have been found to be antagonistic to vital piety, promotive of worldliness, and especially pernicious to youth."

We prefer not to discuss this question because it is so big, however, it would seem that the church bodies of this section will not need to change their articles of discipline because church people are doing the things at large.

Newspapers are like ordinary common folks, especially in one particular case. They receive lots of good advice.

One thing often handed a newspaper in a quiet undertone, is that Mr. A needs a real cursing out and the newspaper should give it to him and while the editor is meditating over that advice, another friend comes along and suggests how good Mr. B is and that the paper should open its pages and enlarge its columns in songs of praise to his name.

To giving both friends due consideration and a fair deal as newspapers should always do, we see how dangerous it is to say all the good things you know about your friends and all the bad things about your enemies. It is frequently so that we are unable to see straight when we are judging our friends and our enemies, and our friends today may be our enemies tomorrow.

Clean Up Paint Up

TO MAKE EVERY COMMUNITY AS CLEAN AS ITS CLEANEST HOME

In this campaign all classes of people learn how to work and play together. Chronic knockers are led into the ranks of the loyal and useful boosters. The streets and alleys are cleaned up, repaired, and thereafter kept in good condition. It removes the accumulations of waste and rubbish, thereby eliminating the most common cause of destructive fires. Fire traps are razed, and often replaced by modern buildings. Lots are mowed cleaned up and converted into playgrounds or thrift gardens, thus preventing their return to disorderliness. They are cleaned up and beautified. Stone and brick work is sand blasted. Landscaping is renewed. Shrubby is trimmed. Trees are planted. Lawns are mowed and raked. Backyards are cleaned up. Homes are thoroughly cleaned inside and out, from cellar to garret, after which they are dedicated to continued cleanliness and better living conditions by the ministrations of the painter and decorator. Thus the living conditions of all classes of people are improved. Every possible breeding place for disease is rooted up and destroyed. Mosquitoes, flies, rats, roaches and other pests are practically obliterated. This campaign saves human lives.

The weakness to over praise or over condemn candidates for office is one of the great weaknesses of the people. We are not careful enough of the things they do and do not, and that we should condemn and praise. We now happen to be in the midst of much turmoil and we see men become excited and say a good deal that is hard to know what to believe. It seems that the candidates can get the best folks to spread propaganda for the winner too often because untruthful folks are more ready to spread false news than the reliable. We cannot be too careful in selecting those who are to rule over us and we should not listen to too much propaganda.

The newly produced death ray which Professor Matthew of England claims as his invention, but which in fact has been known in American science for some years, is said to kill every living thing in its range of many feet. This is another proof that science will be the base of destruction in future warfare. It will of course make but little difference to the poor fellow who has to die any way, regardless of whether is from the effects of a bright light, a butcher knife, a long range gun or a deadly gas.

The best thing for men and nations to learn is how to prevent war. If every man will make proper contribution in this respect it will help.

THE PRIVILEGED FEW

Most everywhere and in our town especially may be found the privileged few. Law violators, they are. And they violate the laws because they consider the "stuff" and because if they should, by chance, be punished could pay their way out. Watch the corners and see who fail to obey the law; stand on Main street and see who run over ten miles an hour; attend the hearings and see who you find accused. It is the common ordinary man who stops for the corners, who stays within the speed limits, and while this class is guilty of not stopping and speeding it is because they saw some of those who think they are violating the law. It is some one's place to set the example and by so doing there would be no cost to be paid, but rather, the example has to be set by someone who is hardly able to buy license for his car, and at an expense.

Read the following and see what the editor of the Chapel Hill Weekly has to say when the two classes are at stake: "I see in the New York Times that a certain wealthy restaurant proprietor, found unmistakably guilty of violating the prohibition law, was punished by having his restaurant closed to the public. It is pretty safe to assume that he is still living in the enjoyment of the good things of life that money can buy. On the same day I see in a newspaper that two poor and ignorant countrymen discovered operating a still in the country where I live, were chased thru the woods and finally caught. They will be convicted and sentenced to the roads. "Is this not a disgraceful state of affairs, that a man of wealth, who knew full well what he was doing, escapes imprisonment, while these men, handicapped in life by poverty and ignorance, are run down and severely punished? With such facts laid out in the public prints, is it any wonder that people have little belief in the justice of the law? All over the land today, these miserable bootleggers and moonshiners are being hounded into the roads as convicts, while on the other side these very roads dwell well-to-do people, clothed in respectability and quite safe from the intrusion of the police, who have bought and are consuming the product which these unfortunate fellows were caught making. Of course it would be well if all the laws could be effectively enforced; but no enforcement of the prohibition law would be vastly better than this inequality in enforcement which exists today."

1921, by J. L. Ballard, and of record in Martin County Public Registry in Book H-2, page 450, securing certain bonds of even date and tenor therewith, and the stipulations in said deed of trust not having been complied with and at the request of the holder of said bonds, the undersigned trustee will on the 5th day of June, 1924, at 12:00 o'clock, noon, in front of the court house door of Martin County, offer at public auction to the highest bidder, for cash, the following described lands:

First Tract—Beginning at a small pine on the Hamilton Road at the Southeast corner of Lot No. 1; thence South 46 West 210 poles to the run of Wards Swamp at the Southwest corner of lot No. 1; thence down the run of said Swamp to the corner of lot No. 3; thence North 46 West about 200 poles to a post on Log Chapel Road; thence North 17 West 30 poles up said road to a point between the Hamilton and Log Chapel Roads; thence Northwardly along the Williams line 20 poles to the beginning, containing 60 acres, more or less.

Second Tract—Beginning at a post on the Log Chapel Road at the Southeast corner of Lot No. 2; thence South 46 West 208 poles to the run of Wards Swamp; thence down the various courses of said Swamp to Joseph Early's corner; thence along the said Early's line to the Log Chapel Road; thence North up said road 91 yards to the beginning, containing 55 acres more or less.

This the 6th day of May, 1924. 5-9-24.

A tenant farmer of Union County at the age of fifty years bought his own farm last year paying $4100 for it. The first thing he did was to find the county agent and get his help and advice in terracing and planning his work. County Agent T. J. W. Broom went out and spent two days with him. Before the agent left, the farmer pointed to a terraced field and said, "Some day, if you live, and do, I am going to show you one hundred bushels of corn per acre growing on that land." Such was his confidence in the help of his agent.

The officials at Washington will be able to handle the whole bonus business without troubling the soldier to have to stand in the trouble line for record of service or other red tape. Of course this will sound good to the boys when they find they will not do any thing except sign an application. By this method the department will send blanks promptly without a many months to obtain their certificates.
