Charles Alton Summerlin, who departed this life one year ago, July 20. 1924

Our home is sad and lonely Without your smiling face, No one can fill your vacant chair And rone can fill your place. Your cheery smile and kindly way Are pleacant to recall,

You had a smile for every on And died beloved by Jl. Surrounded by friends we are

In the misist of pi-asure, we're blue smill on our face and a heartache. Always thinking of you. mourn for you in silence.

But not with outward show; r hearts that mourn sincerely, Mourn silently and low.
