"ACHED & AGED"

Lady Says Her Back "Hurt Night and Day"—Least Noise Upset Her. Better After Taking Cardui.

Winfield, Texas.—"My back hurt night and day," says Mrs. C. L. Eason, of R. F. D. 1, this place. "I ached and ached until I could hardly go. I felt weak and did not feel like doing anything. My work was a great burden to me. I just hated to do up the dishes, even. I was no-account and extremely nervous."

"My mother had taken Cardui and she thought it would do me good, so she told me to take it. My husband got me a bottle and I began on it. I began to improve at once. It was such a help that I continued it until after the baby's birth."

"I took eight bottles and I can certainly say that it helped me. It is a fine tonic. It built me up and seemed to strengthen me. I grew less nervous and began to sleep better."

"I can certainly recommend Cardui to expectant mothers, for to me it was a wonderful help. In every way I felt better after taking it and I think it is a splendid medicine."

Cardui is purely vegetable, and contains no harmful drugs, and is for sale everywhere. NC-162

Facts About the Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association

No. 4—REDRYING

Constant attempts by opponents of cooperative marketing to dissatisfy members of the tobacco association with its redrying policies have brought to light the fact that the association has saved several hundred thousand dollars by cutting the cost of its redrying, according to investigation by State officials from North Carolina, South Carolina, and Virginia, who state in their report:

"The committee has gone into this criticism very thoroughly and finds the following:

"During the first year of its operation the officers of the association succeeded in getting the redrying of its tobacco done at a basic price of $1.75 per hundred pounds, but when it came time to make contracts for the rearing of the second year's crop it appeared as if the principal rearers would not undertake the work for less than $2.00 per hundred pounds. Some of them wanted as much as $2.25. As the 1923 crop was a very large one, the association was faced with the problem of redrying at least two-thirds of the crop, and this increased price meant an additional cost of several hundred thousand dollars.

"From its investigation, the committee believes that the association saved its members at least 25 cents per hundred pounds in redrying costs on the 1923 crop, and perhaps 50 cents per hundred in redrying costs on a part of the 1924 crop. The association got a large part of its tobacco redried at a cost of $1.75 per hundred in 1923, due to the fact that redriers came to this basic price. During 1924 the Edmondson Tobacco Co. further reduced its charge for redrying to $1.50 per hundred lbs.
