IN DEFENSE OF COUNTY GOVERNMENT

The October number of the University News Letter says, "The jungle of American democracy is going to receive official attention—we refer to county government."

Viewed from every angle, we must say that the statement is a little drastic, if not caustic.

Of course, we know that county government stands among the first of the political organizations of our country, and like most other old things, is full of defects, and it sometimes looks almost like a crime to see men in charge of a job of such big proportions, with so little capacity, yet after all is said and done there is still some good ground of defense for the government plan.

There was a time when county government—that is to say, the commissioners of a county—were entrusted with all the duties of county affairs, including schools and roads.

The road government gradually grew from under them, and while we have improvement we pay well for the difference.

The schools have also been taken out of the hands of the county commissioners and placed in the hands of special boards.

With the new order of things the present so-called "jungles of democracy" have nothing to do except look after the county paupers, draw juries, and occasionally replace a broken window pane in a courthouse or jail—and levy exorbitant taxes for extravagant school boards, or it may be road commissioners, who are equally as big spenders.

The heavy expenditures by school and road boards have so shocked things that county commissioners, who get their proportionate share of public criticism for high taxes and extravagance, are almost forced to be parsimonious in their transactions. They happen to be in the very cross-fire of criticism from both the taxpayers and the tax spenders, which really whips them to the extent that they fail to transact the affairs properly within their sphere of duty in a businesslike way, thereby gaining for themselves the criticism for being stingy and incompetent.

We have no criticism to make against road builders. And, of course, everybody knows—or should know—that education is our only hope for freedom and prosperity. And though education comes high, it is worth more than the cost.

The News Letter might find a few criticisms against the school government as well as so much against county governments.

The educational program seems to lord it over other branches of our state and county governments. Many people see the apparent tendency to drift the pupil away from frugality and thrift toward the desire and tendency to luxury and laziness.

There seems to be a spirit of pride in the new day that calls for expense without limit, and the big spending boards have no grounds to thrust all the blame on the county system, which is, in fact, about the only check that we have against the wave of extravagance.

HUGE 101 RANCH REAL WILD WEST AND FAR EAST COMING
Circus paste brushes are slapping against billboards, dead walls, and fences today; but they're beating a new tune—the rousing, soul-stirring song of cowboys and Indians, plainsmen and frontiersmen, for Miller Brothers' 101 Ranch Real Wild West and Great Far East comes to Tarboro Thursday, October 22, and the big show's No. 1 advertising car, Clyde Willard in command, with 30 billposters, lithographers, and bannermen on board, was in Tarboro last week to bill the greatest of all wild west shows, past or present, and the second-largest circus on earth.

Yes, Miller Brothers, who own the famous 101 ranch at Marland, Okla., which contains nearly 150,000 acres, have once more assembled the great 101 show, adding to it a great far east. It's been over eight long years since a wild west was on the road, and the country is eager for the coming of such a show, especially when it comes larger than any of its kind ever was before, presenting hundreds of features and novelties never dreamed of in the old days. Yes, there are elephants, camels, buffalo, oxen, long-horns with 101, and the long, orange-colored stock cars of the trains bring 600 horses, broncos, Arabian stallions, blooded jumpers and flat-racers, ring-steeds, mustangs, outlaws, Chinese and Cossack cavalry mounts.

Every famous Indian chief and warrior in America will be found among the 300 redskins with the huge western troupe, and the cowboys and cow-boys are all of champion rating in rough riding, bronco busting, roping and bulldozing. Then, too, there are many famous outfits among the spectacular Oriental contingents.

There are 1,400 people with 101 Ranch, and the spread of canvas, including the huge rectangular big top, with its opera chair grandstand and auxiliary tiers, seating 14,000 people, cover 15 acres. The shows promises a mighty opening spectacle, gorgeous and opulent, with sensational lighting effects, hitherto unknown in the world of the white tops.

Lady Says She Took Cardui and Never Saw Such Improvement—Was So Weak Couldn't Stand.

Weatherby, Miss.—Mrs. James M. Hall, of this place, writes that she was "getting weaker all the time" when Cardui, the woman's tonic, was first brought to her attention. After she had taken Cardui a while, she writes that she "never did see such an improvement."

"I suffered all the time and had pains all over," says Mrs. Hall. "I was so weak I could not stand. My skin was cold and flabby. I did not have any color. I had always been a very active woman—used to outdoor exercise, walking and going where I pleased, and to get down, not able to get myself a drink, was indeed a hardship."

"Nothing seemed to help me, till I began on Cardui. The first bottle seemed to strengthen me, and I sent for five more. By the time I had taken these, I was on my feet, going around, doing my work, gained in health and strength."

"I took two more bottles, and I am well and strong. Can work my garden. I haven't had any more sickness."

The Wise Guy and The Clown

A constant reader of my "Bull" Durham Ads writes in and says: "If there was another smoking Tobacco the equal of 'Bull' Durham a lot of us would quit you no matter how much it cost. But alas there is no equal at any price as we have all found out at various times. So we must hasten to turn the pages and groan, whenever we encounter the CLOWN Ads of Will Rogers; who is trying to discredit the work of the WORLD'S FAVORITE TOBACCO."

See that Bird wrote this whole Ad for me himself. He knocked me but he boosted "Bull" Durham. He fell right into my hands. Its only by the wisdom of our smart people that us CLOWNS and Fools are allowed to ride in Limousines. They say "The Lord protects the foolish," so, I am nesting right under his wing. So thanks Mr. Smart Man, write us another Ad. It will only cost you two cents
