How a Pennsylvania Farmer Uses Concrete!

Concrete Improvements on the Farm of Wm. R. Stover, near Greencastle, Penna.

Concrete Conveniences like those shown above make any farm a more efficient business place. They save the farmer's time, make his work easier, let him work quicker, and make his place more profitable. Concrete work on the farm does not cost a lot of money. First cost is usually very low because the farmer can do most of the work himself. But first cost is the only cost, because Concrete never wears out; never needs expensive repairs; never burns, rots, rusts or decays.

Plan now to put in those improvements you have always wanted. The few dollars you spend will be a small price to pay for the convenience and service they will give you. Ask any Security Cement dealer how you can do it yourself; or write to the manufacturer for helpful information and practical working plans.
