JUDGE MIDYETTE: CONDEMNS JOY-RIDING AT NIGHT

Suys Hard-Surfaced Roads and Auto-mubite Displace Segregated Districts in Immorality

Headerson, N. C., Jan. 7.—The automobile and hard-surfaced highway are displacing the segregated districts in immorality, Judge G. E. Midyette believes. In expressing this opinion in his charge to the grand jury in Vance County superior court, Judge Midyette condemned night riding and the laxity of parents in not being stricter with their children and keeping them at home at night.

The slackening in the restrictions of home life were given by the jurist as the cause for the increase of crime all over the country.

Judge Midyette told the grand jury he believed the world was growing better, and that there were more good men and women in the world than ever before, but that it requires more strength of character to be a good man or woman now than it ever had in the past. He said that the surprise is not that there is as much crime as there is, but that there isn't more, in the light of existing conditions.

The court deplored the increase in lawenias by young men declaring that

The court deplored the increase in larvenies by young men, declaring that this was caused by the boys not being kept home at nights. The grown-up's send the boys in to the stealing, while the former stand at a safe distance and watch, he said.

Citizens could do much to lessen the law violation, the jurist believes, if parents would keep their fingers on their children and curb their indiscretions and wildness.

Rev. Clarance O. Pardo, Rector The first Sunday after Epiphany: 9.00 a. m.—Children's Eucharist. 9.45 a. m.—Church school and Advent Bible Class. 11 a. m.—Morning prayer and sermon.

The word "Epiphany means the manifestation of Christ to the Gen-manifestation of Christ to the Gentiles.

Our blessed Lord came on earth for the salvation of all people. His birth was made known first to the Jews by the angels; second to the Gentiles, by the star, spoken of by the Prophet Balaam. The star led the Gentile wise men to the place of the nativity.

So Epiphany has been set apart by the church for many hundreds of years to be a season when we may reflect upon the wonderfulness and goodness of God, as well as the many ways God works, His wonder to perform.

The effect of the manifestation of Christ to the Gentiles is, first, the knowledge of truth; second, the power to fulfill truth. All this wrapped up in Christ, who is the truth. "Know the truth, and the truth shall make you free."

Begins Sermon Series On "Apostle's Creed"

Beginning next Sunday morning, Mr. Pardo, rector of the Church of the Advent, will begin a series of sermons on "The Apostle's Creed,"

Mr. Pardo has expressed himself as believing that most people believe the New Testament, accept the teachings concerning Christ as true, and indorse the example and sayings of Christ; yet are not, as St. Peter said, "Ready always to give answer to every man

Bad Roads General Report Over County

Bad roads is the general report from every section of the county, especially from the rural mail carriers. The automobile seems to make roads impassible unless they have fair drainage, which is one of the big defects with the roads in this part of the State.

The State roads have stood up fairly well, even after the freeze traveling was not so much hindered except in a few places.

Parents-Teachers Association Had Best Meeting of the Year At School Building Yesterday

The parents-teachers associa-tion had the best meeting of this school year at the school house yesterday afternoon. There was a very good crowd present, and much interest was manifested. The eighth grade received the prize for the best attendance of parents.

There was no prepared program except Professor Seymour's talk. He first assured the parents of the safety of the school building, an erroneous report that the whole building was unsafe having been circulated. Professor Seymour told them of the letters he is sending to the parents of the children explaining their standing in their work, and asking those whose children stand a slim chance of making their grade to begin new to help them while there remains time. He also explained the system of grading used in the school.

Mrs. Dunning, the president, made a suitable talk on the new year's resolutions. And before the meeting adjourned a committee was appoined to nominate officers for the incoming year.

The man arrested by Sheriff Roberson was found at the home of Sam Pool of Smitherithe Create Washing I say "The Christian people of Mar-tin County" merely because I am speaking only to them; but the text itself is a universal one. It is the platform of Christ Himself; it constitutes the business of all the people of tutes the business of all the people of God.

It is interesting to hear what Jesus had to say about Himself. Preachers and writers have been speaking and talking and writting about Him for all these centuries; but to hear Him speak for Himself is reassuring and appearance. It is thought by the sheriff that he has the wrong man, though he is holding him pending directions from officers of Craven County.

Strange to say, Haggard says he is glad he was arrested and has the opportunity to be in jail, as he has neither food nor money and can get no work to do during this bad weather and that the jail bars look good to him. When He came, life was not abun dant on the earth; it was meager. He was not satisfied that there should merely be life. He wanted us to know the best life, the abundant life, the life which God intended for His children.

This abundant life about which the children.

This abundant life about which the Master spoke includes all phases of life—certainly it means a full spiritual life, a full mental life, a full bodily life and a full social life.

Life may be darkest in the realms of the spirit. One may have eyes and not see; ears and not hear. He wants to illumine the realm of men's spirits; and the abundant life of which He speaks can not come into its own until the regions of men's hearts and souls have been reached. He is the sun orighteousness rising with healing. It is the function of light to illumine, to clarify and to purify. And wherever men have made the test, it is the universal experience that Jesus of Nazareth brings into the realm of men's hearts and spirits not only life but an abundance of life.

The people of the world have always enjoyed a fuller mental life in the wake of the teachings of the Man of Galilee. For Hia teachings foster democracy, the democracy of learning. Where human hearts are liberated, human intellects are emancipated. If Jesus came to bring us abundant life.

man intellects are emancipated. If Jesus came to bring us abundant life, then we must think that anything which contributes to this abundant life which contributes to this abundant life is Christian—is Christilike. So, if the publishing of good books and their reading brings us a fuller and more abundant life, then we must believe that this is in line with what Jesus is talking about. If the distribution of religous literature assists, then we must accept it in this light. If newspapers, libraries and all agencies for the dissemination of the agencies of mental emancipation bring about or help to bring about intellectual emancipation, then we are made to believe cipation, then we are made to believe that this is in line with the platform of the man who made it his business to go about doing good.

We have never placed proper emphasis on our bodies. We are yet to realize that if we are to expect strong intellects and great souls that their to purchase mid-winter goods for his housing facilities must be abundant— that our human bodies, in order to that our human bodies, in order to foster great intellects and spirits, must be as good as we can make them—even our physical bodies must not only exist, but they must be fit, and fit temples for the Holy Ghost. Occasionally, we see robust brains in dwarf bodies; sometimes men have great souls when their bodies are emancipated, but there are not the rule. The rule is that bright minds and great souls habitate the bodily temples where there is not only physi-and great souls habitate the bodily temples where there is not only physical life but an abundance of it.

Man does not live by bread alone. To have a strong body, possessed by a fine intellect and endowed with an aspiring soul is not enough within itself. We are social—we are related to each other—are our brother's keepers. There never has been a time when Mr. Eure was around 67 years of age. He became ill duving the forencon and had a doctor with him in mid afternoon. Immediately after taking a dose of medicine prescribed by the physician, he died. Neuralgia of the heart is said to have been the cause of his death.

Besides his widow, Mr. Eure is survived by several children, one son at Duke University and a daughter at Greensboro College.

While funeral arrangements have not been made, it is thought by friends that burial may be in Nash County, where Mr. Eure was born. He had been a Methodist minister for many years, and had served in many parts of the State, having been in his third year at Nerlina at the time of his death. self. We are social—we are related to each other—are our brother's keepers. There never has been a time when this is so true. We can no longer live a tribal existence. If the Great War did nothing else, it taught us, happily, that we are citizens of the world, that we live in a universe and not a gluriverse. What we do affects others; what is happening on the other side of the world will have its certain bearing on us. Christ came; He said that we might have life in greater abundance. To carry this over into the realm of the social, into the realm of relations with fellowmen the world over will make of us a more considerate people, a more brotherly people; and will, without a doubt, tend to bring into the world the life abundant of which He spoke.

I conceive it then to be the mission of the Christian people in this county to champion this program of the Master's. All of us are interested in a fuller and a richer and a more abundant life. That's why He said He came. Anything, any act of ours which will contribute toward it will surely be Christian. This is our task. It is our mission.

Mrs. Hubert Morton and daughter, Katherine, have returned from Kin ston, where they spent the holidays.
