By James D. Taylor

I have just read a story about a man who made lots of money unlaw-He built himself a beautifu and set up therein many ser He was supplied with expen thing that man could desire. While all around him were the many people who continued to live poorly but honestly, unable to have the material things that the rich man afforded. But they had something far greater than the man with riches. They had peace of mind, able to look the world in the face unashamed. They were able to eat and sleep in peace; this blessing earned by honest work. Not so with the rich man who had acquired riches
