A GREAT PAPER'S FORTY YEARS OF USEFULNESS

Forty years of honest service can truthfully be said of the "Progressive Farmer," now the greatest farm paper in the world. The last issue closed the fortieth year of the publication of that paper.

It was founded forty-one years ago by L. L. Polk, a man of vision, who lived for his fellow man; not only in the years of his life but by building a foundation upon which the agricultural interests of this country might safely stand. Colonel Polk was Commissioner of Agriculture for North Carolina from 1877 to 1886, which brought him in touch with the working folks of the State and inspired him to lift the platform on which they stood to a higher level, where more opportunities awaited them.

He was a real servant of the people from 1860—when he was elected to the legislature of North Carolina from Anson County—until he died in Washington, D. C., in 1889, serving as a legislator, a soldier, a builder of the State constitution, commissioner of agriculture, and an active organizer of farmers. But none of his works have reached and helped so many people as the establishing of the Progressive Farmer, which has sweetened the lives of so many people who otherwise would not have known how.

The Progressive Farmer has taught every phase of better farming and better living conditions among farming people. It has taught the better methods—how to apply the poorest grain of sand to the richest swamp muck. It has taught us how to keep healthy. It has taught education as being the safety valve to success.

The paper now goes into nearly a half million homes. Good fortune came to the Progressive Farmer in its present management, when Clarence Poe, in January, 1899—then only a boy—finished picking cotton on his father's farm in Chatham County and went to Raleigh and grasped the editorial helm. Like Colonel Polk, Editor Poe's greatest desire has been to help the people, and he has succeeded well. It is under his leadership that the Polk dreams came true.

And we are sure that the flowers are only beginning to bloom in its great field of usefulness.

COULD NOT THE POST OFFICE BE THE NATIONAL MILK MAN?

The important thing in America is the baby of today, destined to be the president, the postmaster, the millionaire, mechanic, and farm of the coming generation.

The important thing for the baby—and therefore for America's future—is milk.

Postmaster General New knows that the farmer gets at most four or five cents a quart for his milk. And the mother who needs milk for her children pays from 15 to 20 cents.

In other words, the farmer—if he does well—after raising the calf, weaning it, teaching it to drink out of a pail, getting up before dawn 265 times a year, cleaning out the stable raising the feed and doing all the rest of it, gets 3 to 5 cents a quart for producing the milk. And somebody, usually an "intelligent combine," gets from 12 to 20 per quart for delivering the milk.

Mr. Postmaster, why can't you be the milkman and deliver the milk? You deliver eggs now and handle millions of them with minimum breakage, as poultrymen will testify.

OVER 10,000 FARMERS' ORGANIZATIONS IN THE U. S.

The United States Department of Agriculture announced recently that there were 10,803 farmers' business organizations in the United States at the end of 1925, handling nearly every product grown under the sun.

The progressive States of Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin, Illinois, lead in the number of such organizations.

The gross amount of business done by these associations reach into several billions, and saved the producers many millions.

Everything points to a rapid growth of cooperative associations of nearly every kind. The tobacco associations are having the hardest pull of any because of the greatness of the project and the highly centralized and organized condition of the buyers and manufacturers of tobacco, who are controlled by so few people.

OPPOSED TO MODIFICATION OF THE VOLSTEAD ACT

Rev. Dr. James Empringham was mistaken when he rushed to Washington with the statement that the Episcopal Church stood for a modification of the Volstead act, according to the New York Times, which gathered the information from twenty-three bishops of the Episcopal church—five favoring modification and eighteen opposing it.

Bishop Manning, of New York, said that Empringham did not speak for the Episcopal church of either the nation or the Diocese of New York, and that he hoped the prohibition amendment would never be repealed.

Taking the numerous replies received by the Times as a true basis the wet Congressmen were a little premature in getting the Empringham statement printed in the Congressional Record.

PAINS ALL OVER

Lady Says She Took Cardui and Never Saw Such Improvement—Was So Weak Couldn't Stand.

Weatherbury, Miss.—Mrs. James M. Hall, of this place, writes that she was "getting weaker all the time" when Cardui, the woman's tonic, was first brought to her attention. After she had taken Cardui a while, she writes that she "never did see such an improvement."

"I suffered all the time and had pains all over," says Mrs. Hall. "I was so weak I could not stand. My skin was cold and flabby. I did not have any color. I had always been a very active woman—used to outdoor exercise, walking and going where I pleased, and to get down, not able to get myself a drink, was indeed a hardship."

"Nothing seemed to help me, till I began on Cardui. The first bottle seemed to strengthen me, and I sent for five more. By the time I had taken these, I was on my feet, going around, doing my work, gained in health and strength."

"I took two more bottles, and I am well and strong. Can work my garden. I haven't had any more sickness."

Torrid Tobacco Stove

CURES TOBACCO WITH OIL
"Sleep While Others Work"
Every One Knows the Worry and Sleepless Nights You Have During the Tobacco Season. This System Eliminates this Trouble

Mr. H. M. Avent, State Distributor, Rocky Mount, N. C. Greenville, N. C., Oct. 22, 1925.

My dear sir:—I used one set of your Torrid Tobacco Stoves through the whole of the past season, and I am thoroughly satisfied with their work. My barn is 16 by 20 feet, and I could get all the heat I wanted, and it was distributed perfectly. I had lots of trouble in curing out this year with my wood barn, but none whatever with oil. I had regular heats at all times, and I positively did not have to sit up at night. You can cure a 16-foot barn with from 65 to 85 gallons of oil. They will certainly do everything you claim for them, and there is absolutely no danger of fire. I consider them much cheaper than wood.

Yours very truly,
J. W. MURPHY.

TEN-ACRE TOBACCO CROP BRINGS $6,000.00

(Clipping from The Raleigh News & Observer)
"Kinston, N. C., Nov. 12th.—A ten-acre crop of Tobacco on the farm of J. E. Mumford of Pitt County has paid him more than $6,000 this fall. He has received more than $600 per acre for the production in the early season slump. Most of the $6,000 represented profit to Mumford, according to warehouse acquaintances here, since he is a "live-at-home" grower, producing his own pork, grain, and other necessities."

MR. MUMFORD USED 1,000 POUNDS PER ACRE OF OUR VELVET TOBACCO GROWER

Williamston, N. C.
January 14th, 1926.

Chas. W. Priddy & Co., Inc., Norfolk, Va.

Gentlemen:

I used on my tobacco crop in 1925 750 pounds per acre of VELVET TOBACCO GROWER, and on another part of my crop 1,000 pounds per acre of your SUNSHINE TOBACCO GROWER.

We had 5 acres in tobacco, from which we harvested 7,298 pounds, and sold the same for a net return of $3,023.01. This, you will see, is a net yield of something over $625.00 per acre.

I intend to use your goods on my 1926 crop.

Gentlemen:

I have been using your fertilizer for several years and I think there is none better made by any one, and but few, if any, as good. I have used your goods on all my crops and will gladly recommend them to any one, and especially your tobacco goods. I have never failed to make a good crop of tobacco since using your goods.
