STATE RIGHTS AGAIN BEING OVERWORKED

State rights is being somewhat overworked again. This time Governor Ritchie, of Maryland, comes before the American people as a Democratic candidate for the presidency of the United States, with the popular plank—"States Rights."

It looks more like a certain big influence trying to break up the law and tread it down than a real desire to promote the old time State rights when we as a nation did not have things in common as we do now. That was a day when we lived more as tribes or neighborhoods, and about the only use one State or section had for another was to assist in fighting Indians or to put down foreign invasion.

We had no railroad, no telegraph, no telephone, no power lines, and only occasionally a postage stamp.

Now we know no State lines. A man may cross several States daily in attending to his ordinary business affairs. The interchange and interlocking of both business and social relations of the people of this country has become to be one thing in common to every State alike. Every public service, as well as every public utility is held and operated as interstate institutions.

The whole trend of our civilization is to broaden and enlarge the family of men rather than to narrow down to the point of selfishness and littleness.

We can see nothing in the Ritchie of Virginia with liquor or New Jersey wash Delaware away with beer. Governor Ritchie will evidently find before he receives the honor of a Democratic presidential nomination that the old cry of personal liberty and do as you please has been modified in the minds of the people and that the folks are now willing to sacrifice selfishness if it helps others to do so.

INCOME-TAX DODGING-DAYS WITH US AGAIN

These are the trying days in the camps of the rich, who are busy figuring themselves poor to dodge the income tax. The average person loves riches, and most of them perhaps enjoy the distinction among their neighbors of being called rich. Not so, though, with many, just before the dawn of March, when incomes are to be listened, then riches become a burden and we try to figure ourselves out of them. The scene is somewhat similar to that described when we enter the valley of death. Our riches may prove a burden.

NOTICE OF CANDIDACY

I hereby announce myself as candidate for the office of representative of Martin County, subject to the action of the Democratic party, and solicit the support of the men and women of this county.

How Doctors Treat Colds and the Flu

To break up a cold overnight or to cut short an attack of grippe, influenza, sore throat or tonsillitis, physicians and druggists are now recommending Calotabs, the purified and refined calomel compound tablet that gives you the effects of calomel and salts combined, without the unpleasant effects of either.

One or two Calotabs at bed-time with a swallow of water—that's all. No salts, no nausea nor the slightest interference with your eating, work or pleasure. Next morning your cold has vanished, your system is thoroughly purified and you are feeling fine with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you please—no danger.

Get a family package, containing full directions, only 25 cents. At any drug store. (adv.)

Building Supplies

Men who have built before, speak from experience and say that no matter what you build put the best materials into the job. Why? Because it pays in the long run. Good materials resist age and weather. The best doesn't always cost the most. Not if you buy from us. Our buying power enables us to sell the highest grades of lumber and the best materials for lower prices than you'll pay elsewhere.

No matter what you want to build it will pay you to get our figures.

PAINS ALL OVER

Lady Says She Took Cardui and Never Saw Such Improvement—Was So Weak Couldn't Stand.

Weatherbury, Miss.—Mrs. James M. Hall, of this place, writes that she was "getting weaker all the time" when Cardui, the woman's tonic, was first brought to her attention. After she had taken Cardui a while, she writes that she "never did see such an improvement."

"I suffered all the time and had pains all over," says Mrs. Hall. "I was so weak I could not stand. My skin was cold and flabby. I did not have any color. I had always been a very active woman—used to outdoor exercise, walking and going where I pleased, and to get down, not able to get myself a drink, was indeed a hardship."

"Nothing seemed to help me, till I began on Cardui. The first bottle seemed to strengthen me, and I went for five more. By the time I had taken these, I was on my feet, going around, doing my work, gained in health and strength."

"I took two more bottles, and I am well and strong. Can work my garden. I haven't had any more sickness."
