HAS WILLIAMSTON HIGH IDEALS?

"Believe me, my fellow countrymen, the only people in the world who are going to reap the harvest of the future are the people who can entertain ideals, who can follow ideals to the death."—Woodrow Wilson.

THE OPPORTUNITY RIGHT HERE AT HOME

A good place to live seems to be the desire of most men. Yet we too often fail to use proper judgment in making our selections. The thing that calls us generally is the accomplishments of others. We rush where improvements have already been wrought, where the roads, the bridges, the houses have already been built and paid for and the lands already cleared. We rush to the roappings rather than to the sowings. We had rather spend than to earn.

We see people rush to the places of beauty and wealth, often passing golden opportunities that they themselves might build up a good place to live.

The real man is he who designs his place in society, social and business life in the solid rock and pecks it to perfection himself rather than to adapt the country and improvements of the other fellow, just because it is easier. What we need to do is to seek the places of open opportunity where we may be able to build our own cities and monuments.

Then we should seek places of opportunity, such as soil, climate and location.

How about Eastern Carolina as a good place to live, if the soil, climate and location count? It is not a far statement to say that we outclass Florida and western North Carolina a long way. They may be good places to live and spend your money, but if you really want a good place to live and make your money stay where you are, the laws of economics make eastern North Carolina a good place to live in. There are few places on earth that have more advantages in fertility, transportation, climate, uniform rainfall, close to the best of markets, with purity of race, than eastern Carolina. The land that not only feeds itself but others.

Those who are looking for a place to live and who are willing to work for their living should come to eastern Carolina—a good place to live.

FOREST CONSERVATION AND RE-NEWAL CAMPAIGN

Will Martin County join the forest conservation and renewal campaign to be conducted next week?

Many people who are born and reared among the trees fail to appreciate their importance and value to all animal and plant life.

The trees furnish shelter for practically every living thing. The wild beast not only finds rest under their shade but protection against the storm and cold. Man makes a further use of the tree in building houses in which to live.

There is nothing in all of God's creation so generally used by everything, both great and small, and everywhere, as the tree, except the air and the water.

Then it is important that we conserve the trees. We can plant a seed and God will produce a tree, or we can carelessly drop a match and burn down thousands that have required a century for growth.

In some countries where they have passed the wasteful stage, the forest is protected by laws equally as stringent as the laws which protect the barns, stores, and homes of the people.

In our own countries we have laws against fires and forest destruction, yet we do not enforce them very much. The actual loss by careless and malicious fires in our own country is many times greater each year than from all the stealing done in the county; yet we find few fire cases on the criminal docket, while we find the same docket crowded with stealing cases.

Timber experts say that it is easily possible for an acre of land to grow all the way from $1 to $5 in timber values each year when proper care is taken and fires kept out.

It takes five years to grow a long-leaf pine five inches high, while it will grow 10 feet the second five years. This makes it very difficult to renew a long-leaf forest where the land is swept each year by fire. The young and tender plant is nearly always destroyed before it gets a start; and, again, where hogs range the long-leaf pine is usually destroyed; the young plant seems to be greatly relished by the hog, which roots deep into the clay to get the tap root of the young tree.

Two-thirds of all the land in Martin County is growing timber and every citizen of the county owes it to himself to assist nature all he can to help in the growth and development of the forests.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTIONS IMPORTANT TO THE VOTER

Democratic conventions will be held in every precinct in North Carolina either tonight or Saturday, according to the Democratic plan of organization.

The root of good government springs from the convention—the people. If every citizen would exercise his full duty by attending his convention making his wishes known and demanding his full rights at the hands of his representatives we would have a better government. We too often let the other fellow fix things and we do the "cussin'" afterwards.

Conventions are just as essential to good government as seed are for the harvest, because the voice of the people is Democracy.

Flat to the roof—locked tight!

A shingled roof that LOCKS OUT wind—rain—weather! Each shingle locked flat on all four sides. Good-looking—fire-safe. What more could you possibly ask in a roof?

You'll like the new Barrett Wedglock Shingles. They're laid right over the old roof—give double protection.

Come in and see them. Prices? Better than reasonable.

We endorse

NEIGHBOR: "Some windstorm last night! Ripped a job of the old shingles right off my roof!"
OWNER: "Believe me I'm glad I got my new roof on in time. Those shingles stay locked-tight to the roof—no matter how hard it blows!"
