BUSINESS LAST MONTH WELL DISTRIBUTED

Bradstreet presented the best business map of our country for last month that they have given us for many moons.

It can not be called a good map, yet it shows less bad than we have been having. Comparing it with a year ago, when there were 10 big black spots, meaning poor business conditions, shown, some covering almost entire States; at the same time they showed a relatively large area of white, indicating fine business conditions. Especially is this notable of southern Florida. The unbalanced conditions of a year ago were all found in the eastern half of the United States; both the best and the worst were found there, while the general even, or fair, business condition extended over the entire western half of the country.

Now the fair condition covers the entire nation except a small section around Detroit and Chicago.

The trend of business conditions toward a common level is always a relief to any section. It enables one community to exchange its commodities on a fair basis for the products of other communities without having to pay an unreasonable exchange.

With cotton swinging lower and lower every day, there is danger of a slump in the cotton belt.

BEST REFORMATORY IS CHRISTIAN FAMILY'S PARLOR

Lots of folks are talking these days about bad children, bad boys and girls, and bad men and women. It is the old folks' fault. They are trying to do too much for their children, but it is the wrong kind of doing.

Father Zeller, a German preacher, said in 1827, "The Christian family parlor is the best reformatory." The family parlor has been banished, and a parked automobile substituted.

Pastor Brown, who worked among indigent children, said, 75 years ago, that "children should be as much as possible kept in the presence of relatives and neighbors among whom Providence has placed them." But such is not the case; generally the contrary is true, and the voice of strangers too often allures them. Especially is it true in the time of life which may well be called the critical age.

It must be admitted that the wild ways of the seashore life and the constant driving of automobiles are great for dulling the modesty of girlhood; the very nature of which drifts society a notch lower.

Make your first visit to such places and you will see things that you have been warned against by mother and father. Then keep honest tab on yourself and see how easy it is to drift, drift, drift downward.

Nothing real radical can be done. The current is too strong. It would be foolish to try to abandon the beaches, and we can not abolish the automobiles and many other things which may make it hard in this modern age to preserve our common decency. Yet it is never too late to act sensibly and at least hold up the highest ideals possible before the rising generations. It makes no difference about the blood—it can be improved.

MEXICAN PEOPLE BEGINNING TO BE ENLIGHTENED

Mexico, which is charged by the Catholic Church with governmental discrimination, seems not to be guilty of any such charge.

That is to say, the Mexican government welcomes the words and love of the Master in the hearts of her people. The government has recently published and distributed 50,000 copies of the four gospels among its citizens.

The fact is that conditions in that country work a hardship on the Catholic Church, which has, for 300 years, been the leading religion of that country; and it has failed to educate as much as one per cent of the population. Now, since new light has come in the Mexican life, naturally it is hard for the Mexican to divide Church and State in his mind, and his fight is not against the church but rather against the old form of government.

Under the democracy of Calles they see new opportunities that the old forms of government did not permit. Now they see educational equality and opportunities which neither government nor church bestowed upon them for three centuries. Not only does it mean a better Mexican government but it means a more useful Catholic Church in Mexico.

Things To Think About

By JAMES D. TAYLOR

ATTEND SUNDAY SCHOOL

Why is it that so many of us sit around on Sunday mornings and read the papers and smoke, too lazy to shave and attend Sunday school? One reason is because some of us look on Sunday school as being something for women, children, and weaklings. But those who fail to take a part in this important branch of the Lord's work are weaklings indeed.

It is most important that children attend regularly, for no young man or woman has a foundation strong enough to stand up against the hard problems of life unless they have had Christian training. Where can a better training be obtained than in the Sunday school? Watch the young boys and girls who regularly attend their classes and you will see them grow in personality, character, and intellectual power. Why should not this continue to adult life, to middle age, and even to old age? It can be, but the influence of the church and Sunday school will be needed.

So if you are among those who think that the Sunday school is for women, children, and weaklings, you are thinking wrong. The Sunday school is for you. It needs you and everybody else, and everybody needs to go to this school.

Get up early next Sunday and take the whole family to church for the Sunday school exercises. If your school is small and there is no class in which you will fit, start one for people about your own age. And then work for that class. We are usually happy when we are busy, especially when we are doing good work.

Go to Sunday school.

The electric plant with the reach

Before you buy an electric plant for your farm find out how far its current will carry.

This is a question of voltage. With low-voltage current a few hundred feet is the limit. But with the Kohler Automatic's 110-volt, long-distance current, almost any distance you might name, on the largest farm, is within easy reach.

You ought to see this great little power plant—the one without storage batteries. Our Kohler Automatic is ready for a demonstration any time you say, either here or on your own premises.
