Should Celebrate Armistice Day

Armistice Day will be celebrated Thursday, the 11th. No one day in all history has pleased so many people as did November 11, 1918, when twenty million soldiers and about five hundred million people engaged in war stood at dead silence as the clock struck 11, and ended the greatest war in all history.

Armistice Day should be celebrated by all the civilized nations, solely because it was a day that stopped war. We should rejoice at any day that brings peace. If we celebrate peace days and teach the value of peace to our children by proper celebration, it will be worth much more than all the cost.

Community Saddened by Brutal Murder

It is beyond memory of our oldest citizens to recall an act bringing forth a more general expression of sympathy than did the brutal murder of Gordon Yelverton. A shadow of sadness reaching every nook and corner, affecting nonacquaintances as much almost as intimate friends, was cast when the news of the dastardly deed was learned here late Saturday night. Every detail, right or wrong, with authority of it unquestioned, has been listened to with all eagerness by the people of the town. The capture of the murderer is being clamored for by hundreds of citizens here, and officers in several counties are working night and day on the case.

Can Preachers Collect Salary in Courts?

Gambling debts and debts for the illegal sale of liquor have no standing in the courts and can not be enforced, according to decisions of long standing.

gifts fail to meet expectations that there is no legal obligation incumbent upon the church.

comes before the State supreme court, the enforcement of the payment of a preacher's salary.

Upon the broader lines of Christian stewardship it would seem that at any rate, when the pastor has to go in court to procure his salary, he is rapidly coming on a par with a membership that refuses to keep its Christian obligations. Doubtless that church is not progressing.

This case comes from the pastor of a church in one of our North Carolina Counties. The pastor claims that he was to receive from the organized church board of his congregation a specified sum, which has been paid only in part. The balance due is the basis of the suit.

As to the legal status of Hpetra As to the legal status, it may be that our courts will place the pastors salary on a par with a gambler's debt—not a legal obligation.

The preacher claims it was a valid binding legal contract, while the flock leaders declare that the basis of the contract was nothing more nor less than the faith in the membership to contribute the agreed amount, which was to be on a free and voluntary basis; that the faith in the congregation to tribute the full sum had failed, and for that reason the payments had not been met as expected. The Church Board claims that all church obligations to raise funds for any purpose is by free and voluntary gifts, and that when such voluntary

Girl Burned Badly by Molasses Candy

"I have used your liniment, Hanford's Balsam of Myrrh, for a number of years and find it one of the best on the market. My little niece Mary L. McClean burned her hand very badly with molasses candy. We put her hand right in the liniment and kept using it from day to day until her hand was perfectly cured. It did not leave any scar so now it is impossible to tell which hand was burned."

Hanford's Balsam of Myrrh is a liniment and antiseptic wash for open wounds as well. It is particularly recommended for hard cases of strains, bruises, burns, and open wounds. Old sores that would not heal up, have given way before the healing effects of this remarkable remedy. Sold by drug stores.

Coolidge and His Tax Reductions

Coolidge seems to get considerable undeserved praise, for every time he says, "Lower the taxes," everybody shouts his praise. But Mr. Coolidge means income taxes, corporation taxes, and such things as the rich pay, not the taxes we pay on our houses and lands, horses, cows, and hogs. Nor does he say to reduce the tariff a little bit.

tax on nails and plows, hats and shoes. Mr. Coolidge's tax policies would not help more than one out of every ten persons. Why, then, should the other nine shout their approval? The kind of tax reduction we need is the kind that lowers everybody's a little bit.

We know we are new in hope, spirit and push, as full of good plans for the future as the schoolboy, and pushing towards the full achievements of real modern progress as can be found anywhere. Boston recognizes our church, our schools, and our factories as standing the equal of any to be found. They admit our highways stand at the top among other States, that the educational program has brought us from that old-time isolation to the forefront of knowledge to transform the great social and economic condition of our people toward industry and thrift.

The New North State

Boston has at last seen the South; that is, that part of the South called the Old North State.

are many of the old things to which we still cling, with glad and thankful hearts we can see sufficient material growth to warrant the "New North State" as being more appropriate than the "Old North State." We are old in but one way; just old enough to be one of the first and original of the thirteen States that not only dreamed of but which proclaimed and helped to secure our liberties.

One of the leading Boston papers—in fact, one of the country's great religious journals, the Christian Science Monitor, draws such a fine picture of our State that we forget all of the things that held us back a few years past; and as we look upon the picture of the day, we are forced to say the "New North State." Although there

CHILDREN'S ILLS

Arkansas Lady Says She Has Never Found a Better Laxative Than Theoford's Black-Draught.

Mineral Springs, Ark.—"We use Black-Draught in our family of six children," says Mrs. C. E. Nutt, of this place, "and we find it a good bowel regulator. I give it to my children for colds and constipation, or any other stomach disorders, and it certainly is very helpful. I have never known it to fail them. Where there are so many children, it is a good idea to keep a laxative on hand, and Black-Draught is what we use."

"I have taken it myself for indigestion. I would feel dizzy, have gas and sour stomach. I would also feel a tightness in my chest. I took a good dose of Theoford's Black-Draught when I felt that way and it would relieve me. I would feel better for days."

"My husband takes Black-Draught for biliousness. He says he has never found its equal. When he has the tired, heavy feeling, he takes Black-Draught night and morning for a few days and he doesn't complain any more. I sure do recommend Black-Draught."

Sold everywhere. Get a package of Black-Draught, today. Costs only one cent a dose. NC-178
