"The Wages of Sin Is Death"

Mighty Forsythe was the man whose lifeless body was found in Clayton, N. C. several weeks ago. Forsythe gained his mighty name because he towered over his fellow men in strength and because he ran over his own government in failing to observe its laws. But like all other earthly things, he came to the end of the way. He took with him in his unlawful whiskey traffic, men who were not even as good as he, and then the most dangerous thing on earth, a bad woman. So the vile gay party rode on, the levity increased, the rum ran freer, the conversation grew more vile, the temper lost its power, the liquor and the woman caused more trouble until Forsythe received a blow that felled him dead. Then came a new scene, the gayety disappeared, the ghost of death surrounded the gang, and the horrors of murder gnawed at their hearts. There is being tried in Smithfield two men and one 18-year old girl for murder, the fruits of liquor hauling and night riding. There is no boys and girls as an automobile party and girls as an automobile loaded with liquor and running the highways. Life and character are both in jeopardy.

Intolerance Is Foe of Peace and Happiness

Intolerance is the greatest hindrance to the peace and happiness of our people today. We don't have to go into the low dives of what we call the worst society. We find equally as much intolerance in our high governmental organizations and political circles as we do around the gambling den. In the church, you can find every type of intolerance that can be found in any organization in the world. We, too frequently, find the churchman who finds no other way of measuring the prity of his religion except by measuring it by the ipmurity of his neighbor's religion. We sometimes find a Gentile hating a Jew, and again we find a Jew hating a samaritan. We can follow the cycle of race hatred until we find every fellow hating everything and everybody but himself. After all it is selfishness that sets nation against nation, race against race, church against church and neighbor against neighbor. When man learns the lesson that he individually is only a part of God's great system and not the largest part, then he will have learned a valuable lesson. We shout Americanism with great pride, but not always as an expression of thanks for its greatness, but simply to prejudice the common mind against others. When we take the proper measurement of ourselves, we will find too much intolerance to fit the perfect measure required of real men.

Prospects of a Brighter Day

The people of North Carolina had cause to be glad last week when the student council at the University forced the expulsion of a number of young men charged with drinking and gambling.

The University, like most of the other schools of the State, some of which were church schools, has seen much drinking and gambling for many years. Now there is hopes for a better day. The students themselves, have already denounced brutal hazing that for so long harrassed the young students. Now they are saying you cannot participate in the dangerous habit of drinking and gambling. It seems to fortell the dawn of a brighter day, a better time and a safer day for the young men and women of our State.

The percent of student failures at our colleges has been very much enlarged by the gambling habit, the neglect of work on account of gambling has sent many fine boys home on account of grade failures. They leave the school and return to the old home town where they take their places on the loafers' benches. They find themselves unprepared for any useful occupation up their gambling in which keeping up their gambling in which game they are soon leaders of the innocent home boys to whom they introduce the new and sharper college games.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

Whereas, God in His infinite wisdom has ordained to call from this world, and to Himself one of our best women, and while in health one of the most faithful members, Mrs. R. S. Critcher, be it therefore resolved:

First, that we the Woman's Missionary and Ladies Aid Societies of the Williamston Memorial Baptist Church, while we deeply deplore the loss in death of Mrs. Critcher, yet we realize that our loss is her gain, and bow in humble submission to Him who doeth all things well.

Second, that the members of both societies extend to the bereaved family its heartfelt sympathy in this, the hour of their sore trial and trouble, and commend them for strength and support to Him who has declared that "It is the resurrection and the life."

Third, that a copy of these resolutions be spread on the minutes of the society, a copy be sent to the family, and the Enterprise for publication.
