Decentralization of Industry

General Guy E. Tripp, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, Says:

"Automobiles, good roads, and power from electric transmission lines are making possible the location and development of industry at any point. No longer is it necessary for industry to huddle together in the larger cities. Decentralization of industry has come and industries are now being located in the smaller towns and cities of the country."

THE FOREGOING VIEWS BY THIS GREAT CAPTAIN OF INDUSTRY ARE SIGNIFICANT OF THE TREND OF INDUSTRIAL THOUGHT

One hundred and five municipally owned or operated electric light and power plants in twenty-seven States were sold to larger power companies in 1926, making a total of over 1,200 municipal plants sold, abandoned, or shut down within recent years.
