Preparation the Key to Success

Just as the millions of school children are leaving the schools of the country, the big question is asked, "What shall I do? Go to work or pursue my school work for another year?" Certainly, the student, the boy or girl, have had no experience to guide them in the better way to take.

Yet there can be but one answer, and that is prepare for the tasks of life. For, be assured, you are going to meet other men all along the way who are prepared, who have laid a deep foundation of thought, and who will be able to summarize and grasp a situation quickly when it presents itself. The best opportunities will go to the best prepared.

The doctor and the lawyer are required to make better preparation than ever before. The same will have to apply to the merchant, the farmer, and any other class of men.

The immediate need has always allured man to sacrifice his better opportunities rather than wait.

A boy in the seventh grade may think rather than take up the hard task of the next four years of high school he had better go to work. He may have a job that pays $2 or $3 a day. But he should remember that if he goes to school he can earn much more during his life. It can be shown that for every day a boy or girl attends high school he reaps a reward of about $10 for each day attended. This, spread out in after life, is found to be of great value.

Don't be the boy or girl to sell your birthright for a mess of pottage and later on wake up to see how far behind you are. Go to school and prepare to take care of yourself and your own business. For nobody else will do it for you satisfactorily.

We are rapidly heading toward a new era of competition, in which only two things will count, knowledge (education) and perseverance. Neither one will win alone.

From a "Flying Fool" to a National Hero

Now, how sorry lots of us are that we were not "the flying fool," Lindbergh, when he left New York Friday morning alone in an airplane to fly across the Atlantic Ocean with Paris the first stop. All the papers said in big headlines "The flying fool hopped off this morning." On Saturday evening the same papers ran big headlines, "Hurrah for the American Hero." It is wonderful that a man can translate from a fool to a hero in a day and a quarter, yet we must admit that the Friday headlines did seem reasonable. For when any man sets out alone when he must be on the alert for a day and a night then another day, with nothing in sight most of the time except the deep blue ocean, it really is daring.

It is, however, no greater achievement than Columbus performed four centuries ago, nor is he any more a hero, and he, too, will be forgotten a thousand times before Columbus is forgotten. Not one person in ten remembers the year nor the names of the first two persons that flew across the Atlantic Ocean; and though it has been but eight years since Alcock and Brown flew from St. John, Newfoundland to a point in Ireland it has almost faded from the minds of the people. In that case, the flight was only half as far as that made by Lindbergh. While we are doing wondrous things today, we forget them tomorrow, for we are always rushing on to find something new.

Science has done wonders in this age, and it has gone to such an extent that we fear to doubt that man will yet do many more wonders, if he observes the laws of God's nature.

Things To Think About

By JAMES D. TAYLOR

REGENERATION

Until my friend moved to another State, we spent most of our spare time together. But when we were together, there were no spare hours. We both tried to live the Christian life, so, of course, we were happy. The creed of his church was somewhat different from mine. But I believed in the kind of life he lived, and I know he believed in the kind I tried to live. He went with me to my church, and the next Sunday I would accompany him to his. It did not matter what kind of Bibles or prayer books were used. We were not the least concerned in the local name of the church or its doctrines. Whether we stood to pray or knelt did not concern us. But we were interested in getting closer to Jesus and thanking Him for His goodness and seeking His continued good will. We knew that this could be done in any church, regardless of its doctrine. Jesus is interested in souls, not creeds. Jesus makes a study of the heart, not the doctrine.

Those who are trying to follow in the footsteps of the Master are not only offering peace but everlasting life, through Jesus; not only faith but a lasting love. They are not interested in any doctrine with justification alone but regeneration. That's the thing, my friends, regeneration.

We do not have to study and examine the doctrines and creeds of the various branches of the House of God to find the one in which Jesus will be found. Most of the branches are good, and if they are trying to obey Him they are good. May they all grow big. May they all continue to compete, and may this grow keener with the years. Jesus is interested in all of those that claim Him as the head. Every one that loveth is born of God, and every one that is born of God is Christ's. It is so simple. Jesus is so easily found. In all churches, in the home, the office, the street, everywhere. "Who shall receive a little child in My name receiveth Me." You can receive Jesus anywhere you like. And when you receive Him you will grow more like Him, and you will be patient and humble and generous and unselfish and kind, and courteous. And then any church will be God's church.

ACHED ALL OVER

Was Suffering Dreadfully, Just "Wasting Away." Book Cardui, and Says It Helped Her.

Arlington, Texas.—A resident of this town for many years, Mrs. J. H. Jackson, says:

"I had suffered dreadfully with an aching all over my body. At times my head would give me so much trouble I could hardly stand it. I had been in bed for weeks and it looked like I was just wasting away. I took 9 bottles of Cardui and my strength began to slowly return.

"Since that time I have used this medicine a good many times and it has always helped me.

"At one time I took Cardui for several months regularly. I would be afflicted with sudden spells of dizziness when I could not stand on my feet. Everything would turn black before my eyes and I would feel as if I were going to faint. At times I would be quite nauseated. I turned at once to Cardui and took it till I was safely through."

Cardui is a mild, medicinal tonic, made from purely vegetable ingredients. It has been in use for over 50 years, and in that time thousands of women have written that Cardui helped them back to good health.

NOTICE TO HORSE and MULE OWNERS OF MARTIN and ADJOINING COUNTIES

I am now prepared with a horse-shoeing shop, on wheels, to meet you at any point in these counties, to do shoeing or trimming of feet. No team should be plowed with long feet. They are subject to split and hold fifth, which creates sand gravel and thrush. Sand gravel will not enter a short sound foot. As I could not afford to drive ten or twelve miles to trim two or three sets of feet, see your neighbors and get them to cooperate with you. Set a day when convenient and notify me, and I will meet you at any place you select. Sincerely,

I Will Be At Dr. Thigpen's Stables on Tuesdays and Fridays
