Protecting Home Industries

Bakers in the town of Washington are up in arms against out-of-town bread wagons. They have asked the town board to increase the license on bread wagons from out-of-town bakers from $15 to $100 per year.

We see those same Washington wagons on our streets every day. Now, what will happen if they tax others out of their town and we tax them out of our town?

Doubtless it would be a wise thing to do. Why should Williamston bread eaters pay the expense of a man and the cost of heavy trucks to haul our food from Washington, Greenville, Rocky Mount, or Norfolk when we have a bakery in our own town?

Competition is generally a good thing for the people, but when half a dozen trucks a week drive many miles to sell baker's bread in a small town, it means one of two things, smaller loaves or higher prices.

More than half the bread used in Williamston has been trucked in. Now, we have a bakery that puts out standard goods. Now, if it pays Washington to protect its local institutions why would it not be a good thing for Williamston to do the same thing?

It may be a little on the line of the trust principle to do so, but if service and quality is maintained at a financial saving, the people will have no kick.

THE LETTER BOX

THE PASSING OF A CHRISTIAN GENTLEMAN

A Saint of God has been called to his reward.

In the passing of the Rev. A. J. Manning, this community has said adieu to one whose life and character proclaimed him to have achieved the noblest distinction among men; a Christian and a gentleman.

In matters religious he believed in, he loved, and he followed his Lord. In his relationships with others, he betrayed that keen sense of fairness and courteous consideration springing from a gentle nature. Always sympathetic and interested in the happiness and welfare of others, he gave himself unsparingly in his ministrations. He acted as pastor, counselor, and friend to hundreds in the community who rise up to call him blessed. "Well done, good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joys of thy Lord."

In appreciation,
 Rev. CLARENCE O. PARDO.

NOTICE OF RESALE OF LAND

GOT RID OF POISON

Kentuckian Finds Black-Draught a Great Aid in Relieving Constipation, and Soon Feels O. K.

Catlettsburg, Ky.—Mr. Miles Hopkins, of 1216 Center Street, this city, says:

"There was a time when my health was not so good. I suffered a great deal from gas pains. My system was saturated with poison which was not properly eliminated. From time to time I had severe headaches, and I felt sluggish and dull."

"I know of Black-Draught as a medicine for constipation, so I thought I would try it. For a while I took a small dose every night until my system was rid of the accumulated poison."

"I gained in weight and my general health was good. That experience made me realize the merits of Black-Draught. I kept it in my home and when I begin to feel lousy and dull, I take a dose, after which I feel O. K. again."

"People generally do not realize the risk they take in allowing constipation to run on. I try to keep my system cleaned, and I find Black-Draught a great aid in doing this."

Things To Think About

By JAMES D. TAYLOR

REWARDS

Everybody is cheering Lindbergh. He deserves it. He is among the very few who receive recognition while they walk the earth. But all those who do great things are recognized some time somewhere.

Recently a small pamphlet, "Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam," by Edward Fitzgerald, sold at a book sale for the large sum of $3,200. There were 250 printed originally, and the author gave 200 to the publisher free of charge. The publisher sold them for one cent each.

Another book, Gissing's "Workers in the Dawn," was sold the other day for the sum of $1,175. Gissing was little heard of until after he died. Before he died in Switzerland, he lived for a while in Chicago, and his diet was peanuts. Both he and Fitzgerald passed through life almost unheralded, but they left behind works to make them immortal.

The things we do may seem small to us, but little do we know what they may amount to in time.

and the stipulations not having been complied with, and at the request of the holder of said bonds, the undersigned will, on the 1st day of August, 1927, at the courthouse door of Martin County, at 12 o'clock noon, sell the following described land:

Situate in Poplar Point Township, Martin County, N. C., adjoining the lands of J. I. Taylor, John A. Pierce, and others, and bounded on the north by the Red Reebuck Estate; on the east by Wm. James Coburn; on the south by the lands of John A. Pierce, and on the west by the lands of J. I. Taylor, known as "The John Hurst lands." It being the lands devised to Mary Edmondson by her father, John Hurst; and containing seventy-five (75) acres, more or less, and described more definitely as follows:

Beginning at a lightwood stump on the south side of Wild Cat road; then up said road to Jesse I. Taylor's line, a corner, a gum; thence down Bates Branch to a gum on the opposite side of the canal; thence south across the marsh to the hill to a pine; thence east to John A. Pierce's line, a corner, a stump; thence a straight line to the

 integrity of Camels

THIS is the age of frankness and plain-speaking, and it rates Camel first among cigarettes.

For Camel is that kind of a smoke. Camel is all quality and no false front or show. Camels are made of the choicest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos grown—no substitutes. And the finest blending ever given a cigarette.

It is Camel character that has won the smokers of today—such honesty of taste and fragrance as never was known in a cigarette before. You'll find all dreams of smoking pleasure realized in this modern, quality cigarette.
