SAME FORCE AT FARMERS WAREHOUSE

22 Years of Service Is Record of Farmers and Merchants Bank

HOPE TO MAKE NEW RECORD THIS SEASON

Frank C. Bennett, H. L. Barnhill, and Hubert Morton, Owners

With the same management, and with a continued high quality of service and top-notch prices assured the Farmers Warehouse opens next Tuesday with one of its brightest years in view. With its management, the Farmers Warehouse is making one of the strongest bids for tobacco as any house in the world. It does not offer the things impossible, but it does offer, and does so in no uncertain terms, the things that are so essential in the running of a warehouse.

Its personnel is not lacking in experience; the house, while not the largest in the world, is as suitable for the sale of leaf tobacco as any in the world. This house made an enviable record last year in the business here, and even a better record is expected this season. The managers are out for the record; and if the best of service, top-notch prices, courtesy, and fair treatment have anything to do with it, they will make it, too.

During the past several months, these men have been at work; and that they will meet with success is assured. Mr. Hubert Morton, one of the firm's proprietors, has put forth every possible effort in making this one of the leading markets in the State. He has been on the market for the past several years; and during that time he has had much to do with its growth and success. He is as well experienced in the business as any man you can find, having gained training and experience on the larger markets of

CARSTARPHEN'S LONG A GUIDE

Has Been Leading Mercantile Establishment Over Half Century

"I haven't been to town since Mr. Carstarphen built his new store," was the statement made by a lady not so many miles away. It isn't the fact that this lady does not visit much that we are interested in right here. It is the fact that the store has been built for more than 50 years and its record of service to the people of this community during that time and before that we turn our attention to.

Few business concerns can tell of such a record. There must be a cause; and it can't be nothing more than the confidence and fair deal-

Merchants Extend Cordial Invitation

Acting through the Merchants' Association, every business house in Williamston sends out to everyone a cordial invitation to visit our town, to call in to see them, whether they wish to buy anything or not.

ings carried on by the store's management that has caused an unbroken chain of successful business for that length of time. During that long period of time, this store has played a prominent part in the mercantile business of the county; and it continues as the years go on.

The management of the store has cooperated in every way to add to the development of town, community and county. It takes those things that are too disheartening

FACILITIES FOR STORING WEED

Every Compartment in Union Storage Warehouse Leased

Every compartment of the Union Storage Warehouse has been leased by the tobacco companies having buyers here. The use of this storage house means much to the market as does every storage house to any market. This extra storage space prevents tobacco from being piled up in the warehouses after it is bought; it enables an even buy since otherwise the market breaks would crowd the market.

The Union Storage Warehouse is located on the tracks of the A. C. L. and it is just behind the warehouses making it convenient to carry tobacco

PROGRESSIVE BANK BIG AID TO MARKET

Safe, Sound, Conservative Have Been Guiding Principles Local Bank

Ever adhering to the principles that go to make up sound, safe, and conservative banking, the Farmers & Merchants Bank here has, in its 22 years of service attained a commanding position in the banking circles of county and State. That it has had its trials and stood the tests has been proved when it pulled through with flying colors the trying times of 1907, 1914, and 1920.

Where steps of progress have been made, the bank in the majority of cases has lent its aid; and oftentimes gone forward toward bringing about better conditions in both home and business. Of this it does not boast; it would rather have it known that this is its duty. But of what it does boast, not in any superior way at all, is of its strength; Uncle Sam has nothing on it when he comes down and compares, man to man, to get the strength of the two.

Back of the institution are men with sound and conservative thoughts; men ever on the alert to protect the interest of more than 3,000 depositors who have placed their faith and confidence upon their judgment.

The bank has been in its new quarters almost a year, where it was obliged to move to take care of its ever-increasing business. This bank invites your business, and its directors guarantee you the absolute safety of funds deposited with it. They especially invite you to
