Watts read a selection dealing with the same subject. Mrs.

UNEASY SLEEP

"Nerves Were All to Pieces," Says Lady Who Tells How Cardui Helped Her When She Was Run-Down.

Hopkins, S. C.—Mrs. G. W. Arrants, of this place, says: "I was suffering from spells of weakness. These would come on me suddenly and I would have to give up and go to bed. For several months I did not sleep well at night and got no rest from sleep. I was very nervous. I could not bear the least noise. The children worried me. My nerves were all to pieces. I had taken Cardui several times before, so I sent at once for some and began to take it again. At the end of a short time I felt much better, so I kept right on taking Cardui. When I would feel a nervous spell coming on, I took it more frequently for a few days. I can certainly say Cardui helped me wonderfully, for after a time the nervousness disappeared entirely. I could sleep at night and my general health was better. My appetite picked up and I enjoyed my meals, too. Thousands of other women have told of the benefit they have received from the use of Cardui. Keep it on hand, to take when needed. A medicine of long-established merit; mild, harmless. At all drug stores. NC-188

Wheeler Martin gave an interesting reading, and Mrs. J. G. Godard had current events. The musical program included a solo by Mrs. J. S. Rhodes accompanied by Mrs. W. B. Watts and piano selections by Mrs. W. C. Manning, jr.

Surpassing Its Own World Record

In developing the Pontiac Six, Oakland set out to produce the finest six-cylinder car ever offered in the low-priced field. When presented, the car won immediate and nationwide public acceptance, sales during 1926 exceeding the highest previous mark ever attained by a new make of car during its first year.

Yet, so pronounced has been the satisfaction of Pontiac Six owners, that Pontiac Six sales have already passed the 120,000 mark for 1927. Oakland views with justifiable pride the implicit confidence and trust the public has bestowed on Pontiac Six. And Oakland pledges its word that this brilliant car shall always represent supreme value in the low-priced six-cylinder field.

New lower prices on all body types (Effective July 15th): Coupe, $745; Sport Roadster, $745; Sport Cabriolet, $745; Landau Sedan, $845; De Luxe Landau Sedan, $925; The New Oakland All-American Six, $1045 to $1265. All prices at factory. Delivered prices include minimum handling charges. Easy to pay on the General Motors Time Payment Plan.

Good Taste in Footwear

The day of tricky footwear is past—simplicity is the chic thing now. Good taste in design, restraint in color, excellence in quality—these are the things the smart woman looks for today. And since they are the qualities that distinguish all Margolis Brothers' footwear, it is here the woman comes for good footwear.

Who Gets the Gravy?

It is quite generally admitted that the cooperative cotton marketing associations are the only real stabilizing factors in the cotton market today. Of whatever value cooperative cotton marketing is in the stabilization of prices the non-member gets practically the same benefit as the member.

It is only the member of the organization, however, who gets "the gravy," the benefits of proper grades and staples through our expert classing and sales departments.

The most ignorant cotton farmer in North Carolina can grow "7-8," or a still shorter staple of cotton and can sell it "hog round" on local markets.

The more intelligent class of cotton producers, however, are producing a better type of cotton, types that are so much in demand by our Carolina mills.

For five years we have been encouraging our members to grow those better types of short staple cotton, and we are proud of the progress that they have made along this line.

73 per cent of our receipts up to October 10th were grading strict middling and better.

In staple 36 per cent of it was 15-16 inch, and 33 per cent was stapling 1 inch and better than inch.

Last season we netted to our members 88 points for 15-16 inch over 7-8 inch cotton, and we averaged 145 points for 1 inch staple over the 7-8 inch. These were especially high premiums, and premiums vary from year to year, just as the price of cotton varies.

But a 50-point premium on 15-16 inch is $2.50 per bale; 100 points on 1 inch is $5.00 per bale (our premium on 1 inch was 145 points, or $9.75 per bale); and 150 points for 1 1-16 inch staple is $7.50 per bale for premiums. Our premiums on 1 1-16 inch last year was 315 points, or $15.75 per bale. Are these premiums not worth saving?

A premium of 50 points for strict middling cotton, and a premium of 50 points for 15-16 inch staple gives the farmer an advantage of $5.00 per bale over a classification of 7-8 inch middling.

A premium of 500 points for 1 1-8 inch means $25.00 per bale over and above 7-8 inch; and often represents the difference in dollars and cents between a thrifty, intelligent farmer and a careless and indifferent farmer.

Cooperative cotton is usually warehoused promptly from the gins, thereby eliminating country damage and all other waste.

It is classed by experts who are licensed by the United States Department of Agriculture.

It is sold through our various sales offices directly to the spinners in even running lots and classed out according to their various needs and demand.

OUTSTANDING FEATURES OF OUR NEW CONTRACT

First, are our optional pools. The member has the option of placing his cotton in our regular or seasonal pool, taking the year's average price, or he can place it in the optional pool and have it sold any day or any month that he may determine.

Second, a withdrawal clause gives the member the right to withdraw any time after delivering one year's crop of cotton.

It will thus be seen that we are depending on rendering a service to our members for our future success and not upon the rigidity or inflexibility of a contract.

Old members of the organization are still entitled to sign the new contract without paying an initiation fee.

All cotton producers are cordially invited to visit our offices and to inspect our methods and operations to the fullest extent.
