93 Per Cent of Tuberculosis Curable If Treated in Time

Good news comes from the North Carolina Sanatorium, which states that 93 out of every 100 cases of tuberculosis can be cured if discovered in time and treated properly. This statement is based on results already accomplished at the sanatorium.

When we think that within the short space of a quarter of a century that the great white plague, consumption, once among the most dreaded diseases afflicting man, has been so nearly mastered by the science of the age, we have cause to be glad. Now, the greatest danger of the disease is not to know it until too late.

But One Way to Make a Living—Work for It

In England there are 16,000 ways to earn a living. Of course, that beats America a long way, because in this country there is but one way, which is to work for it. It is a fine thing, too, that we have but one way, because as simple as it is, there are many who miss that one.

Your University—Use It

The University of North Carolina is now educating the people of the State from the mountains to the sea, even in old age. President Chase says the idea that education is finished upon graduation from grade school, high school, or college, is gradually being replaced by the conception that education is a process that should continue through life.

President Chase says the University of North Carolina has made provision for students whose circumstances will not permit their attendance upon classes at the university. Its plant of extension service calls for the widest distribution of service, offering instruction in fourteen bureaus, embracing practically every line of useful knowledge.

The University offers this help to any person in North Carolina and asks the people to use it. "The University of North Carolina is yours—use it."

Proper Caution Necessary in Handling Fires

In the face of all the warning and precaution against fire, almost half a million dollars' worth of property was destroyed by fire in the State in October. This applies to only 172 fires, which were reported to the State Insurance Department. Of course, many fires were not reported, which would increase the loss.

There is no way to estimate how many fires were prevented by the campaign urging the people to use more care and guard more stringently against fires.

It is practically certain that if proper caution had been exercised, much of the half million loss in October would not have occurred. Caution against fire should be marked on every door post.

THINGS TO THINK ABOUT

By JAMES D. TAYLOR

God created every man and woman for a purpose. You may think that your simple efforts may not be worth while, but who can say what they may amount to in time? Influence goes far and often lingers as long as life itself. Little did the mother of Edgar Allen Poe know what her influence would mean to her son. In The Richmond Inquirer, for November 29, 1811, appeared this advertisement:

"TO THE HUMANE HEART: On this night Mrs. Poe, lingering on the bed of disease, and surrounded by her children, asks your assistance; and asks it perhaps for the last time. The generosity of a Richmond audience can need no other appeal."

This was the mother of that strange and unhappy man whose poems somehow reach down to the deepest chamber of the human heart. When Poe died, he had very few friends. The world knew little of him then. But, now, in the Hall of Fame in New York City may be found his bust. He was one of the greatest geniuses the world has ever known. The man has long since gone, but his works will live.

You, too, may pass through life without much notice, but you may leave behind something that will help others to "carry on" when the day is very dark.

Poverty is not a thing. It is merely a lack of supply. Connect up with supply and the poverty vanishes. To look upon poverty and sickness as sent by God, and therefore inevitable, is the way of the weakling. God never sent us anything but good. What is more, He has never yet failed to give those who would use them the means to overcome any conditions not of his making. Sickness and poverty are not of His making and they are not evidences of virtue, but of weakness. God gave us everything in abundance, and He expects us to manifest that abundance. If you had a son you loved very much and you surrounded him with good things which he had only to exert himself in order to reach, you wouldn't like it if he showed himself to the world half-starved, ill-kempt, and clothed in rags, merely because he was unwilling to exert himself enough to reach for the good things you had provided. No more, in my humble opinion, does God.

Man's principal business in life, as I see it, is to establish a contact with Universal Mind. It is to acquire an understanding of this power that is in him. "With all thy getting, get understanding," said Solomon.

Having that, nothing else is necessary, for through it all other things will be added unto you. It will solve any problem that can arise in your life.—Robert Collier.

Old King Devil Alcohol Is the Issue

All this Al Smith Catholicism scare counts for nothing. It is not a question of religion that is moving the Smith boom; it is old King Devil Alcohol that is turning on the Smith howl.

Tammany is the center of a rum-soaked self-conceited political system that believes in nobody butshem that believes in nobody except themselves and respects the opinions of none but their own.

When we consider that the Smith boom is the voice of the whisky bums and that it is being heralded by a heavily subsidized national press, we need not wonder that we hear so much about the Al Smith campaign. Yet the electorate of this country is too jealous of the achievements accomplished in the splendid system of constitutional laws which experience, in its wisdom, has wrought for their government, to trust them in the hands of a constitutional nullificationist like Al Smith, as proved by every act as a public servant in his State.

The people of this country are not looking for a clan leader, such as Al Smith has proven himself to be as the idol of Tammany. The people want a president who is a statesman and a constitutional champion.

Generous America

America has done many generous things since the firing at Bunker Hill, but it is doubtful if we have ever done a more generous and friendly thing than when we sunk 800,000 tons of the finest warships ever designed just to please England and Japan. England showed her generosity by sinking 500,000 tons of old hulks; and Japan showed hers by sinking 325,000 tons of worthless junk.

Of course, the average unthinking American patriots shouted and called it a big thing, because it put us ahead of other folks. Certainly, England was glad, because it put their navy ahead of ours and enabled them to write "Mistress of the Seas" after their navy.

But the biggest measure of joy came to the ship builders and equipers. It looked good to them so they built, go to the bottom of the ocean, so they could set up a new cry of danger and the need of protection against foreign invasion, in order that a new and bigger ship-building program might be launched, whereby they might add to their already large riches. They are the fellows who twist the tail of Congress and bugaboo the people into fear.

These fellows are not confined to this side of the Atlantic. They work in harmony with their friends on the other side.

It matters not where the trouble comes from; the cost is charged to the people.

Camel

One of life's great pleasures is smoking

Camels give you all of the enjoyment of choice tobaccos. Is enjoyment good for you? You just bet it is.

If all cigarettes were as good as Camel you wouldn't hear anything about special treatments to make cigarettes good for the throat. Nothing takes the place of choice tobacco.
