

WM. A. GRAHAM IS ELECTED HEAD NATIONAL BODY

N. C. Commissioner of Agriculture Honored At Chicago Meeting

Raleigh, N. C., Dec. 2.—Messages of congratulation are being received by Commissioner of Agriculture William A. Graham, who was elected president of the National Association of Commissioners of Agriculture, at its annual meeting in Chicago. Mr. Graham became a member of this organization in 1924, and by 1926 he had risen to the rank of vice president, which led him to the president's office for the coming twelve months. He succeeds Commissioner Berne A. Pycke, of New York.

"I am extremely gratified to learn of Commissioner Graham's election as president of the National Association of Commissioners of Agriculture," said Governor McLean today. "This is indeed an honor for the State, as well as the head of its department of agriculture, and he has my best wishes for a happy and successful administration. This association should be in a position to offer helpful suggestions on many national farm problems, and I am sure Commissioner Graham will work in harmony with his associates."

From O. Max Gardner, of Shelby, member of the State Board of Agriculture, came this message:

"I have just heard of Mr. Graham's election, and as a citizen of the State and a member of the Board of Agriculture I am highly gratified. His election is a recognition of the State and is well merited by Mr. Graham's active and energetic interest in the agricultural problems of our State."

Former Governor Cameron Morrison, who appointed Mr. Graham to office in December, 1923, after which he was nominated and elected for a term in his own right, expressed deep gratification at the Tar Heel Commissioner's election, declaring that it was a high honor to have a North Carolinian head a national organization given to the consideration of country-wide agricultural problems.

Commissioner Graham's efforts in behalf of diversification as a cure for overproduction, especially of cotton, have brought him into prominence in this and other Southern States. Also, his stand in New Orleans against price forecasts for cotton issued by the Federal Government won for him nationwide publicity. He believes that a State of diversified crops will mean a State of happy and prosperous farmers.

His election to this high office means that Commissioner Graham has become a national figure.

Harrison Bros. & Co. are offering especially attractive reductions on women's dresses, slippers, and coats. Boys' suits and overcoats are also included in the reductions. Mr. Harrison stated that the decrease in price on these articles was so great that a clean sweep could be expected within a very short time.
