Bryan's Treaty Worthy of Emulation

Why should a North Carolina newspaper attempt to belittle the memory of Bryan's treaty with France? The fact is that it was the kind of treaty all nations should live under.

It seems that some people advocate the kind of treaties that will breed war rather than secure peace. The treaties forced on weak countries by strong ones, like unjust laws, always cause disturbance.

Beaufort Takes a Forward Step

Beaufort County took a forward step this week in electing a county traffic officer. Every county in the State should follow her good example.

It may be that many lives will be lost and many people crippled by carelessness and recklessness, but the restraint which the mere thought that the eyes of the law may be on them will cause people to exercise more care in the operation of motor vehicles, which are today causing more violent deaths than any other one agency.

enough each day to go twice around the earth, we may expect many accidents. Yet if drunkenness and carelessness are the greatest causes of auto accidents, we must admit the need of traffic officers and give the law an opportunity to protect the innocent and thoughtful.

We have a good code of automobile laws. Enforcement is what we need, and a law without enforcement never serves the people.

The lawbreakers will doubtless more than pay for the traffic officer in fines, forfeitures, etc., but if the taxpayers have to pay the entire salary of the officer it will be abundantly worth it.

A Million-Dollar Crop of Peanuts

Martin County farmers are said to be making preparations to grow a million dollars' worth of peanuts again this year.

The North Carolina-Virginia crop last year proved to be about 65,000,000 pounds from the predicted production, based on the acreage.

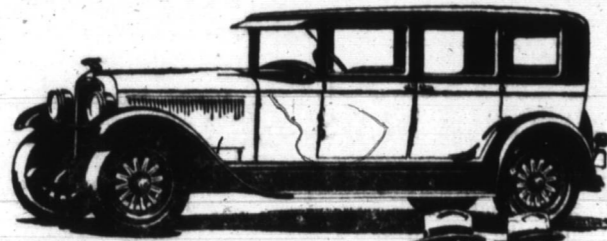

After all, the small crop may have been a blessing to the farmers, for a big crop might have forced a low price.

According to the experience of a period of several years, the 1927 acreage was ample to fill the demands of a normal year.

The farmer who follows the normal course and plants a reasonable acreage of all general crops is usually the farmer who comes out best at the end of the year. It is seldom safe for a farmer to give a crop too much acreage this year because it brought a fair price last year.

A million-dollar crop is not too big for Martin County.

QUOTATIONS

You will find as you look back upon your life that the moments that stand out above everything else are the moments when you have done things in a spirit of love.—Henry Drummond.

Do today's duty, fight today's temptation; and do not distract yourself by looking forward to things which you can not see, and could not understand if you saw them.—Charles Kingsley.

One of the real dangers God's children need constantly to beware of is the placing of their own stipulations in conflict with His guidance.—Rev. Wm. Porsess.

In the Christian view, the body is not a shell which the spirit reluctantly inhabits and exultingly sheds. It is not something to be despised as evil. It is of God, sacred here as a vital phase of personality and, therefore, continuing its sacredness in the future organ of expression which becomes its successor. Many religions have arrived at the conviction that man's spirit must survive the dissolution of the physical; only the revelation that culminates in our Lord's resurrection assures us of the immortality of man's full personality.—Selected.

To know Christ is the way to grow in holiness. Christianity is not a religion of rules. It is the religion of the divine example. Try to follow the blessed steps of the most holy life. Take His advice. Ask yourself in the moment of perplexity or temptation, what would He do if He were here? Nothing else will so surely lead us into the way of holy living.—George Hodges.

THE LETTER-BOX

DRAINAGE IN HYDE COUNTY

Hyde County land being very low, a great deal of draining is necessary to keep it in a condition so that it can be cultivated successfully. Every farm has to have its various ditches and canals. Many of the farms are drained into the Mattamuskeet Lake, from which the water is pumped by one of the largest pumping machines in the world into the Pamlico Sound.

Another phase of drainage in Hyde County at present, as some of the citizens think, is the draining of their purses for taxes. About the only industries in the county are farming and fishing. There are no factories, railroads, bus lines, or anything that can be taxed to help take care of the county's expense. Thus it is necessary to tax the farmers and other few and small industries heavily in order to keep the county schools open and to take care of other necessary county expenses.

Still another, and the saddest phase of drainage in Hyde County, is that it is being drained of its youth. In recent years Hyde County has sent more young men and women to colleges in proportion to its population than any other county in the State. A very small percentage of these return to their homes to live after they are educated; but, on the other hand, they go where inducements are offered to young people. It is perfectly natural that they should. What will be the consequence? Shall Hyde County be denied the splendid citizenship she has produced and is due? And will the only important industry, farming, be left in the hands of the more ignorant and less competent citizens in the years to come? Because Hyde County is mainly dependent on the farming industry and because farming conditions apparently offer very little inducement to young people this drainage may mean that the results will eventually be disastrous. Hyde County is only an extreme case of the condition in most of the farming districts in the South. It is time for somebody to look into the social conditions of the rural people for the social part is one of the chief factors in keep the youth at home.

It is indeed gratifying to know of the club of young men at Jamesville who are determined to be "better" farmers. Somebody is to be congratulated on starting a movement that will be of inestimable value if it is carried on.—And would that it were used at many other places. A man can, as a rule, plan his work and then successfully work his plan; so if those young men at Jamesville are planning for the future, success is almost sure.
LEON MALONE.

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS

Many people apparently are putting off paying their State and County taxes. Only a small percentage have paid their 1927 taxes thus far.

All taxes must be paid before the first day of May, 1928, or the property will positively be advertised. The County authorities have no discretion in this matter, and every county is obliged to obey the State laws.

No discounts or penalties are imposed in connection with the payment of taxes, but all taxes must be definitely paid by the first of May. There will be no extension of time. The county authorities are not permitted to give this extension and they would be violating the law if they did so.

Pay your taxes now and avoid having your property advertised.
